SON OF R. I. GAS CLERK WINS IN EDISON TESTS

Inventor Stumped by Own Questions.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A happy old man and the brightest young man in America eyed one another proudly at noon today on the green lawn of an estate in East Orange, N. J. The beaming old man was Thomas A. Edison and the brilliant young man was Arthur O. Williams Jr., of East Providence, R. I., winner of the Edison scholarship in a field of 49 contestants.

"Aw, gee, Mr. Edison," said the freckled-faced Rhode Island youth, "I didn't expect to win."

The aged inventor is deaf and did not hear a word, but he knew the best move, for he reached out his handsto the boy and nodded to a yardful of photographers, and the biggest day of his seventeen years began for young Mr. Williams.

Crowded Day for Boy.

It was a crowded day that opened on the sloping lawn of Edison's Glenmont home, trailed away to a battleship in Brooklyn navy yard, halted at a broadcasting station and ended at a railway station on a New England bound train. There was to have been a visit to city hall for official recognition from Mayor James J. Walker, but the mayor got his hours mixed and the Edison contestants were advised in time to avoid an embarrassing situation.

Throughout the day the brightest of the right young men who finished "far in the lead of his nearest rival" moved as befits a champion—on the shoulders of his loyal friends for a good part of the time.

Young Mr. Williams can go to any school he chooses and he is going to Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Get Honorable Mention.

There were no other Edison scholarship awards, but nine of the youths were given honorable mention. In the order of their standing they were: G. Dudley Milchreest of Hartford, Conn.; Gordon K. Burns of Maplewood, N. J.; De Wolf Scyatzel of Findlay, O.; Frederick C. Roop of Washington, D. C.; Walter Wrigley of Haverhill, Mass.; Charles H. Cloukey of Lansdowne, Pa.; James H. Comm Jr. of Wichita, Kas.; Gordon K. Carter of Charlottesville, Va.; and Royal K. Peake of Detroit.

A couple of days ago Henry Ford, one of the judges in the brain test, stole the show with an interview on the machine age, but the cameras and pencils were aimed at young Mr. Williams and old Mr. Edison today.

An Outstanding Winner.

Young Williams was graduated from high school last spring as valedictorian. He made a high grade on the Edison examination, being rated 92.7 on the technical part and 91.1 for the entire paper. His average, according to the judges, was so far ahead of the others as to make him an outstanding winner.

Williams is a dark haired, gray eyed boy with a straightforward, charming manner. He posed for pictures without embarrassment and answered questions without hesitation. He is the son of a gas company clerk and had saved money for college by clerking in stores outside school hours. He is a direct descendant of Roger Williams, Puritan founder of Rhode Island.

Before naming the winner, Mr. Edison sat in an easy chair on the lawn and discussed God, inventors, the price of wheat and how he would have answered some of his own examination questions. The old inventor characterized himself as "an empiricist, a man who experimenta."

Not Interested in Ancestors.

After shaking hands with Wilbur Houston, winner of last year's brain test, young Williams submitted to an interview. He was asked about his illustrious ancestor.

"Roger Q. Williams, the aviator?" queried a late and uninformed reporter. The bright young man grinned.

"I have never given much thought to ancestors," he said. "I am more concerned with the present."

Young Williams does not care for athletics, although he does swim. He likes physics better than tennis and is going to specialize in physics when he gets to M. I. T. He does not read much and is not interested in literature, "except as a background."

A Junior Scout Master.

"I spent a lot of time working with the Boy Scouts in East Providence," he said. "I like scouting. I was a junior scout master."

An effort was made to have Williams tell how he answered the exam-

I. C. TO ASK BIDS ON RANDOLPH STATION TODAY

Deal with So. Parks and City O. K.'d.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Illinois Central railroad will ask bids today on the construction of a new Randolph street suburban station, a temporary South Water street suburban station and the first 400 feet of a new Randolph street viaduct. The aggregate estimated cost is $1,300,000. Contracts will be awarded and actual construction will start in about three weeks, according to Vice President F. L. Thompson, in charge of terminal construction.

This is the first result of a decree signed yesterday by Circuit Judge Feinberg, confirming the supplemental contract between the city, the south park board and the Illinois Central, adopted by the city council last October. Technically the court action approved only new boundary lines and certain easements.

As a link in the outer drive across the Chicago river connecting the south parks and Lincoln park systems, the south parks board desires to extend Field boulevard—which runs northward from the center of the Field museum, across the Illinois Central tracks—by means of a viaduct to the river and then eastward to the proposed bridge site. The granting of this easement was approved by the court.

Agree on Riparian Rights.

In addition the south parks commission desired the riparian rights to the Illinois Central property along the lake between the river and Randolph street. The Illinois Central consented to transfer these rights if given the privilege of filling in a strip of the lake between the river and Randolph street for a width of 280 feet. This agreement also was confirmed by the court. The triple contract contained several other agreements which only became effective when the court approval was obtained yesterday.

The site for the south end of the outer drive bridge is at present in the lake. It is east of the strip which the Illinois Central acquired. Now the south parks commission must obtain the permission of the federal government to fill in a spot for the south abutment of the bridge, and it is said that the plan for the bridge is contingent upon this site.

Board Awards Contracts.

The Lincoln park board has assumed that the necessary permission will be obtained. It has awarded a contract for the substructure and superstructure of a viaduct between Ohio street and Grand avenue. It has awarded a contract for the substructure of the viaduct between Grand avenue and the Ogden slip, and for the substructure for the bridge across this canal, as well as other incidental contracts.

Supt. George Donoghue of the south parks commission said yesterday that the commissioners probably will have their plans for the viaduct south of the river ready in sixty days.

Other Improvements Involved.

The triple agreement between the city, south parks board, and the Illinois Central relates to other improvements in the Illinois Central territory north of Randolph street. The railroad has agreed that the city may extend Wacker drive east of Michigan avenue along the south bank of the river. This will require a bond issue.

Another stipulation requires the double decking of Beaubein court between South Water and Randolph streets by special assessments.

"The board of local improvements is ready to undertake its part of the task," said President Michael J. Faherty yesterday, "when the property owners file a petition or the city council passes an order. There will be no delay in the board of local improvements."

The agreement requires the Illinois Central to extend Lake and South Water streets eastward from Michigan avenue over a viaduct to the projected Field boulevard.

"Extensions Must Wait."

"It is not advantageous to do that work while constructing the new suburban stations," explained Vice President Thompson of the Illinois Central yesterday, "but as soon as that is completed we can proceed with the extensions of those two streets."

"How long will that take?" he was asked.

"Eight or nine months," replied Mr. Thompson.

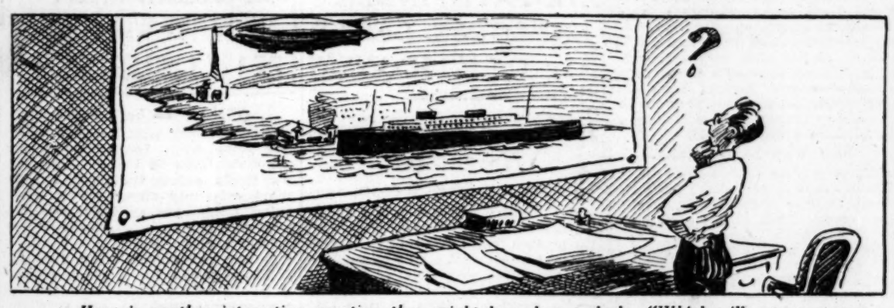
ANOTHER EDISON QUESTIONNAIRE

Forty-nine contestants for the Edison scholarship prize were asked this hypothetical question: "You are the head of an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are: A brilliant scientist, 60 years old; two half breed guides, ages 58 and 32; the scientist's wife, interested mainly in society matters, age 39; her little son, age 6; the girl you are engaged to marry; your best friend, a young man of your own age, who has shown great promise in the field of science; yourself. Which would you choose to live and which to die?"



Here is another interesting question they might have been asked: "Which will get you across the ocean quicker? An airship that can cross the Atlantic in a little over three days but has to wait for favorable weather before starting, or a fast liner that can cross in a little less than five days but can start regardless of weather conditions?"

And here is another they might have been asked: "In the long run, does high pressure salesmanship break down sales resistance or fortify it?"

FIND A WORKER FOR DETROIT MAYOR PUT $2,000 IN BANK DAILY

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A bank book showing daily average deposits of more than $2,000 was found today in an apartment occupied by Marjorie Mansell, entertainer for radio station WMBC, held for questioning in connection with the slaying of Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley, political commentator for the station.

Police said the book was issued to Egbert M. Hoffman, political worker for Mayor Charles Bowles in the recall campaign which ended a few hours before Buckley was slain. Hofmann is sought by detectives. He was known to police as "the man with the badge," because he wore a gold police badge which he said he had purchased himself. He styled himself a "civilian aid" to the narcotic squad.

Miss Mansell, according to police, is a sweetheart of Pete Licavoli, notorious hoodlum who has eluded police since the Buckley slaying.

Better Homes, More of Them Hoover's Goal

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—President Hoover launched an undertaking today to provide the American people with more and better homes. He announced the organization of a nation-wide investigation to accomplish these objects:

1. To increase the supply of capital available for home building.

2. To reduce the cost of financing the building and purchase of dwellings on the installment payment plan.

3. To bring within reach of the most modest means homes of artistic design equipped with every comfort and convenience.

Sees Higher Living Standard.

The President looks to the results of this inquiry to point the way to removal of the cause of the present stringency of capital for home building which is aggravating the present business depression and unemployment. He envisages the project as an important economic reform that will raise the American standard of living another notch and go far toward alleviating the present and future periods of hard times.

Mr. Hoover announced the undertaking at the semi-weekly meeting with newspaper correspondents, prefacing his statement with the laughing remark that he is appointing another commission.

"After wide consultation with interested leaders," he said, "I have decided to undertake the organization of an adequate investigation and study on a nation-wide scale of the problems presented in home ownership and home building, with the view to the development of a better understanding of the questions involved and the hope of inspiring better organization and removal of influences which seriously limit the spread of home ownership, both town and country."

Inquiry Privately Financed.

The inquiry, which will be privately financed, will be made by what will be known officially as the "White House conference on home building and home ownership." It will be organized by a planning committee of which Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont will be chairman and the other members of which will be the heads of the American Civic association, American Farm Bureau federation, American Federation of Labor, American Home Economics association, American Insti-

8 Men Riddle Zuta Ally at Lake Resort

An unidentified gangster, not clearly identified but believed to have been Solly Vision, or Albert Bratz, henchmen of Jack Zuta, manager of the vice interests of the Moran-Aiello gang, was shot to death last night on the dance floor of the Lake View hotel on Upper Nemahbin lake, near Delafield, Wis.

Three gunmen surrounded the victim as he was about to drap a nickel in the slot of a player piano and poured a volley of shots into his body. They escaped with three companions who had guarded the doors and two who waited in two high powered automobiles outside the dance hall.

The murder preceded by a few hours the discovery that Alphonse Capone, gang leader and deadly rival of the Moran-Aiello faction, had recently returned to his Cicero haunts from his estate at Miami Beach, Fla.

The slayers of the man shot down at Delafield were believed to have been Chicago gangsters by Sheriff Phil Herbrand of Waukesha. A few guests of the Lake View hotel who were dancing in the open air pavilion adjoining the hotel proper, told the sheriff of the murder.

Shot Down in Dance Pavilion.

They said the assassins showed no hesitation in their attack. The three men, one carrying a riot gun, another a sawed-off shotgun and the third a pistol, walked boldly into the pavilion and two of them approached the bartender, threatening him with their weapons. The third strode up to the victim and shot him down. According to some of the guests, the other two also fired at the dying man as he lay on the floor.

Sixty bathers from the lake shore nearby rushed to the pavilion at the sound of the shots, but were thrust back at the point of the slayers' guns and watched helpless as the three assassins climbed into their automobiles, both of which bore Illinois licenses, and speeded away.

Mrs. J. M. Molash, wife of the owner of the Homestead hotel at Delafield, told Sheriff Herbrand that she had known the dead man as J. H. Goodman. She said he had registered at the Homestead hotel with a companion on Tuesday, declaring his home was at Aurora, Ill.

Companion Comes to Chicago.

The companion left for Chicago on Wednesday, Mrs. Molash said, and Goodman went to the Lake View hotel. This sudden change from one hotel to the other, the sheriff considered, was an indication that the dead man had sought to mask his movements. The possibility was also considered that the victim's companion had returned to Chicago in order to dispatch the slayers to Delafield.

The Chicago police were unable to trace a J. H. Goodman who might have incurred the enmity of gangsters, but the supposed name of the dead man gave rise to the report that he might have been the H. Goodman who was indicted on July 5 on charges of conspiracy in connection with the alleged lottery fraud conducted by Matt Foley, former assistant circulation manager of the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Goodman was described in court as an assistant driver for the Herald and Examiner circulation department. Early this morning an executive of that newspaper declared that he had seen Goodman in Chicago at 9 o'clock last night and that there was no possibility that he was the victim.

Description Fits Zuta Allies.

The description of the dead man, it was said at the detective bureau, tallied in most particulars with photographs of Bratz and Vision, companions of Zuta, the Moran vice overlord, who narrowly escaped assassination on June 1 while riding in the automobile of Police Lieut. George Barker at State and Quincy streets.

The victim, who had dark hair and

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, Montreal, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The British dirigible R-100, a sailor home safe from the sea, swung gently at her mooring mast tonight behind her 3,500 miles of epic voyage that almost ended in disaster.

Speeding down the St. Lawrence river valley last night, just 150 miles from St. Hubert's mast and safety, the mighty air voyager was struck by a "cyclonic current" that hurled her 2,500 feet straight upward and tore a great hole in her fragile armor.

The damage was repaired and the big ship proceeded slowly into Montreal, anchoring at her mast at 4:38 a. m., just 78 hours and 51 minutes after taking off from Cardington, England, on her flight to the new world. This was a record for the westward crossing.

Ship "Stands on Its Nose."

Officers of the big ship made light of the danger encountered. The men, not so constrained, spoke more freely.

Just the other side of Quebec, they said, a strong up current of cyclonic force caught the R-100 and hurled it, practically standing on its nose, for almost 2,500 feet in less than half a minute.

It was during that terrific moment, when all aboard "just crossed their fingers and waited," that a strip of fabric about 15 by 6 feet was ripped from the port fin, opening a hole as big as a barn door into the great envelope, exposing the intricate interior of the largest airship ever built to the fury of the storm.

Officers Minimize Dangers.

In radio reports from the ship itself and in interviews after the dirigible was moored today officers minimized the dangers that had been encountered. They said the peril had never been critical and that repairs effected in midair quickly rendered the damage of negligible importance.

But the men scoffed at the suggestion that there had been no serious danger and pointed for evidence to the rude patch that but partially closed the jagged opening and almost covered the fluttering tatters of the airship's torn "skin."

They said that from late afternoon until midnight Assistant Coxswains G. E. Long and L. A. Moncrieff, with a crew of 16 men, including every rigger aboard, worked out on the stripped skeleton of the damaged fin, clinging to the metal frame above the waters of the St. Lawrence, and finally stopped the largest opening with a patch of spare fabric.

Not Completely Repaired.

Even then not all the holes were covered and today, as the great ship swung easily at the great mooring mast in the soft sunshine, hundreds of visitors stood underneath and gaped upward at a still uncovered opening a few feet distant from the bulging patch over the larger tear.

During the hours that the riggers and other members of the crew were bending all their efforts to closing the gap in the side of the R-100 the ship was dodging about the sky between thunderstorms and for a time even drifting backward as the engines were stopped, either in an effort to make the repair men's task easier or in fear that further breasting of the wind until repairs were made might increase the damage already done.

Similar to Damage of Graf.

American reporters who viewed the patched R-100 today were reminded of a similar mishap that befell the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin on the first of its flights to America.

On that occasion a storm in mid-Atlantic ripped an even larger hole through its fabric than the one in the R-100. Just as was the case today, it was not then known until after the ship landed and was seen at close quarters that it had really been in more serious danger than its officers had announced or probably even realized themselves.

Crew Gets Day's Liberty.

The 44 men on the R-100 debarked almost as soon as it was secured to the mooring mast this morning. They were all given a day's liberty and the ship was turned over during refueling to a detachment of the crew sent over here from England several months ago.

Next week there begins a two week program of receptions and then the ship, repaired and ready once more to thunder down the highways of the sky, will take off for the return journey to its home port in England. The R-100 will not visit the United States on this flight.

The following official statement re-

Food Prices Are Lowest in Six Years

Chicago food prices are down. A survey discloses that the average price of subsistence has been cut 6 per cent in six months. All of the cooking materials are not lower, however. But enough other articles are cheaper so that the Chicago housewife is finding that it costs less to feed the family than at any time since 1924.

Good coffee, which was selling at 75 cents a pound several years ago and 60 cents last year, is 45 cents today. Meat prices are down 8 per cent since 1929. Sugar is offered at sales at 5 cents a pound, the pre-war bargain price. Eggs are cheaper than in 1913. Lard is selling at half its peak price.

As a well known food purveyor said yesterday: "It's a good time for the housewife to fill the pantry shelves with cans and bottles. She'll likely have an inventory profit before long on what she buys today."

Chicago Tribune

garding the damage to the R-100 was issued tonight through the press liaison officers of the airport:

"Examination of the damaged fin of the R-100 shows no structural defect or failure, but stripping of fabric over fairly extensive area on under sides of horizontal fins. Materials for repair are on hand at St. Hubert and work is proceeding. It is not possible this evening to make any final statement as to proposed flights in Canada, but it is probable that no extended flights may be undertaken. In any case, the flight over Ottawa, scheduled for Aug. 5, must be postponed."

What Was Learned from Flight.

Sir Dennistoun Burney, designer of the R-100; Maj. G. H. Scott, famous British airship commander; Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, captain of the R-100, and Squadron Leader Johnston, navigating officer, talked of the flight as soon as the ship was made fast.

The most valuable thing learned on the trip, the officers believed, was that the airship was the most comfortable means of transportation. The course over the north Atlantic they regarded as the most feasible for commercial use if larger ships are used.

"It was a very good test of the ship's ability," Sir Dennistoun said. "We ran into one of your thunderstorms last night and rose to 4,000 feet to get out of it.

"We never had a bump all the way across the Atlantic ocean and everything went perfectly until we got to Father Point. There we ran into a bad bump and the jar tore the fabric on a stabilizing fin. But the damage was temporarily repaired and was negligible.

Chief Benefit Is Experience.

"The chief benefit we derived from the trip was experience. We need long flights to gain the experience in handling lighter than air craft. There was not a movement across the Atlantic and the ship behaved perfectly. We dodged to get into favorable winds once or twice, but the air was calm.

"The most impressive thing about the trip is this: On Monday night I entertained a party at dinner. We left Cardington at 9:46 p. m. and if we had been lucky at the latter end of the trip we would have been here in time for dinner last night."

New Plan for Ballast.

Maj. Scott, captain of the first British airship to fly, inventor of the air ministry's method of airship mooring, and one of the greatest of lighter than air experts, has developed a new plan for collecting water for ballast while flying. He mentioned it casually while chatting after the landing.

He had been asked about ballast.

"Oh, when we need more water we just collect it on the fly. We did it all the way across. We built a sort of little gutter arrangement along the top of the envelope and collected rain water. The enormous bulk of the ship makes it quite easy. Then we piped the water down, strained it and put it into the pipes.

"We managed to get three tons that way. It doesn't cost anything and works perfectly any time it rains—and, of course, there is always lots of rain around the Atlantic."

Compared with Other Flights.

The R-100 set a record for westward dirigible crossing of the Atlantic ocean. The ZR-3, built in Germany for the United States navy and later renamed the Los Angeles, crossed in October, 1924, from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J., in 81 hours.

The Graf Zeppelin took 111 hours and 46 minutes for its first crossing from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst in October, 1928, but made its second crossing in 93 hours flat in 1929.

The R-34, British dirigible, crossed from Scotland to New York in 1919 in 108 hours and 13 minutes.

Eastward ocean flights have been made by dirigibles in much faster time. The Graf Zeppelin has the best record—55 hours and 24 minutes from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen in August, 1929. It crossed the Pacific in September, 1929, from Tokio to Los Angeles, in 67 hours.

DIARY OF SKY LINER

ST. HUBERT, Que., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Notes from the diary of a sky liner, culled from the official log of the R-100:

"Took off from Cardington mooring tower at 3.48, British summer time, July 29, and shaped course for Liverpool, flying at about 1,200 feet. We had on board 10,440 gallons of fuel and 5.4 tons of ballast. Total persons on board, 44.

"At 10 to 10:15 o'clock a wonderful view was obtained of the northern Irish coast, cut short by a band of intensely white low clouds.

How They Passed Time.

"All on board are now settling down to ship routine. Cards and sleep are the most popular methods of passing the time.

"Everybody has been able to keep warm comfortably without recourse to flying kit, and it has not been necessary to switch on the electric radiators in the passenger accommodation.

"A whale was sighted on the port helm.

"No complaints from anybody about anything. Food has been really excellent.

"Second day. In the first twenty hours we used just over 2,200 gallons of petrol.

"Most of the day the ship was flying in a low cloud or fog and this was turned to advantage by collection of water condensed on the outer cover.

"The sweepstake on the ship's day's run was won by Eldridge with 1,095 nautical miles.

Both Fins Damaged.

CAPONE BACK IN CHICAGO

Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone, fresh from his victory over Florida authorities, who failed by legal means to banish him from that state, has returned to Cicero, Ill.

The gang leader held a reception for about 100 of his followers last night in the Hotel Western, 4821 West 22d street, Cicero. He had returned to Cicero from his estate at Palm Island, near Miami Beach, on Monday and came by plane, according to reports.

Capone is reported to have told his friends he found the Florida climate too warm for comfort of late and is contemplating establishment of summer quarters in the lower Michigan resort country.

Florida authorities had done as much as the climate to make matters hot for the gang chieftain in Dade county. First the Miami Beach city council passed a law declaring any person without visible means of support a vagrant—but Capone's lawyers succeeded in establishing that the law was aimed directly at Capone and it was repealed.

Home Declared Nuisance.

Next his palatial island home was declared a public nuisance and the authorities instituted padlock proceedings. Out of those proceedings—in which, incidentally, Capone was the victor—grew a case in which Capone was charged with perjury. He won acquittal on this charge also.

Flushed by his triumph over Dade county authorities, Capone contemptuously announced two weeks ago that, having established his right to residence in Dade county, he would leave the county and establish residence 35 miles north in Broward county.

Construction work on a $375,000 residence has already begun and the assumption is that Capone will occupy it before snow flies next winter in Chicago. Sheriff John E. Traeger of Cook county, advised early this morning of Capone's presence in Cicero, averred that, although Capone heads the Chicago crime commission's list of public enemies, there was nothing his office could do about it.

Sloan, today to Milo R. Kaltbie, chairman of the public service commission. The companies are prepared to make a cut of $5,396,000 in their annual revenue, according to their analysis of the offer.

Doctor Sues Hotel for Fall from Chair; Asks $50,000

Dr. Edwin Tuteur, a physician of 526 Roscoe street, instituted suit for $50,000 damages yesterday against the Edgewater Beach hotel. The bill, as filed in Circuit court by Attorney John Bloomington, sets forth that while Dr. Tuteur was attending a banquet at the hotel 18 months ago his chair slipped from under him, throwing him to the floor and permanently disabling him. Dr. Tuteur, who is 52 years old, is now in Los Angeles, under treatment for his injuries, according to his attorney.

BERLIN-CHICAGO FLYERS LAND AT ICELAND CAPITAL

Make 900 Mile Ocean Hop in 12 Hours.

BY AXEL THORSTEINSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 1.—Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, the Berlin to Chicago flyers, are resting here tonight after a 12 hour, 900 mile flight from Kirkwall, Orkney islands, to Kallardanes, 30 miles from Reykjavik, where they landed at 7:30 o'clock this evening (3:30 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time).

Hirth and Weller said they were feeling fit, but that they had experienced numerous hazards in their hop from Kirkwall. Their tiny Klemm Daimler monoplane encountered considerable fog in the early stages of the flight, they said, but from the Faroe islands on the weather was excellent.

Run into Poor Weather.

With a capacity load of fuel, the flyers took advantage of the first break in weather and left Kirkwall at 9:40 o'clock this morning. Despite the good visibility and favorable winds at the start, low clouds and rain were met shortly afterwards. Experts at the Hamburg weather station, who had been in constant touch with the flyers, were worried by reports of a northeast gale which was raging on the south coast of Iceland.

The flyers were first sighted at Horna fjord, on the eastern coast of Iceland, at 4:10 p. m. They were flying along the coast in a westerly direction. At 6:15 p. m. they were sighted at Vik, on the south coast, flying at great speed. Shortly after this they were seen near Kallardanes, where they made a perfect landing on an improvised landing field.

Next Stop at Greenland.

The completion of this hop puts the airmen ahead of one of the most dangerous sections of their flight over the open ocean. Their next objective will be Julianehaab, Greenland, from where they will fly to the coast of Labrador.

The time of both of these hops will be regulated by the weather, the flyers having promised the German air ministry to take off only upon advices of favorable conditions.

Takeoff Is Perfect.

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, German trans-Atlantic air adventurers, today hopped off from Kirkwall on their first over water jump toward the American continent. The takeoff from this point was encouraging. Weather conditions were ideal.

Hirth left Kirkwall at 8:15 a. m. for Swanbister Bay, where the plane awaited him, fueled and ready for the start. Weller remained at Kirkwall to await favorable weather news. Fifteen minutes after his mate departed Weller received the forecast. His face beamed. "It couldn't be better" he exclaimed. Another moment and the flyer was on his way to Swanbister by motorcar.

Black Cat is 'Good Luck.'

"That's good luck," declared Weller when a big black cat darted across the road in front of the machine just as it neared the flying field.

The plane ran smoothly down the field almost to the edge of the bay. The airport is small but was sufficient for the takeoff. The last seen of the Germans was a small black dot low over the northern horizon, near the hills of Hoy island, where the aviators took their bearings for the run to Iceland.

ACCUSE BOND CO. OF FAILURE TO DELIVER STOCK

Several complainants appeared at a hearing conducted by the "blue sky" division of the state's attorney's office yesterday and charged that the Equitable Bond and Mortgage company, 130 West Washington street, had sold and failed to deliver a total of 2,000 shares of Corporate Trust stock.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Weinberg announced that the inquiry would be resumed at the state's attorney's office on Monday, with Assistant State's Attorney Theodore Miller in charge.

The Equitable Bond and Mortgage company was named in an involuntary petition in bankruptcy on Tuesday and it was estimated that the liabilities would exceed $1,000,000. Only E. L. Augustus, newly appointed vice president, appeared for the concern yesterday. He stated that an audit of the books had not been completed.

When the petition was filed, the Investors' Protective bureau announced that the company was accused of failure to deliver 4,000 Corporate Trust shares and 500 shares of Inland Utilities stock.

Seizes Gun of Sleeping Cop and Kills Another

While Frank Harrington, colored Gary patrolman, slept in the rear of a harness shop at 1105 Jefferson street, Gary, yesterday, Nick Loslovich, 1113 Jefferson street, seized his revolver and killed Ignatz Gupanic, 37 years old, a worker living in the same building. Loslovich escaped, but surrendered to the police later. He declared that the shooting was accidental and that the gun was discharged while he was toying with it. Police, however, held him on a charge of manslaughter.

AIR PATHFINDER EXPLORES LAKES OF WISCONSIN

Home After Trip to Northland.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

For the man who thinks that yachting is a bit too slow to keep pace with the modern tempo and that rail travel has too much coal dust and cinders, but who likes scenery and wants to see it in a hurry, there is a short air cruise northward from Chicago that will likely strike his fancy.

It lies north on a bee line from Chicago's lake front, follows the curling, wooded shore of Lake Michigan to the mouth of Green bay, and turns back, winding over the lake spangled countryside of Wisconsin to Chicago. THE TRIBUNE'S air pathfinder, 'Arf Pint, set out on that cruise Thursday, spent the night on Chambers island, a place of sylvan beauty in the middle of Green bay, and yesterday the air cruiser came home.

Hunt and Follow Lakes.

Lakes were hunted out and followed on the return cruise. It used up the middle of the day, but it was a leisurely, winding journey and the cruiser dipped to the ground here and there where unusually bright spots beckoned it earthward.

The 16 inhabitants of the primitive island, which is little more than two hours from Chicago's loop, gathered on the beach at 10:30 yesterday morning to watch the big red and yellow Sikorsky waddle into the water, take to the air, and swing southward, flying high over the broad, quiet waters of Green bay.

The 'Arf Pint swung over dredges digging a deeper channel for shipping into the city of Green Bay and dropped into the airport to pay its respects to the local pilots. Out of Green Bay the cruiser followed the Fox river into Lake Winnebago, sailed past Oshkosh and came down at Fond du Lac at the end of the lake for gas. From there the ship hopped westward to Green lake, one of the jewels of the Wisconsin lakeland, where the late Victor Lawson once had his summer estate.

Passes Over Many Lakes.

The ship dropped its hook in a quiet bay among a fleet of cat boats and the passengers went ashore for lunch. Homeward the plane took a course that lay over a landscape of farmland spotted with smaller lakes, passed directly over Delavan lake, Lake Geneva, Lake Como and Fox lake and ended up in the harbor off Monroe street.

For the flying sportsman who just wants to ride around and go places and see things, the 'Arf Pint points the way to the Wisconsin lakeland.

CAMP CONDITIONS IMPROVE AFTER TWO BOYS DIE

Favorable conditions at Camp Duncan, a Y. M. C. A. camp near Volo, Ill., in Lake county, following the deaths of two boys from spinal meningitis, were reported yesterday by Dr. Henry R. Krasnow, a member of the board of health, two of whose sons are at the camp.

A third boy, first believed to have the disease, was found to be suffering from a common stomach disorder. He is Alfred Essar, 10 years old, 1019 South Damen avenue. The two boys who died were William Malmet, 13 years old, 1227 South Spaulding avenue, and Theodore Brant, 13 years old, 1627 Lill avenue. Dr. Krasnow said that a nurse was in constant attendance at the camp and a physician makes two daily visits.

A report that 4 year old Harry Craig of Druce's Lake, a boy not attending the camp, had died of meningitis in the Lake county hospital, Waukegan, was found erroneous yesterday. The boy is critically ill of inflammation of the brain, according to hospital authorities, but may recover.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A former army flyer, Lee Gehlbach, led ten contestants in the all American Air Derby across the finish line at the Detroit city airport today, averaging 127.1 miles an hour over the 5,541 mile course to win an award of $15,000.

Setting out from Detroit July 21, Gehlbach, flying for a group of Little Rock, Ark., business men, led the Derby contestants on almost every lap from Detroit to New York, sweeping down to Houston, Tex., across to Los Angeles, and back over the mountains and across the middle west to Detroit again.

Flying a special Command airplane, he used an elapsed time of 43 hours 35 minutes and 30 seconds, four hours less than Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., second place winner.

Gehlbach led the first arrivals on the final lap from Chicago to Detroit, arriving at 2:44 p. m., making the lap in one hour 42 minutes and 28 seconds. Bayles, second to arrive, came in at 2:58.

PAIR TO START GLOBE CIRCLING FLIGHT TODAY

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—John Henry Mears, theatrical producer and writer, who has twice established records for encircling the globe, only to have them taken from him by faster travelers, plans to start early tomorrow on a third trip around the world. His first trip was made in 1913, when he accomplished the circuit in 35 days, 21 hours, and 35 minutes. He used all manner of transport except aeronautical.

Two years ago, with the late Capt. C. B. D. Collyer as pilot, Mears flew around the world, except for the ocean crossings, in 23 days and 21 minutes. This time, with Henry J. Brown, veteran mail pilot, at the controls of the plane, Mears hopes not only to cut his own record but to surpass that made last year by the Graf Zeppelin, 21 days, 8 hours, and 26 minutes.

The two men will take off early tomorrow for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where they will refuel and then fly the Atlantic to Baldonnel, Ireland. The next stop is Berlin and then Moscow. From Moscow they expect to fly 1,900 miles across Siberia to Nova Sibirsk, then to Chita, 1,600 miles eastward, and Khabarovsk, in Manchuria. The next scheduled stop is Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, whence they hope to fly to Chignik, Alaska. Seattle is the next scheduled stop, then Spokane and Chicago, the last stop before returning to Roosevelt field.

Drowning of Betty Ayres Is Declared Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the death of Miss Betty Ayres, 18 years old, of 5200 Sheridan road, who was drowned last July 18 when the speedboat Whoopee rammed the auxiliary yawl Scarab off Morse avenue, sinking it. Testimony at the hearing indicated that the Scarab's lights were burning properly but may have been obscured by the position of the boats.

CASE NAMES SIX 'FRAUD WARDS' AT MAGUIRE HEARING

Charges Kenna with Ballot Stuffing.

Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles Center Case, prosecuting the petition to oust Fred V. Maguire as chairman of the board of election commissioners, yesterday declared that the 1st, 20th, 24th, 25th, 27th, and 42d wards are "deliverable." In these wards, he said, ballots are weighed instead of counted, and ballot boxes are stuffed in various ways.

Case also stated that Dr. Samuel Epstein, lieutent of City Collector Morris Eller, boss of the 20th ward; State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, Joseph Gordon, 27th ward politician, and the Eller organization recommended judges and clerks on their willingness to commit vote frauds. His petition charges that Maguire permitted persons with police records to act as judges and clerks of election.

Names Kenna in Frauds.

During his testimony on frauds in the 1st ward, Case charged that Michael ["Hinky Dink"] Kenna, former alderman and Democratic ward committeeman of the 1st ward, had personally and through his followers stuffed ballot boxes. Kenna appeared at the hearing after the charge was made and denied Case's statement. He will appear as a witness for the defense Monday.

During the hearing Case was questioned by Attorney Albert Fink, representing Maguire, on his relationship with Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs and a member of the Deneen faction, who once served as an election commissioner. Judge Jarecki interrupted to ask Case about a rumor that Case is to be given a federal judgeship by the Deneen organization if he is successful in the action against Maguire.

"That is so ridiculous that it is terrible," Case said. "How can I get a federal judgeship? I am a Democrat."

Judge Tells of Rumor.

"The only inference that I could draw from the rumor was that Czarnecki may have made that promise," said Judge Jarecki. "It is not improbable that a statement of that kind was made, because I heard Czarnecki, himself, peddling federal judgeships several times to other people and when this rumor was carried to me it might have been made out of whole cloth, but I wanted you to know."

Czarnecki ridiculed the judge's suggestion, when he was informed of it.

"The statement is malicious and untrue," Mr. Czarnecki said. "Judge Jarecki is doing everything possible to show that he is my enemy. The only judgeship, which I discussed at length and was interested in for years, was that of Judge Jarecki, who now rewards me with these utterances. I did not discuss any judgeships with Mr. Case."

The hearing was continued until Monday morning. Case will be questioned further by Attorney Fink.

WOLFE TELLS HIS POSITION ON BOAT CAFE

Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe issued a statement yesterday regarding the status of the boat Rotarian, which is operated as a floating restaurant on the south side of the river, between Clark and La Salle streets. The boat has no city permit, but the owner, Walter J. Powers, has applied for a rental figure, and when the bureau of compensation fixes a rental basis Commissioner Wolfe will issue a permit, he said.

Powers said he has operated the restaurant, specializing in fish and chicken dinners and steaks and chops, for three years without interference. He had a government permit, he said, and he moved the boat to Wells stret, at the request of the government, during the construction of the new Clark street bridge.

"I don't know why I should be bothered," Powers said. "I have lived in Chicago for fifty years and have never been arrested or accused of wrongdoing. My brother, John, was an alderman for forty years, and his record was clear, too. I don't sell any alcoholic drinks on the boat, and I violate no laws. I have a restaurant and a cigarette license, and I have always been willing to pay the city whatever is due."

Crippled Husband Held for Slaying His Wife

Believed mentally deranged, Anton Gettke, 56 years old, a cripple, was being held in the Lake county jail, Crown Point, Ind., yesterday, for murdering his wife, Ida., age 53, in their Cedar Lake cottage southwest of Crown Point. Gettke, forced to walk on crutches by an attack of locomotor ataxia, called to neighbors for help after shooting his wife and admitted the crime when he surrendered.

HAMMERSTEIN FACES COURT AS RESULT OF FIGHT AT REHEARSAL

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The participants in a physically expressed personal difference of opinion between members of Arthur Hammerstein's "Luania" company had a second hearing in court today.

The court controversy has to do with Mr. Haskell's reproving young Mr. Rand for making too much noise at a rehearsal.

Haskell, according to his direct testimony, went downstairs and told his troubles to Hammerstein, who sent a certain "Shorty" to the stage to tell the Rands they were fired.

When Haskell returned to the stage, he said, Rand set upon him and hit him in the eye with a first which was decorated with a seal ring, making stitches in the Haskell face necessary. As Haskell got to his feet, he said, Hammerstein appeared and took a swing at him with his left.

Even in the courtroom Haskell was bellicose and said he planned to "expose orgies" in Hammerstein's rooms at the theater.

NAVY PACT RITE ENDS SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

British Lawmakers Get Long Vacation.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Parliament rose today after the ceremony ratifying the naval treaty. The session was one of the longest in recent history and the two houses will now enjoy a three months' holiday. Tonight the members are dispersing to all parts of the country, some to indulge in sport but others to mend their fences in anticipation of a lively session beginning next October which may possibly lead to a general election. The king's speech proroguing parliament congratulated the government on its labors for the betterment of the people of England, for the handling of the naval treaty, and for the improved relations with foreign powers.

Today's session was devoted to cleaning up various odds and ends of legislation and a statement by Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, on the government's plans for the relief of agriculture.

Naval Treaty Made Law.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—With a final flash of color and century old formality the London naval treaty bill today became an integral part of the statutes of the British realm.

The ceremony giving it royal assent was enacted in the austere atmosphere of the house of lords adjoining the gallery where the famous five power conferences were called into session by King George last January.

The king was not present today. In fact, only six of the lords besides the five royal commissioners were there. These half dozen nobles were mere dots on the expanses of the red leather benches.

U. S. Tourists Present.

The commoners trooped to the bar of the house of lords when summoned by the "black rod." The strangers' gallery included a few American tourists.

Before the throne chairs on a special scarlet bench of their own gravely sat the king's commissioners in long ermine and scarlet robes and cocked hats. They were the lord chancellor, Lord Sankey, Earl Stanhope, Viscount Brentford, Lord Thompson, and Lord Passfield.

Use Norman French.

As a clerk read the title of each bill he made a deep bow before the royal commissioners and the clerk of parliament intoned the ancient ritual in Norman French, "Le roy le veult" (the king wills it) and thus the royal assent was given and each bill became law.

Precisely at 4:30 p. m. the clerk announced "the London naval treaty act," and bowed again before the grave commissioners. "Le roy le veult" proclaimed the other clerk as he faced the commoners at the bar.

LAWYER ELLER IS PROMPT IN ABORTION CASE

Client Once Defendant Before Him as Judge.

Former Judge Emanuel Eller appeared in the Felony court yesterday morning promptly at 9 o'clock representing Mrs. Christine Sidivy, midwife, 1809 Loomis street, who for the third time was facing a charge of abortion. When accused in the second case she was a defendant before Judge Eller who then sat in the Criminal court.

Attorney Gerald Trunbell, representing the complaining witness, Agnes Marcan, 4931 West 24th street, Cicero, was not so prompt in his appearance in court yesterday, due, he said, to an understanding the case would be late on the call. He asked the reinstatement of the case which practically had been dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Protest by Prosecutor.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast objected when Policeman Raymond Carroll of the Canalport station said the complaining witness could not be found. Mast said he could find her himself if necessary. Later the woman was found at her home where she said a policeman had notified her Thursday night to appear in court next morning, but she said she told the policeman she could not, as her physician said she was too weak to leave her home.

An observer of the Chicago Crime commission was watching the proceedings. It was recalled that Judge Eller and Frank J. Loesch, president of the crime commission, had exchanged remarks in 1927 when Mrs. Sidivy was obtaining numerous continuances in Judge Eller's court on a charge of murder by abortion. At that time John Dawson, husband of Mrs. Nancy Dawson, who died after an operation she said was performed by Mrs. Sidivy, had asked the help of the crime commission in bringing Mrs. Sidivy to trial.

Dawson said he had been threatened by Harry Hochstein, a political leader of the 20th ward which has long been dominated by Morris Eller and his son, Emanuel. The crime commission's report was that Judge Eller was holding the case on call without setting a trial date. Judge Eller suggested the possibility for citing Mr. Loesch for contempt of court for criticizing the delays, but nothing came of it.

Case Finally Dismissed.

Dawson said he had an offer of a job in New York and wanted to go there, but he wanted Mrs. Sidivy brought to trial before he departed. The indictment had been pending two years without action, he said. Judge Eller finally transferred the case to another court, and after Dawson went to New York Mrs. Sidivy was freed for lack of prosecution.

The first abortion charge against Mrs. Sidivy was brought in 1922. It was not prossed by the state's attorney's office.

The present proceedings were started after Agnes Marcan visited Dr. Robert S. Harwood, 831 South Oak Park avenue, who ordered her to a hospital on June 23. Dr. Harwood notified the police that an abortion had been performed and on his report Policeman Carroll was directed to sign a complaint against the midwife.

In court yesterday police said that a fourth abortion charge is to be brought against Mrs. Sidivy, but it is delayed pending the outcome of the patient's illness.

DROUGHT BAKES WHOLE U. S.; NO RELIEF IS NEAR

Midwest July Rain Only 35 Pct. of Normal.

The drought continued throughout the central states yesterday with no immediate prospects for relief. Forecaster W. P. Day announced that indications are for mostly fair weather with rising temperatures. The drought which has damaged crops over wide areas in the last month is still holding sway.

August opened in a manner indicating that the all time heat records set in July may be equaled this month. Slightly warmer temperatures were reported in most sections of the country. As the heat continued to increase the drought damage, Meteorologist C. A. Donnel analyzed the rainfall in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Lower Michigan and Wisconsin for the year and through the drought of the last month.

35 Per Cent of Normal Rain.

In the five states the precipitation in July was only 35 per cent of the normal July rainfall. The rainfall for the first seven months of this year was 21 per cent below the normal for this period. The figures on July rainfall [in inches] for the five states follow:

State.	Normal July.	July, 1930	Decrease
Illinois	3.30	1.22	2.08
Indiana	3.40	1.09	2.31
Iowa	3.83	.91	2.92
Michigan	3.00	.73	2.27
Wisconsin	3.72	2.33	1.39
Total	17.25	6.18	11.07

State.	Normal.	1930.	Decrease.
Illinois	22.00	17.36	4.64
Indiana	24.18	18.70	5.48
Iowa	19.92	15.19	4.73
Michigan	18.67	14.64	4.03
Wisconsin	17.90	15.63	2.27
Totals	102.67	81.52	21.15

Records of the weather bureau show that the driest spot in the five states is Estherville, Ia., where no rain has fallen since July 8. Boone and Sioux City, Ia., have had no rain since July 21 and Terre Haute, Ind., Urbana, Ill., Hillsboro, Ill., Marshalltown, Ia., Lamoni, Ia., and Des Moines, Ia., with the surrounding areas, have not had rain since July 22.

Below Normal Over U. S.

The precipitation for July was below normal throughout most of the United States, Mr. Donnel said. The heaviest rainfall in the month was at Raleigh, N. C., where 5.76 inches fell, as compared to a normal of 5.40 inches. Charleston, S. C., had 5.55 inches, compared to a normal of 5 inches. The eastern, southern, and western states and the Rocky Mountain regions have not suffered as acutely as the middle west.

"The entire country is never universally affected by drought," Mr. Donnel said. "Some portions are always above normal, while others may be far below. This is due, of course, to the wide difference in climatic and geographic conditions. On the whole, however, the fall of rain has been below normal.

"The drought in the midwest is due to two things. Before these are mentioned it must be understood that rain results from the change from a high pressure area to a low pressure area. Low pressure areas, particularly those which come from the south, bring rain.

"The persistence of a high pressure area in the southeast portion of the country, which defies explanation, is one reason that the drought has continued. The presence of this area has indirectly influenced a stagnation of lows and highs in the country. In the midwest we have had high pressures or northern lows, which do not generally bring rain.

"Another reason, also difficult to explain, is that condensation necessary to produce rain has not taken place. That means that lows, which usually bring rain, have failed to do so."

Mr. Donnel said the relationship between evaporation and rain cannot be traced. In the Chicago area of 210 square miles approximately 3,800,000 tons of water may be evaporated by the sun and wind in 24 hours of hot July weather, he explained.

Where Does the Water Go?

"Ordinarily one might expect that what comes up must come down," Mr. Donnel said. "This might be considered true if we could measure the evaporation and rain of the world as a whole. But it cannot mean that if New York has a heavy rain, that city is reaping the benefit of the evaporation in Chicago.

"None of the water which was evaporated at Chicago may have fallen at New York and again all of it may have. It is not known where the water evaporated in the midwest in the last month has fallen. Until reports can be had from the entire world, no guess could be made, and even then, we could have only the wildest surmise. We cannot tell who is robbing the midwest of rain, if any one is."

Severe droughts were experienced in the central states in 1901 and in 1911, with heavy damage to crops. Mr. Donnel said he did not have figures available to enable him to make comparisons of the three years, but that he believed the present dry spell to be more severe than the other two.

The thermometer climbed to a maximum of 90 degrees in Chicago at 6 o'clock yesterday evening. Forecaster Day predicted that fair and warmer weather will prevail today and tomorrow in Chicago and vicinity.

SEEK REVOCATION OF PERMIT FOR RAILWAY DEPOT

Might Balk Street Opening, Foes Say.

Efforts to revoke a building permit issued by Building Commissioner Christian Paschen, which would allow the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad to build a structure on prohibited ground, will be started immediately, William A. Dudley, managing director of the Greater Central District association, said last night. His organization has the support of the South Central association, Mr. Dudley said.

What Mr. Dudley regards as irregularities in the issuance of the permit and the proposed construction of the building in an area the city council has said should be left untenanted because of possible interference with street opening projects, forms the basis of the action. If built, the structure would rest upon property adjoining the Dearborn street station and would extend south from Polk street 550 feet. Its width would be 100 feet and the cost for the two story brick and tile building would be $160,000.

See Hindrance to Widening.

Its construction, both district organizations contend, would seriously complicate the plans for opening and widening of Plymouth court and Taylor street.

The permit, Mr. Dudley said, was issued on July 2 to the "Ellington-Miller company, contractors, 25 East Jackson street," and was signed for them by "A. J. Philips, agent." It authorized the construction of a "United States mail building," Mr. Dudley asserted, no mention being made of the railroad. This first authorization was written on a yellow slip.

The formal assurance allowing the construction of the building, which bore the same date, specified, Mr. Dudley said, that the railroad is the party allowed to build.

On July 16 the city council ordered the building commissioner "to notify the chairman of the railway terminals committee whenever any application is received for a permit to construct any buildings in the area between the Chicago river and State street, north of 22d street, occupied by railroad tracks and facilities, and to withhold the issuance of a permit on such application until action is taken thereon by the committee on railway terminals."

Road's Present Tracks.

The Western Indiana railroad now has tracks on Plymouth court adjoining the Dearborn station, on Taylor street in the rear of the station, and in the alley between Plymouth court and State street. The last rental fee for the use of this property was paid to the city on June 29, 1929, which paid the rent until July 14, 1930, Mr. Dudley said. On July 18, in response to a query from Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe, Corporation Counsel Ettelson held that the city could compel the railroad to remove its tracks from this property because the terms of the grant expired on July 14, 1920.

Mr. Dudley's association holds that if the railroad builds on the site specified by the permit and uses the building for freight and mail purposes it must have tracks to the structure. This would mean, Mr. Dudley said, that the present tracks, which run to the spot, would, perforce, be maintained. He points to the terms of the 1915 grant as authority behind the city's demand that the tracks be torn out.

Provides for Removal.

This grant stipulated that, "When this grant expires by reason of the time limit herein contained, it (the railroad) will immediately proceed to remove said tracks, platforms and buildings from said public ally, and will at no time in any way resort to any proceeding in any court, or before any commission, either state or federal, that may in any way delay the removal of said tracks . . ."

"It is quite clear," Mr. Dudley said last night, "that this grant forces the railroad to remove the tracks and if they are removed the building can be of no use. I have the assurance of Mr. Wolfe that he will demand the removal and we, in turn, will demand the revocation of the building permit."

Parents Lose

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Ruggiero Ricci, the 9 year old boy who made a sational debut with his three quarter size fiddle in New York last November, today was ordered left in the custody of his guardian and instructor, Miss Beth Lackey, at least until Jan. 1.

Ruggiero's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Ricci of San Francisco, had sought in habeas corpus proceedings to regain the custody of him and his 8 year old brother, Giorgio, who also shows considerable promise as a violinist.

Supreme Court Justice Valente, before whom the proceedings were instituted, ruled that the boys should be left temporarily in Miss Lackey's care. He set Dec. 15 for further hearings, after which he will make his decision.

ALCOCK SHIFTS 19 LIEUTENANTS AND 8 SERGEANTS

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock shifted nineteen lieutenants, eight sergeants, and thirty-five patrolmen in another transfer order late yesterday. The transfers were made "to fill vacancies and at the request of those affected," the commissioner said.

Lieut. Stewart P. Moss of the Warren avenue station goes to Racine avenue; Lieut. John J. Farrell, head of the auto detail, leaves Wabash avenue for Deering street; Lieut. William A. D. T. Middleton, Negro, is transferred from Stanton avenue to Wabash avenue.

Among the patrolmen affected by the order are Patrick Bourke and Thomas J. Roche, who several years ago raided the Tent cabaret in the East Chicago avenue district and loaded the patrons into patrol wagons. They go from Warren avenue to join the traffic division.

EXPECT AUDIT ON CLOSED BINGA BANK NEXT WEEK

Depositors of the Binga State bank, 3452 State street, closed by State Auditor Oscar Nelson, may learn the bank's condition by the end of next week, it was indicated yesterday. Accountants working under Fred E. Edgerton and A. E. Kemlin are expected to complete their audit of the bank's books by that time.

Jesse Binga, president of the bank, which was the only Chicago bank owned and operated exclusively by Negroes, has so far made no explanation of the closing. It is understood that heavy withdrawals of savings because of business depression, together with frozen assets in the form of real estate securities, caused the auditor's action.

The bank has deposits of $1,250,000 a capital of $200,000 and a surplus of $45,000.

MRS. ALTON WINS DIVORCE AND $600 MONTH ALIMONY

Mrs. Abigail Campbell Alton, 2440 Lakeview avenue, won her suit for divorce yesterday against Carol Wilson Alton, manager of Wilson Brothers, manufacturers of men's furnishings. Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch signed the decree.

Alton is a grandson of the late Milton H. Wilson, one of the founders of Wilson Brothers, and is beneficiary of an $800,000 trust fund created by his grandfather.

Mrs. Alton charged desertion. She was granted $600 a month alimony and the custody of their three children who will be supported by Alton.

YANKEE TELLS HOW REDS PUT TORCH TO CITY

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A city aglare with ghastly fires and a country without government or control, was described today by the Rev. W. H. Lingle, American missionary who fled the city of Changsha during its recent sacking by communists.

THE REV. W. H. LINGLE. [A. P. Photo.]

Nearly 70 years old and a worker in China 40 years for the American Northern Presbyterian mission, Mr. Lingle lost everything except the clothing he wore. He had been stationed at Changsha many years.

"Safe but Empty Handed."

In a dispatch to Presbyterian headquarters here, Mr. Lingle detailed his experiences until he departed from the burning city aboard a British gunboat for Hankow. Saying he believed he was the last foreigner to leave, Mr. Lingle continued:

"I am safe at Hankow, but empty handed. I left our premises at midnight Monday only when the city was aglare with ghastly fires. I had been hiding in the mission boys' school since Monday noon.

"All other foreigners boarded foreign gunboats Sunday night. Being aged, I am slow to catch on to the ways of new China.

Missions Looted and Burned.

"Systematic burning of all government buildings was begun Monday. Then followed the organized looting and burning of mission properties.

"The American Episcopal mission was burned late Monday. The communists broke into our premises Monday night and began systematic robbery. They were still looting when, fearing discovery, I was forced to leave.

"After being looted, all buildings were scheduled to be burned. I have no doubt it was done thoroughly, the new church, almost ready for the roof, and all.

Robbed of Belongings.

"I managed to reach the vicinity of the Yale-in-China university, near the Hsiang river, only to be robbed of all my belongings.

"I found native boatmen who agreed to take me five miles down river, where foreign gunboats were anchored in low water, which forced them to leave Changsha that afternoon.

"I boarded the American gunboat Palos at 2 a. m., Tuesday. Commander Tisdale and other friends aboard were glad to see me. They feared I had been captured.

"Tuesday evening I was transferred to the British gunboat Aphis with 47 other refugees and brought to Hankow.

Government Broken Down.

"There is no transportation from Changsha. The railroad is cut and the river too low for steamer operation. Thousands of Chinese are willing to pay any price to get out of the city.

"All form of government has broken down and disappeared. When we left, the mob—communists, bandits, robbers, call them what you will—were in control."

Mr. Lingle before coming to China resided at Hillsboro, Ill., and Richard, Va. He said a brother still lived at the latter place.

Presbyterian mission officials here believed their entire property in Changsha was destroyed. It consisted of two churches, eight school buildings and five personnel residences with a total value of $200,000 gold. Doubt was expressed by misisonaries that their plant would be rebuilt.

BLAME PEIPING FACTION

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—The Chinese government tonight issued a statement flatly placing the blame for the communist occupation of Changsha upon Wang Ching-wei, the radical Kuomintang left wing leader, who is now in Peiping trying to form an opposition government with the help of the northern militarists, Yen Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang.

The statement alleged that "the orgy of destruction and massacres at Changsha were carried out at the secret behest of Wang Ching-wei and the Chinese Reds, the purpose being to embarrass the Nationalist government by causing foreign complications. The statement claimed that Changsha had been recaptured by loyal forces.

Offer $50,000 Reward.

The government today offered a reward of $50,000 for the capture of Gen. Chu Teh, alleged leader of the Red forces. The government also claimed that Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi proyince, is now adequately protected.

Owing to a break in communications it is still impossible to receive definite information regarding the extent of the damages at Changsha, but Chinese refugees have reported that all Chinese banks and business houses have been looted and burned, as well as government buildings, foreign property, and mission institutions. It is said that the streets of the city are filled with the bodies of massacred Chinese, including all officials, merchants, and others who were unable to flee, as well as Chinese who were wearing foreign style clothes.

Japanese Concession Barricaded.

Panicky conditions exist in Hankow and martial law has been declared there. The Japanese concession has been barricaded with barbed wire and sandbags.

It was reported tonight that the communists carried away more than 300 wealthy residents of Changsha for ransom. It also was reported that all Chinese schools in the city were burned.

A Japanese Rengo News Agency message from Tokio this afternoon said the Japanese government has proposed to other powers that a joint note be sent to China advising the cessation of the civil war in order to enable the Chinese government to devote its attention to the communist situation.

A dispatch from Sasebo, Japan, said Japan had ordered its twenty-fourth destroyer flotilla, with 200 marines, to stand in readiness to be dispatched to China.

Martial Law in Nanking.

NANKING, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Nationalist government military headquarters today declared martial law effective throughout Nanking, nationalist capital. Defending troops threw out patrols over all the city.

PATEL, GANDHI'S AID, AND OTHER LEADERS JAILED

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 2.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Vallabhai Patel, one of Mahatma Gandhi's chief lieutenants, and Pandit Malaviya and four other leaders of the Indian congress working committee, were suddenly arrested this morning. Throughout the night, even through a violent rainstorm that drenched both police and volunteers, Patel and Malaviya sat with Mrs. Hansa Mehta, president of the Bombay congress committee, and her followers demonstrating in commemoration of the 10th anniversary of the death of the National leader Tilak.

Disturbances occurred yesterday in the presidency jail at Calcutta. Political prisoners refused to return to their cells. The police had to use force in driving them back and some prisoners were fettered.

NATIONAL GUARD AT CAMP GRANT TODAY FOR TRAINING TOUR

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The arrival of 9,000 Illinois National Guard troops at Camp Grant here tomorrow will mark the beginning of the annual two weeks encampment of the state troops. Five hundred officers and men are already on the grounds preparing for the reception of the main body of the unit. Among the arrivals today were the famous Black Horse troop of Chicago and seven planes of the 108th observation squadron.

Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the 33d division and attached troops, is expected tomorrow morning. Among those here now are Brig. Gen. John J. Garrity, commanding the 65th infantry brigade. His executive officer, Maj. H. E. Elgin, and Col. Karl E. Hooart, commander of the 108th engineers.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson will visit the camp twice this year, first on Sunday, Aug. 10, known as visitors' day, and again on governor's day, Aug. 14. On the latter date he will inspect the entire command, review the division and then witness a special demonstration by the various branches of the service.

The last arrivals at the camp will check in at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow when Companies E and F of the 130th infantry, Peoria, make their appearance.

NORMOYLE SAYS SPECIAL LINGLE QUIZ IS FINISHED

Expects No Extra Charge to New Grand Jury.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503, Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court stated yesterday that he did not expect to give any special charges to the August grand jury, to be impaneled next Monday.

"At the present time," the chief justice said, "I see no reason to give the next grand jury anything but the customary charge which is made to every grand jury."

Reports had been published that Judge Normoyle would ask the grand jury to continue an investigation into the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, reporter for THE TRIBUNE.

Inquiry Wins Approval.

The July grand jury, it was pointed out, conducted an inspection of the manner in which the Lingle investigation is being conducted and of the progress which is being made, and the grand jurors were unanimous in commending the work of State's Attorney Swanson and his assistants, Charles F. Rathbun, James E. McShane and Chief Investigator Pat Roche.

Mr. Rathbun, who is a member of THE TRIBUNE law firm, and Mr. McShane were especially appointed to solve the Lingle case, and Mr. Roche was assigned to devote his full time to the search for Lingle's slayers.

These three men were back in their loop headquarters yesterday, pursuing their secret investigations.

No announcement has been made by the prosecution staff concerning the dramatic scene of last Wednesday in which Frank Foster, gunman, under indictment for the Lingle murder, was identified in open court as the man who fled from the scene of the crime.

Judge Sets Time Limit.

The identification, which came as a surprise from Policeman Anthony Ruthy, who chased the man, and who was called by Foster's attorneys as their own witness, is considered highly significant. Foster, it is now believed, was not only the owner of the revolver with which Lingle was shot, but was also upon the scene at the time of the murder.

Judge Daniel P. Trude, at the close of the bond bail hearing, announced that the state must begin the trial Sept. 9; otherwise he would admit Foster to $25,000 bail at that time.

OAK PARK COUPLE TRAP SELVES ON CHARGE OF ARSON

The early and unannounced return of Louis Slagle and his family from their vacation to their home at 1025 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, landed Slagle and his wife in jail yesterday on a charge of attempted arson.

Neighbors, seeing lights in the Slagle home at 2 a. m. and suspecting burglars, summoned the police. The Slagles quickly identified themselves, but had trouble explaining the litter of newspapers and rags so strewn about the house as to form a fire train from two electric irons standing on the kitchen table.

Finally Slagle confessed, the police said, that he had plotted the destruction of the house to collect $13,000 insurance. All would have gone well, he said, except that his wife forgot to turn on the irons before they left. Both were charged with attempted arson.

Guard Home After Death Threat by Black Handers

Luke Pavoni, 1049 Monticello avenue, foreman of a street crew for the Commonwealth Edison company and father of six children, informed the police yesterday that he had received three blackhand letters in the last three weeks, threatening death to himself and his family unless he paid $1,500. A guard was stationed at his home.

NEAR DEATH

MISS KATHERINE SCHAUB.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Thirteen persons, who were too poor or too proud to make known their need for expensive medical treatment, have died of radium poisoning in the Oranges in Jersey, Katherine Schaub of Newark declared today while lying critically ill in the New Jersey orthopedic hospital in Orange, where she is expected to die soon of an illness contracted while painting radium on watch dials several years ago.

Miss Schaub is one of the five "radium girls" who, after bring suit against the United States Radium corporation, their former employers, obtained cash settlements and annuities for the rest of their lives. Mrs. Quinta MacDonald, 34, another of the five, died six months ago. The other three have lived beyond the time physicians said they could survive, due to the excellent medical treatment they have had.

EVANSTON DOG DEFENDS SELF ON NOISE CHARGE

Josie, a spotted terrier and the pet of 12 year old Betty Woodburn, was in the Evanston police court yesterday before Magistrate Harry H. Porter, charged with disturbing the peace of nights in the vicinity of the Woodburn residence at 2340 Lawndale avenue.

Five neighbors of the Woodburns testified that Josie's nocturnal barking woke them up every morning long before daybreak, but the terrier's master, J. A. Woodburn, an official of the Chicago Trust company, was not disconcerted. He called Josie, herself, to the stand.

"Speak," he admonished Josie, who pertly cocked an ear but didn't bark a mouthful.

"See?" said Mr. Woodburn. "I've got her trained. She won't bark at all."

However, Magistrate Porter held the demonstration inconclusive. Mr. Woodburn promised to produce human witnesses today to prove that Josie is a silent dog.

EX-WIFE SUES MRS. GREEN NO. 2 FOR LOST LOVE

A $75,000 alienation of affections suit was filed in Circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Clare H. Green, 6757 Cornell avenue, divorced wife of Joan Birchard Green, president of the Chicago Steel and Wire company, against Mrs. Patti Dumbeck Green, 6930 South Shore drive, Green's present wife.

Green was divorced by his first wife on Oct. 28, 1923. According to her bill she was granted $300 monthly alimony and 1,500 shares of Chicago Steel and Wire company stock. A week ago Green made a plea before Circuit Court Judge Lynch for a reduction in the alimony payments and the hearing was continued until September.

Green's second marriage was on Feb. 23, 1929. He said last night that he had met his present wife more than 20 years ago, but he did not renew the acquaintance until after he was divorced by his first wife.

PRIMARY RACE IN NEBRASKA FINDS BISHOPS AT ODDS

Churchmen Can't Agree on Senate Choice.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wahoo, Neb., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A torrid wave has engulfed the senatorship battle in bone dry Nebraska, the Beulahland of corn and wine and home brew. Two new controversies are raging around Senator George W. Norris, insurgent Republican, one of the original Sahara drys who took a recent crack at "dry cranks."

The Methodist bishops have got into a huddle in calling their shots on candidates. With ecclesiastical politics divided on which horse to play, the standpat conservatives meanwhile are yelling for Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota to come back and "let a little sunshine in" on the matter of grocer George W. Norris of Broken Bow, whose filing was thrown out by the Supreme court. Both sides charge dissimulation and duplicity in the modus operandi of the identical name trick which was invented on the near north side of Chicago 45 years ago, and Nye is being assailed for "ducking out" before clearing it up.

Bishops Not in Accord.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, New York, of the M. E. church, is given a place of prominence in the Norris literature, which quotes the bishop as saying "The nation cannot afford to lose Norris."

Bishop Frederick D. Leete of Iowa-Nebraska Methodist area, however, in a letter to pastors widely printed today says that W. M. Stebbins, the conservative opponent of Norris, and Dr. Jennie Callfas, a Democratic candidate, are "strongly indorsed by prohibition officials and Christian citizens."

Bishop Leete is at Mackinaw City, Mich., and the letter touched off a ton of dynamite today. Norris, a personal and political dry, bolted dry Hoover for wet Al Smith two years ago, while Dr. Callfas, then Democratic national committeewoman, bolted wet Smith for dry Hoover. Stebbins is a dry; in fact, to be dry is part of the regular political technic in dusty Nebraska, where if a politician talks and votes dry no further questions are asked.

Superintendent "Explains."

In Omaha Dr. C. C. Wilson, superintendent of the Nebraska area, was quoted as saying that in a previous letter, the dry record of Norris was indorsed, but Stebbins was omitted. Dr. Wilson says the second letter was sent out to rectify the omission. This time it omits Norris and it has politics running around in circles. Bishop Leete's letter says, since he wrote the pastors last, the "situation has been so cleared" that the attitude of the dry forces is "better indicated." It says "Nebraska senators should be of the kind that can be relied on in every crisis."

"It was a private letter," Dr. Wilson is quoted as saying. "The Methodist church is not in politics."

Politicians, seeking to fathom the split in opinion between Bishop McConnell and Bishop Leete, dwelt upon Norris' speech at Epworth Park last week. In this, after saying prohibition has not had a square deal, the insurgent senator took a lively sock at fanatics, both dry and wet, saying the "prohibition crank" has often brought enforcement into disrepute, and has his counterpart in the "wet crank."

Comes Between Methodist Letters.

This address, it is pointed out, came between the two Methodist letters, the first okaying Norris, the second indorsing Stebbins.

The controversy over the dirty work at Broken Bow is just now centered upon Senator Nye, who held preliminary hearings in the Nebraska election inquiry, set a hearing for yesterday but postponed it until Aug. 25, two weeks after the Aug. 12 primaries. Nye is being besought in the public prints by Mr. Stebbins, Richard E. Wood, Harry O. Palmer, conservative candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, Charles E. Matson, attorney for Secretary of State Marsh to come back on the next train and finish the job.

Grocer Norris of Broken Bow filed for the senate, and the Norris camp has been denouncing this as a scurvy trick pulled by its enemies. The Supreme court kept the chain store spinach clerk off the ballot because his filing had not got under the wire in time. Richard F. Wood, Omaha attorney, candidate for the state railway commission, in a letter to Senator Nye charges, and offers to prove if Nye will hold another hearing, that the filing papers of Grocer Norris were prepared by A. Paul Johnson, a Norris supporter of Broken Bow.

Says Withdrawal Held Secret.

He charges that when Grocer Norris' filing was made out a withdrawal was made out at the same time and placed with Johnson. Wood says this withdrawal was in the hands of John P. Robertson, son-in-law of Senator Norris and his secretary, at the time the case was heard in the Supreme court to rule Grocer Norris off the ballot. Wood charges the withdrawal was not made public, which would have knocked out the court case, in order to make Nebraska believe a dirty political trick had been attempted against Norris by his enemies. Robertson lives in Broken Bow.

The officials and candidates who are prodding Nye say Norris or Stebbins, or any other political leaders are not to be suspected of complicity in the grocery clerk's filing, but they are letting out a yell that the Nye hearings have left an impression that the conservatives pulled something "sinister and tricky," and they urge Nye to return before primary day and clear up the "smear of innuendo."

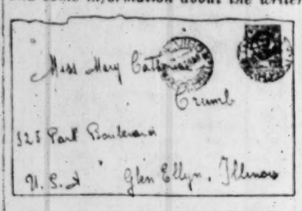
Senator R. B. Howell, talking for Norris, is denouncing the Hoover tariff. Senator Norris is calling on Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor and wheat member of the federal farm board, to name specific instances of where he has been a "bad Republican." He has challenged Stebbins in similar form, to which Stebbins today answered he had not called Norris a "bad Republican," but that he was "not a Republican of any kind."

ROBS FURNITURE OFFICE OF $500.

A gunman entered the office of the General Furniture company, 4204 West North avenue, yesterday morning, held up a clerk and two girl cashiers, scooped $500 in currency from a drawer, and escaped.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.



Letter received by Mary Catherine Crumb, 325 Park boulevard, Glen Ellyn, Ill.

"I received this letter from Treviso, Italy," Miss Crumb writes. "The sender is Giovanni Marini, a resident of Treviso and a member of Mussolini's Fascist army.

"Treviso is a province in the compartimento of Venetia, Italy. The capital city, Treviso, from which this letter was sent, is situated on the Sile, eighteen miles northwest of Venice. It was the ancient city of Tarvisium and came under Venetian rule in the fourteenth century. In 1797 it was taken by the French under Motier. In March, 1848, it was the scene of a revolutionary outbreak. Three months later it was bombarded and captured by the Austrians.

"Treviso is the scene of the recent tornado that added to the difficulties already experienced in the Neapolitan area through the severe earthquake."

Treviso is a picturesque town, featured by bastions and old walls reminiscent of the days when it was one of the medieval city republics united under the Lombard league. For four centuries it formed part of the dominions of Venice. The principal buildings of the town are the medieval cathedral, with its five cupolas, containing paintings by Titian and other masters, and the churches of San Niccolo and Santa Maddalena. The manufactures include silks and woolen goods, metal ware, machinery, and paper.

BETTER HOMES, MORE OF THEM, HOOVER'S GOAL

Commission Will Seek to Cut Costs.

tute of Architects, Associated General Contractors, Association of Life Insurance Presidents, Better Homes in America, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Association of Builders' Exchanges, National Association of Real Estate Boards, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Farmers' union, National Grange, Russell Sage Foundation, Savings Bank division of the American Bankers' association, United States League of Building and Loan Associations, and the Women's National Farm and Garden association.

This planning committee will create subcommittees for the study of the question in all its phases in every part of the country.

Wide Range to Be Covered.

Mr. Hoover said that the conference would deal comprehensively with the broad question of home construction and home ownership including such phases as finance, design, equipment, city planning and transportation.

"One of the important questions is finance," said Mr. Hoover. "The present depression has given emphasis to the fact that the credit system in home building is not as soundly organized as other branches of credit. Commerce, industry, installment buying and to a large extent farm mortgages, all have more effective financial reservoirs.

"There have been months during this depression when shortage of capital available for home building purposes has been so acute that this branch of construction has fallen off greatly, while other forms of credit have been available throughout the depression.

Second Mortgages Common.

"In order to enable the purchase of homes on what amounts to the installment plan it is necessary to place first and, often enough, second mortgages. The building and loan associations have performed a great service in this field, but they cannot without assistance carry the burden.

"First mortgages, carried so largely by the savings banks and insurance companies, have been affected by competition with bonds and other forms of investment. Second mortgages, which are also necessary to many people, have if we take into account commissions, discounts and other charges, risen in rates in many cities to the equivalent of 20 or 25 per cent per annum, all of which not only stifles home ownership but has added to the present depression by increasing unemployment in the trades involved.

Greater Comfort Sought.

"The finance question, however, is only one of many. Greater comfort and reduction in cost of construction in many parts of the country through improved design, the better layout of residential areas are all of first importance. The expansion and betterment of homes in its bearing upon comfort, increasing standards of living, and economic and social stability, is of outstanding importance."

MODIFY RUSSIAN PULPWOOD ORDER —FEW AFFECTED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary Lowman today modified the treasury order forbidding imports of Russian pulpwood.

Lowman ordered admitted cargoes of pulpwood which have already arrived in this country, those on the high seas, and those already loaded at Archangel.

In all, the order affects fewer than twenty vessels.

The pulpwood had been barred from this country under a section of the tariff act which prohibits importation of merchandise produced wholly or in part in any foreign country by convict labor.

Save 11 Boy Scouts; Clung to Capsized Boat 4 Hours

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Eleven Canadian Boy Scouts were rescued from Lake Deschenes near Aylmer today after clinging for four hours to their capsized rowboat. Their cries for help were heard by two men at the Aylmer Yacht club, who rescued them in a motorboat. After an hour in the water the boys felt themselves losing their grips, so they unbuckled their belts and strapped themselves to each other over the bottom of the boat.

INDIANA POPULATION IS 3,225,418, GAIN OF 10.1 PER CENT OVER '20

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Indiana gained 10.1 per cent in population in the decade from 1920 to 1930. The census bureau today announced the state's 1930 population as 3,225,418, as compared to 2,930,390 ten years ago, an increase of 295,028.

The outstanding disclosure of the Indiana figures was the heavy growth of counties and cities near the Chicago metropolitan area and the losses or comparatively smaller gains down state.

Lake county, with a 63.4 per cent increase, made the longest population stride, growing from 159,957 to 261,325. St. Joseph county was second with an increase of 54.8 per cent, and Monroe county, third, with an increase of 46.7 per cent.

Gary and Hammond Lead.

Gary and Hammond vied for first honors among the larger cities, Gary growing from 55,378 to 100,749, a gain of 81.9 per cent, while Hammond grew from 36,004 to 64,523, a gain of 79.2 per cent.

Alaska's Population 59,000.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The 1930 census will show the population of Alaska very close to 59,000. The 1920 figure was 55,036.

All but twenty-four districts, enumerated and checked prior to July 31, totaled 57,347.

I. C. TO ASK BIDS ON RANDOLPH ST. STATION TODAY

Deal with South Parks and City Confirmed.

agreement the span is to be 128 feet wide, the Illinois Central to build the north half and the south parks commission the south half. But Superintendent Donoghue said yesterday that the parks board has no funds available for this job.

Within the next week the parks board and the railroad probably will sign an agreement by which the Illinois Central will advance the money for the first 400 feet of the viaduct and will do the construction work, subject to approval of the parks board. The contracts on the bids requested today depend on this agreement.

Want Viaduct Over Tracks.

"The new Randolph street suburban station is closely fitted into the viaduct plans," said Mr. Thompson. "We desire to get the station built and in operation, and consequently want the viaduct constructed from Michigan boulevard eastward across the suburban and New York Central tracks. That is a distance of about 400 feet.

"At that point the widened viaduct will connect with the present structure which will be torn out and rebuilt when the south parks commission extends Field boulevard northward. This end of the Randolph street viaduct will cost about $800,000.

"The South Water suburban station will be partly temporary until South Water street is extended eastward from Michigan avenue by means of a viaduct."

The plans of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe concerning the Lake street and South Water street viaducts were not obtainable yesterday afternoon.

POLICEMAN HELD TO GRAND JURY AS A BURGLAR

Policeman Cyrus G. Brush, 7255 Yates avenue, one of the police department's athletes, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of burglary by Judge John Sbarbaro in the Felony court. His bond was fixed at $5,000. Brush was shot and wounded by Joseph Jerry, a watchman, as he stood among a pile of dresses in front of the South Shore Vogue shop, 2316 East 71st street, on July 6. The policeman said he had reached the scene as a burglar fled through a window.

E. C. Smith, Agricultural Leader, Reported Better

Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, whose home is in Detroit, Ill., was reported yesterday to be improving after being near death from hemorrhages following tonsilectomy. He is in the Beaumont Nursing home at 920 North Michigan avenue. Mr. Smith is serving his fifth year as president of the agricultural association.

A HIPLOAD ISN'T BOOTLEGGING TO NEW DRY CHIEF

Woodcock Sets Forth His Policy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1—[Special.]—Evidence that the newly organized prohibition bureau intends to ignore home brew, hip flasks, and other petty violations of the Volstead law was strengthened today as Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock elaborated upon his recent statement of policy.

In the policy missive Mr. Woodcock asserted that his agents would concentrate upon "commercial" violators and would not dissipate energies upon "pitiful picayunish cases." This was widely interpreted as a sign that hereafter the federal government, while trying to dry up the big liquor sources, will pay little attention to the drinking habits of individual citizens.

10 Gallons Is "Commercial."

Differentiating between "commercial" and noncommercial cases today, Director Woodcock pointed out that whereas transportation of ten gallons of liquor in a bootlegger's car would be a commercial affair, there would be nothing commercial about a man carrying a flask of liquor in his pocket for his own use. He hastened to add, however, that the policy of the bureau is positive, not negative, and that it has taken no action at all to encourage home brewing or flask carrying.

Discussing his plan for scientific research into alcoholism deaths, drunkenness statistics, corn sugar stills and other subjects, Mr. Woodcock declared that the bureau will not use the findings of any of the wet or dry organizations. Whether favorable to prohibition or not, he said, the findings will be given to the public.

Address Permit Chiefs.

Mr. Woodcock today addressed a meeting of the permit supervisors of the twelve regional districts here to confer with Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol. The meeting closed a series of conferences between the two prohibition chieftains and their field lieutenants.

"Common sense," Dr. Doran said, "will be the keynote of my policy in handling industrial alcohol permits." He declared that he would conduct the affairs of his bureau "to the end that the diversions of lawfully produced liquors will be further reduced and with due regard to the obligations imposed upon us by law, and which are dictated by good, sound, common sense."

CRIMINAL COURT.

William Green, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

The state yesterday closed its case against Dr. Amante Rongetti, who is on trial in Judge Daniel P. Trude's Criminal court for the third time for the death of Miss Loretta Enders and her newborn baby. The prosecution received its second severe setback yesterday when Lorraine Irwin, former nurse at Rongetti's Ashland Boulevard hospital, proved to be a defense witness.

Miss Irwin charged in court that her testimony at the two previous trials, one of which ended in a death verdict for Rongetti and the other in a manslaughter conviction, was the result of a frameup. She said her previous testimony was more or less perjury. She also withdrew her charges against Attorney William Scott Stewart, who has represented Rongetti in his three trials. Stewart, on her charges that he had threatened to blacken her character, was sentenced to three months in jail for contempt. The case is now pending on appeal in the Supreme court.

Mrs. Hazel Reed, another former nurse at the hospital, was the only state witness to stand by her original story. She testified that she watched Dr. Rongetti perform the operation which the state contends resulted in Miss Enders' death and that he told her to make out a fake death certificate.

FOLLOWS RUM RAID BY INVESTIGATION OF COAST GUARD UNIT

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Capt. Randolph Ridgely Jr., commander of the New York division of the coast guard, today instituted an investigation to determine whether prohibition has affected the honesty of his unit at Ford's River, L. I.

An open launch, loaded with $15,000 worth of rye and bourbon, was seized in that neighborhood just before dawn. Two men were captured along with the liquor, and they turned out to be Adrian V. Austin and H. Cathell, who recently were discharged from the coast guard service.

Both Austin and Cathell have many old friends among the men assigned to the job of preventing contraband drinkables from landing on that portion of the shore over which Capt. Ridgely has jurisdiction.

The coast guard commander indicated that he wanted to establish whether there was collusion between the discharged members of his command and those still wearing the uniform.

The rum running launch was found in shoal water a few hundred feet off Ford's river by a patrol boat and the two men were captured after they had waded ashore.

The launch, labeled K-9715, contained 500 sacks of whisky, six bottles to the sack.

Austin and Cathell were taken to the office of George W. Brewer, assistant collector of the port of New York, in the custom house. To him they admitted that they formerly were coast guardsmen.

SIX MONTHS FOR A "JOKE."

He was merely being playful, Louis Scramuzza, 912 Sibley street, told Judge George B. Holmes yesterday in explaining why he wrested $102 from Harry Batt Jr., 12 year old son of a restaurant keeper of 1012 Roosevelt road, last Saturday. Scramuzza was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell.

SCIENTIST WINS GIRL'S MEMORY FROM THE MISTS

Amnesia Victim Tells of Broken Romance.

An hour of patient questioning by Dr. Clarence A. Neymann, psychiatrist, after the police failed, restored memory yesterday to a young woman victim of amnesia at the Psychopathic hospital and identified her as Mrs. Thomas Coady, a New York night club hostess and the wife of a soldier.

MRS. THOMAS COADY.

Mrs. Coady was taken to the hospital on Thursday by policemen who found her in a dazed condition in a drug store. At that time all she could remember of her past life was getting off a train that morning.

The questioning yesterday took place in the presence of medical students and members of the hospital staff and was directed by Dr. Neymann, member of Northwestern university medical school, and the Psychopathic hospital staffs. Through constant interrogation Dr. Neymann assembled the broken memory threads revealing a chain of incidents responsible for the young woman's condition.

Mrs. Coady, scarcely 23, and married a year, sat with eyes closed and her blonde head pressed against the back of her chair. At times she haltingly repeated names and sentences until she was sure had had found the right answers to her interrogator's questions. She interrupted the first questions put to her to ask for a cigaret.

She Remembers Boston.

Dr. Neymann began with arithmetic, finding that Mrs. Coady was born in 1907. She stopped then, failed to answer the next and said she knew something about "Boston."

"Something about Boston and a letter," she went on. "A letter addressed to me. I was in great pain. It was from my husband!" she sobbed.

Then followed her recital, revealing her husband to be Thomas Coady, in the regular army for 18 years, now of company K, 16th infantry, stationed at Camp Dix, N. Y. She said she had left him in February because of domestic difficulties and had gone to Milwaukee with a girl friend.

Tries to End Her Life.

"I registered two months ago there at the St. Charles hotel," Mrs. Coady said. "I had about $700 with me, money I made from the night clubs where I appeared as Vera De Haven. But when my husband wrote he'd send me a ticket and money to come home, I didn't tell him I had the money. Then Wednesday I got another letter saying he loved someone else. That night we had a party. I saw my married friends happy with their husbands. Then I went to my room, wrote him a letter, and tried to commit suicide. But it didn't work. They found me and called a doctor.

"That night I got up and dressed. I wandered out in the street. And I can't remember what happened. I suppose I got on a train and came to Chicago. I'm glad it's all clear now."

Mrs. Coady was discharged from the hospital immediately upon the establishment of her identity.

"Will you go back to your husband?" she was asked.

"I think not," she replied. "Probably back to the night clubs."

YOUTH KILLED BY DRY RAIDERS AS HE FLEES STILL

Hattiesburg, Miss., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A 19 year old boy was shot and killed near here today by dry raiders who ambushed a still in the woods of Covington county. The boy, Earl Gray, was shot from behind as he sought to flee. Sheriff W. J. Warren announced tonight that he would assume full responsibility for the case and that no arrests had been made. The sheriff declined to reveal the names of the three deputies who participated in the raid, but said they discovered a 350 gallon still.

A gun battle preceded the killing of Gray, the sheriff said, adding that he could not give further details. He declared that at least two other men were at the still with Gray at the time of the shooting.

Indiana Dry Slaying.

Seymour, Ind., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Homer Phillips, Seymour chief of police, was questioned today at a coroner's inquest in connection with the fatal shooting of Lee Mullins, 43 year old Tennessan, in a raid on an alleged illicit liquor establishment yesterday five miles southeast of Crothersville, Ind.

Mullins was shot as he fled with two companions from Chief Phillips and a deputy sheriff. Phillips said he called three times for the men to halt, and then fired four revolver shots into the ground. Calling once more to the fleeing men, Phillips said he fired a shotgun at a distance of about ninety yards as Mullins apparently whirled and leveled a gun at him. Mullins dropped, fatally shot. No gun was found on Mullins.

INDO-CHINA REDS BATTLE POLICE; 3 SLAIN, 10 HURT

Communist Day Fizzles in Rest of World.

GANGLONG, Indo-China, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Three natives were killed and ten injured in a clash between natives and French police and troops during a communist manifestation today.

The police had forbidden the manifestation, but the communists attempted to stage it nevertheless.

Fizzles in Europe.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A widely advertised communist "international anti-war day," commemorating the sixteenth anniversary of mobilization for the world war, today passed off without disorders in Europe. In most countries a general roundup of communist leaders was made in anticipation of trouble.

Only in Moscow and other Russian cities were there important demonstrations. Communist demonstrators paraded the streets there carrying banners with anti-militaristic slogans and bearing in triumph gas masks and other defensive weapons against warfare.

Planes Drop Peace Pamphlets.

At Moscow a score of airplanes dropped peace pamphlets. The Russian Volunteer Society for Aerial and Chemical Defense gave the Red army 11 modern Russian built military airplanes, for which the funds were contributed by workers throughout the soviet union.

In Paris it was police airplanes that swooped lazily over the city, on the lookout for undue gatherings in working class quarters. Not a single serious incident was reported.

Reds Abandon Parades.

Large anti-war manifestations failed to materialize, and the communists did not attempt to parade. About 30 arrests were made, mostly for distribution of inflammatory pamphlets.

Preventive arrests likewise were effective in Hungary and Czecho-Slovakia. Strong forces of police were mobilized at Budapest and Prague, but remained idle throughout the day.

Dispatches from Vienna reported that Austrian communists had held small demonstrations, which passed off peaceably.

In Berlin, demonstrations passed off with comparative quiet. Sixty-three persons were arrested in a minor way, the police used their blackjacks on communist agitators in Stralauerplatz.

Australian Police Swing Clubs.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

ADELAIDE, Australia, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Mobs of communists and unemployed workers invaded the Adelaide streets today, blocking traffic and hurling sticks at the police. They were dispersed by repeated police charges. The police used their clubs freely and prevented the outbreak from assuming serious proportions. The unemployed demanded the end of evictions for nonpayment of rent and fulfillment of the Labor government's election promises of work, food and clothing for all. The premier promised all reasonable relief would be given and said that the rationing of supplies was being considered.

Shanghai Stops Reds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—The threat of the Chinese Reds to hold one of the "biggest and best" demonstrations within the international settlement ended in a fizzle today when police charged the marchers and arrested 17 for distributing communist literature.

ARTIST DEMANDS $100,000 FROM CHICAGO WOMAN

Miami, Fla., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Herman Neill, artist, today brought suit for $100,000 damages against Mrs. Muriel Hirsch, of Miami and Chicago, charging malicious prosecution in connection with a dispute over an oil portrait he painted for her.

Mrs. Hirsch caused the arrest of Neill Wednesday on a charge of accepting money under false pretense. He was held for trial under $1,000 bond after a hearing before a justice of the peace.

Mrs. Hirsch charged that Neill had accepted her commission to paint her portrait for $250. She paid him $100 at one time, she said, and agreed to pay the balance if the work was satisfactory.

The picture did not meet with her approval nor with that of her husband, she said, but they paid the remaining $150 promised Neill and asked for delivery of the portrait. His refusal to deliver it resulted in the warrant for his arrest.

ANTI-WAR GROUPS RALLY, BUT COPS LET THEM ALONE

Two anti-war demonstrations were held last evening under the supervision of Chicago communists, but the meetings of the radicals were so peaceful that the police details assigned to preserve order found little to do. The largest of the two meetings was held in Washington square at North Clark street and Walton place. This small park for years has been the gathering place for liberals and soap box orators.

The open forum discussions by the regular frequenters of the square gave way last evening to the more definite attacks by the radical speakers against capitalism and militarism. The second anti-war meeting was held in South Chicago at 92d street and Baltimore avenue. Samuel Hammersmarck, a former preacher, passed out handbills at the north side meeting. A year ago he was the generalissimo of the red meeting at Ashland avenue and Addison street which ended in a riot when the police whacked the radicals with banana stalks.

All Jews in Rumania Town Flee Anti-Semitic Agents

CIRCUS OPENS HERE TODAY

The Rieffenachs, riders who will appear with Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, which opens at Grant park this afternoon.

Savages Are Feature

The circus is coming to town today—four long trains of it—which will unload early in the day at 18th street and the New York Central tracks. Two shows, of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey, at 2 and 8 p. m., will be given daily under the big top in Grant park for nine days.

This year's most exciting feature consists of a band of the Ubangi savages, "brought out of the heart of darkest Africa," according to the press agent. These folk from the interior of the French Congo have mouths and lips of remarkable size and protuberance, and are, he assures, "extraordinary human beings, entirely new to civilization."

In addition to the Ubangi is the familiar Goliath, the sea elephant; circus fans' old time friend, Hugo Zacchini, who still keeps up his trade of being shot from the mouth of a siege gun, and this year pops out of the gun more suddenly and alarmingly than ever; Lillian Leitzel, "queen of the air," and others who still are acrobating and somersaulting and bareback riding as the band plays, and much pink lemonade is consumed.

The trains, bearing 1,600 persons and the menagerie, will arrive over the Northwestern railroad from Sterling

WOMAN TELLS NEW STORY AT MOONEY HEARING

Certain Billings Was in Her Office.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The California Supreme court, considering application of Warren K. Billings, convicted bomber, for a pardon recommendation, today heard another witness at the prisoner's trial repudiate previous assertions made in connection with the case.

Estelle Smith, dental office assistant, whose testimony in the original trial helped convict Billings of bombing the 1916 preparedness parade, completed her direct testimony with more unexpected statements.

The woman already had startled the justices and attorneys by asserting Billings told her after entering her office that he was engaged the day of the explosion in damaging automobiles by squirting acid on them, and had nothing to do with the bomb which killed ten persons and wounded two score. The acid squirting had to do with a mechanics' strike, it was said.

Adds 3 More Statements.

Today she added three more statements which attracted attention:

First, she said she was offered $10,000 by Frank Oxman, witness, later tried for perjury but acquitted, to testify against Thomas J. Mooney, convicted with Billings. She said she refused.

Second, she repudiated in part the affidavit she made in 1929 for Fremont Older, newspaper editor. The affidavit said the man in her office preparedness day night might have been Billings' "double." Today she said she was sure it was Billings."

Denies Mental Incompetency.

Third, she denied the implication in the affidavit that morphine made her mentally incompetent during the Billings trial. She admitted that during the trial she was taking a cough medicine containing morphine, but declared the quantity too small for a nerve sedative. The witness said her health now is excellent.

Arthur W. Hextrum, insurance man and former policeman, was the only other witness today. He remembered John MacDonald, recanting witness in the Billings case, had talked with him of having seen two men with a suitcase at the scene of the parade bombing, but could not recall details. He denied he had told MacDonald "this is the work of Mooney."

MacDonald, a Baltimore waiter, has told the justices that he perjured himself at Billings' trial at the suggestion of state officials. At the trial he identified Billings as a man seen near the scene of the bombing.

Cross-Examine Woman Monday.

Attorney Edwin V. McKenzie, representing Billings, announced at the close of the session he would seek again to call Billings as a witness after he completed the cross-examination of Miss Smith—the first item on the program Monday. No testimony will be heard tomorrow or Sunday by the Supreme court.

Today Chief Justice William H. Waste ruled it would be unnecessary to bring Billings here in connection with Miss Smith's testimony.

Tomorrow the question of a pardon for Mooney will be taken up before Gov. C. C. Young and his advisory pardon board, in Sacramento. MacDonald will be examined at the Sacramento meeting.

U. S. Commissioner Fined for Driving While Drunk

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Arthur H. Wood, United States commissioner, was fined $100 by Judge Charles L. Hibbard in District court today for driving an automobile while drunk.

PRACTICE RESCUE FROM SUBMARINE BECOMES REALITY

New London, Conn., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Lieut. Charles B. Monsen,, U. S. N., and three movie men today were saved from possible death by asphyxiation in a sealed compartment of the submerged submarine S-4 by the new artificial "lung," of which Monsen was co-inventor.

The four men were trapped when they went down in the submarine this afternoon to a depth of 45 feet to take pictures of the escape of ten men through an emergency escape hatch.

As each of the ten left water poured into the compartment so that when only Lieut. Monsen and the cameramen were left the water in the compartment came to the level of their waists. A sudden lurch of the submarine tilted the craft and flooded batteries, resulting in the release of chlorine gas.

By donning the "lungs" the four men were able to withstand the gas until the water could be forced from the compartment and the craft brought to the surface.

With Lieut. Monsen were Claude R. Collins, movie director; John Bockhorst, cameraman, and Arthur Fernandez, in charge of sound apparatus.

KILLED AS CAR CRUSHES HIM AGAINST WALL

Ernest Ullrich, 35 years old, 4739 North Springfield avenue, a truck driver, was fatally injured yesterday when he was crushed against a wall of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company's garage at 2622 North Crawford avenue by a truck. Ernst Lehman, 4051 Mango avenue, the driver, was not held.

This death and one other raised Cook county's motor toll for the year to 558. The other victim:

William Rumeck, 35 years old, 1125 Belden avenue. Died at Alexian Brothers hospital from injuries incurred on Thursday when he was struck by a hit and run motorist as he alighted from a street car at Racine and Belden avenues.

George B. Downing, 25 years old, 901 Maryville avenue, Milwaukee, son of a wealthy paper box manufacturer, yesterday was fined $5 for speeding by Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter of Evanston. Downing and David Owen, 25 years old, 557 Lake drive, Milwaukee, were arrested on Thursday night for driving 44 miles an hour in Dempster street, Evanston. According to police, a revolver and two bottles of liquor were found in the car.

The wartime president handles the subject without gloves and makes no attempt to spare the feelings of his erstwhile foreign minister, focusing attention on the weak spots.

Directs 28 Replies.

M. Poincaré pitilessly stresses the long series of reservations and conditions which are embraced in practically every one of the 28 replies received from as many states to the French foreign office's memorandum.

M. Poincare's attack is as unexpected as it is virulent as thus far the French press has almost unanimously glossed over the criticisms and objections contained in the replies, and instead have harped on the opening of the preamble to all the notes, which, according to diplomatic custom, began: "While heartily agreeing in principle," and so forth.

First, shall Turkey, Russia and other nonmembers of the league of nations be admitted to the Pan-European federation? He points out that Italy, Germany, Luxemburg, Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania urge the affirmative while Greece and Hungary insist that the Ottomans participate. On the other hand, France and Jugo-Slavia oppose the admission of both Russia and Turkey, while Denmark is ready to bargain with the soviets and Ottomans over their admission.

Favor League Tutelage.

Second: How will the league of nations be coordinated with the Pan-European organization? Great Britain, Belgium, Denmark, Spain, Portugal, Austria, Latvia, Finland, and Lithuania all demand explicitly that the federation be placed entirely within the existing Geneva structure.

France, supported only by the Belgrade government, proposes a distinct organization, a separate secretariat, political committee, and assembly. Rome and Berlin accept the idea of a separate organization, but with suggestions making it entirely different from M. Briand's conception.

Third, should a political union precede an economic union, or inversely? M. Briand favors a political accord first—he is anxious to consolidate the world war's peace treaties—but Austria, Norway, Belgium, Luxemburg, and Hungary insist on the priority of an economic agreement.

Germany is willing to examine economic questions first, but does not hide its opinion that all negotiations should tend toward the revision of treaties.

Clash on Disarmaments.

Fourth, Italy, supported by numerous states, insists that an habitual doctrine of disarmament creates security, while according to the French thesis, without a preliminary system of security, disarmament is impossible.

Fifth, what are to be the relations of the Pan-European federation toward other continents? In adhering to the federation of Europe, Ireland refuses to enter into any agreement which will interfere with her trade relations with the United States or Australia. M. Poincare points out that England must maintain the closest contact with her dominions, while Spain voices a plea for her special relations with Latin America. Moreover, if Russia and Turkey join the federation they will drag in an immense part of Asia.

In conclusion M. Poincaré urges M. Briand not to attempt to revise the covenant of the league of nations, which, despite its many faults, he considers to be a serious obstacle to the revision of the wartime treaties.

Briand Drafts New Memo.

In the meanwhile M. Briand is busy at his country place near Havre drafting a new memorandum covering the objections, suggestions, and recommendations embraced in the 28 replies to the original. This new memorandum will be circulated in time for examination by the governments to permit a debate on the question at Geneva in the middle of September, when the league assembly convenes.

Seven Left

Seven dancers, already long past the world's marathon dance record, remained on the floor at the Merry Garden ballroom, Belmont and Sheffield avenues, early this morning. The participants, who had completed 2,690 hours at 12:30 a. m., are Jack Ritoff and Miss Theresa Cito, Michael Gouvos and Miss Ann Gerry, Joe Rock and Miss Margie Meadows, and Robert De Marchis. The contest started on April 11.

According to the Merry Garden management the marathon is expected to continue for three or four more days. The remaining contestants showed no signs of quitting. A five minute rest period is allowed the dancers each hour.

The previous world's record, it was said, was 1,800 hours, made at Portsmouth, O., in 1928.

WOODLOCK QUITS I. C. COMMISSION —NAMED IN 1925

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Thomas F. Woodlock of New York, whose appointment by former President Coolidge in 1925 to the interstate commerce commission provoked a fight in the senate, resigned today from the commission. President Hoover immediately announced the appointment of Charles Mahaffie, director of finance of the commission, to fill the vacancy. Mr. Mahaffie has been connected with the commission for many years.

The senate twice rejected the Woodlock appointment early in 1925, radical Republicans and Democrats basing it upon his former affiliation with railroads. President Coolidge, after adjournment of congress, following failure to confirm the nomination, gave Mr. Woodlock a recess appointment, which the senate finally confirmed in March, 1926, by a vote of 52 to 25.

Mr. Woodlock plans to join the editorial staff of a New York financial journal. He is nearly 64 years of age, was born in Ireland and educated in England, and was a newspaper man and stock broker in London before coming to the United States in 1892. In New York he was a financial writer for twenty years and also for a time was a partner in a stock brokerage firm.

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Wall Street Journal announced today that Thomas F. Woodlock, who resigned as a member of the interstate commerce commission, will join its staff as a contributing editor within a few weeks.

Mr. Woodlock will write a daily signed column in the paper, the announcement said, "and his viewpoint will also find frequent editorial expression."

"Among the first of Mr. Woodlock's contributions," the statement continued, "probably will be his impressions of the work of the interstate commerce commission, its problems, its difficulties, and the defects in the law. These will be written in frank and penetrating style and, with the background of a knowledge unsurpassed in America."

Formerly Its Editor.

Mr. Woodlock joined the Wall Street Journal when he first came to the United States from England. After the death of Charles H. Dow in 1903 he acted as editor of the publication and in February, 1905, was formally appointed to that post.

Later he became a member of the New York Stock exchange, continuing there until 1918, when he became associated with the America International corporation. He resigned in 1923 to write special articles.

BRITISH STATE TO INSURE MAMMOTH $30,000,000 LINER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The British government has agreed, it was announced today, to take up part of the insurance risk on a $30,000,000 liner to be built on the river Clyde for the Cunard company. The vessel is so large that ordinary insurance was not obtainable for her whole value. A firm of brokers at Lloyds has agreed to take up $18,000,000 of insurance, the government taking the rest.

The agreement between the company and the government will be confirmed by a special parliamentary bill to be drafted next session. It is understood that this will also cover the insurance on a second mammoth vessel to be built on the river Tyne.

This unprecedented step in British maritime history was taken in order to secure employment for the idle British shipyard as unless insurance was obtainable the steamship line would not start construction of the ship. The construction of each liner will employ 10,000 people for two to three years. Both vessels are to be of 60,000 tons, and will have a speed of 30 knots.

ROSENWALD'S KIN CHANGES NAME IN HIS HONOR

Norristown, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A decree was signed by Judge Corson in County court today allowing Julius Lessing Rosenwald, 15, son of Lessing J. Rosenwald of Abington, Pa., vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., to change his name to Julius Rosenwald II., in honor of his grandfather, Julius Rosenwald of Chicago.

Lessing J. Rosenwald explained his son, who is a student at Episcopal academy, Philadelphia, has been using the name of Julius Rosenwald II. for some time, and it was decided to take the steps to make the change legal.

LINER RETURNS FROM CRUISE OF 'WIDE OPEN' SEA

Religious Hour Daily; Bar Was Popular.

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—When the Anchor liner California returned to port today after six days peripatetic steaming around the Atlantic ocean, two schools of thought, widely divergent, reported. One, the ultra conservative group, had witnessed a quiet voyage over the spindrift. There was an educational tour of Halifax, the only port visited, and there were two masses and other religious services every day.

This group, which included more officers than passengers, pictured a spiritual, meditative company of souls on a trans-Atlantic liner. Deck sports, high noon and the evening sun bathed the California in a nepenthe of good things, and there were few aboard who were not better for the voyage to Nova Scotia and an unfettered cruise over the sea.

Lady Godiva at the Bridge.

The second school of thought, being more liberal, manifested itself more strongly — passengers reported considerable hilarity, particularly at the ship's bar, and a general spirit of levity which crystallized at midnight three days ago when a passenger, said to have resembled Lady Godiva in outward appearances, strode lithely to the bridge and engaged officers in converse.

This phase was emphatically denied by the stronger members of the conservative contingent, and particularly by Capt. Smart, who said, "It's made out of thin air," speaking, of course, of the story. Capt. Smart said he was certain that nothing of such untoward nature could have happened without him knowing it.

Bar Receipts Only $5,000.

There the disagreement stands, with officials of the National Tours company declaring bar receipts for the tour were "only" $5,000. No one seems sure whether this is an argument for the conservatives or for the younger generation.

The California went out last Saturday as a "nowhere" cruise ship, on a trip designed for those who had not money or time for a voyage to Europe. Before she sailed it was announced that it had been decided to route the vessel to Halifax, but that otherwise the California would simply cruise on the Atlantic wherever the captain chose.

GIRL'S WISH FOR REVENGE LEADS TO 2 SLAYINGS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Search for two men and two women companions extended to Chicago tonight as authorities launched an investigation into the slaying of Louis Derler, 45, Trevor roadhouse proprietor, and Edward G. Dennisty, 45, his bartender, in the roadhouse early today.

The double killing is believed to have been carried out as the result of a girl's wish for revenge.

An autopsy developed the fact that two guns were used. Derler was killed with bullets fired from a .45 calibre revolver and Dennisty died of .38 caliber bullet wounds.

The only clew officials have found was given by Mrs. Derler. She told of her husband telling her last Tuesday night that a young woman answering the description of one of the women in the murder party last night, came to the roadhouse and asked for her sister. Derler told her he didn't know her sister and that she wasn't in his place. The woman started to search the place and Derler led her out. On the way out she slapped Derler on the cheek and told him "I'll get even with you."

The sheriff here wired the Chicago police last night to arrest Miss Birdie Vogel, 6243 South Troy street, to be held as a witness in the slayings. Chicago detectives were sent to the address but the woman was not there, the sheriff said.

STEUBEN CLUB WILL OPEN NEW HOME TONIGHT

Two thousand members of the Steuben club and their friends are expected to attend the formal opening tonight of the club's recently completed building of 49 stories at Randolph and Wells streets.

The Steuben club was founded four years ago by a group of fifty Chicagoans of German descent who met in the Hotel Sherman to organize a group of German-Americans to foster German ideals and culture.

Today the club has 3,000 members and maintains 25 floors of the new clubhouse for the organization's own use. The officers are: William Rothman, president; Walter W. L. Meyer and Walter Brandenburg, vice presidents, and Otto Fetting, secretary.

ROOSEVELT'S JOB WILL BE TARGET IN NEXT SENATE

Radicals Will Fight Confirmation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Trouble is brewing for President Hoover in the next senate session over his appointment of Nicholas Roosevelt of New York as vice governor of the Philippines. Radical Republicans and the Democrats are preparing to join forces in an attempt to block confirmation.

The line of attack was indicated today by Mercer G. Johnston, director of the People's Legislative Service, the organization of the La Follette radical group.

"The appointment of Nicholas Roosevelt as vice governor of the Philippines is the reward for writing a superficially clever book in which it is stated that 'our first quarter of a century in the Philippines has been an experiment in misapplied altrusim' and in which contempt and abuse are poured out upon the Filipinos in practically every paragraph," said Mr. Johnston. "But for the writing of 'The Philippines—a Treasure and a Problem,' which no self-respecting Filipino can read without being justly offended, its author would never have been thought of as vice governor and [which he becomes by virtue of his office] secretary of education. He is without training or experience as an administrator or educator.

"As the result of a few dark nights spent in the Philippines under the aegis of Gov. Gen. Wood, and a few yet darker nights in Java under the spell of the Dutch overlords, Mr. Roosevelt reached the conclusion that our American policy in the Philippines was a humiliating failure, and that the only way to turn the failure into a success was to abandon our American policy and ideals and substitute for them the Dutch colonial policy and Dutch ideals."

Mr. Roosevelt has accepted a recess appointment and will be serving in his post when the question of confirmation comes before the senate next winter.

JURISDICTIONAL DISPUTES IN THE BUILDING TRADES.

Representatives of employers and union labor in the building trades have agreed upon a means of settling jurisdictional disputes peacefully. Previous efforts in this direction have not been notably successful, but this one seems to have on its side a more vigorous determination on the part of all concerned to make it work.

Certainly the peaceful settlement of these disputes would be an unmixed blessing. Jurisdictional disputes in the first instance are quarrels between two or more unions as to which craft shall be employed in performing a particular kind of work. With new building materials constantly coming on the market, the occasions for these quarrels have been frequent. The appearance of a plaster substitute might, for example, raise the question whether the new material should be nailed in place by plasterers with a sort of hereditary claim to the work or by carpenters who claimed superior ability in driving nails. The contractor and the owner would find themselves in no man's land subject to fire from both sides. The plasterers might announce that if the carpenters were favored no plasterers would be permitted to do any work in the building under construction or in any other building being erected by the contractor or owner concerned. The carpenters might retaliate in kind. The dispute might go on for weeks and months with heavy loss to all concerned, but especially to the owner whose money was tied up through no fault of his own.

Because of the awkward position in which the owners and contractors were placed by quarrels of this sort jurisdictional disputes have been instigated by unscrupulous labor leaders as a convenient means of extortion. Where no real difference of opinion existed one was created for the purposes of the shakedown In consequence both of honest and dishonest jurisdictional strikes building costs have been higher than they need have been, and to that extent employment of building labor on construction projects has been discouraged.

The decision to end these disputes was no doubt encouraged by the present slack condition in the industry. The costs of building have fallen in recent months, but they have not fallen as fast or as far as other costs. Many observers are saying that building labor must be deflated. We would regard that as unfortunate, both for the purchasing power of the country and the standard of living of American workmen, but it may not be avoidable if wasteful practices in the building industry are permitted to continue unchecked. First and perhaps foremost among these practices are the jurisdictional disputes. A means of adjusting them promptly and peacefully may well save the existing wage scales for building labor.

To put an end to the disputes, a board of trade complaints with machinery for arbitration has now been set up. Something more than a mere mechanism is required, however. There must be, in addition, a code of law. Its principles may be laid down in advance or they may be developed by an accumulation of decisions; but unless there is a genuine desire to establish principles of right it is at least doubtful if any scheme can be made to work for long. Any attempt to dodge the question of right and principle will contribute to the breakdown of the system of peaceful settlements exactly as our courts would be broken down if there were no law for them to apply.

It is true that any scheme of arbitration may well remain in operation during the business depression, but when that period is past an unsound scheme may be expected to be forgotten. We hope the men of the building trades are not going into this agreement with any such thought in mind. A longer view emphasizes the importance of finding a permanent means of preventing inter-union disputes. A characteristic of many of the new materials over which the disputes arise is the simplicity with which they may be put in place. The simpler the task, the more easily it can be performed by unskilled and inexperienced labor. Accordingly, it may become increasingly difficult as these new materials come on the market for the unions to maintain their monopoly of building labor against unorganized competition; the best and perhaps the only way to preserve the present high wages and favorable working conditions which have been won through monopoly is to prevent needless quarrels and irritations which can only serve to undermine the monopoly itself.

ARMIES IN CHINA.

One American gunboat, the Palos—190 tons displacement, 2 six pounders, 46 men—steamed back to Changsha, the river having risen two feet—and made it sufficiently hot for the Red forces in possession of the city to induce them to get out. Th reign of terror they had given the city abruptly ended. When the Palos withdraws, as falling water will compel it to do, the Reds will come back unless the Nationalist government can spare reliable troops to relieve and hold the place.

The incident is significant. China is afflicted with sporadic violence because authority has broken down and there is little spirit of local initiative and self-help to provide protection where organized forces are absent. Bandit groups and rebels, incited by Russian intrigue, or moved by the ambitions of local commanders, are able to commit depredations and even plunder important cities like Changsha. A very small disciplined and well equipped force is able to supress these outbreaks.

This, we believe, applies in a great measure also to the armies under the various military leaders which are carrying on interminable operations, marching and countermarching, fighting now and then and retreating or advancing with no important military result. These armies are not as modern or as formidable as we assume or have been told. An apparently well informed observer in Tientsin writing to the China Weekly Review, the very interesting periodical edited by J. B. Powell, who is THE TRIBUNE correspondent at Shanghai, says the present armies of the model governor, Yen, and the Christian general, Feng, who have joined in an effort to overthrow the Nanking government, "have no more resemblance to an up to date European or American fighting force than the armies that have squabbled up and down China for the last nineteen years." He asserts that they have no competent transport and no conception of what such transport is, that their medical service is rudimentary, that their officers have little knowledge of modern weapons, and that they have a hard time getting ammunition, largely because they are guilty of what we should describe as graft, in China known as "squeeze," which turns more funds into private pockets than into munitions.

"Yen and his crowd," says this critic, "could have saved themselves and China millions upon millions of dollars by outfitting and properly training, along modern lines, one small army, and then making it fight, rather than by following the time honored system of playing chess across the map of China with their vast hordes of ill-fed, unpaid, and half equipped bumpkins who haven't the slightest idea of warfare and don't want to learn."

This view supports our own observations and inferences. The Chinese military situation, we have suspected for some time, could be brought to a head in short order by the creation of a comparatively small army thoroughly disciplined and well equipped and led by a general determined as Grant was to fight decisively. The Chinese common soldier has fought well when properly supplied and resolutely led. No wonder he does not when he is half starved, half armed, and commanded by generals who are merely trying to exploit their own interests. The military successes of the Nationalist army in their sweep to the north show what can be done when conditions are fairly favorable to military accomplishment; but the strength of that "victorious army" began to crumble as soon as the great drive was over and the forces of graft and personal ambition resumed their sway.

MORE ABOUT AIR COOLING.

Our congratulations to the Santa Fé railroad for the enterprise of its management in being the first to install air cooling apparatus for its coaches. Always one of the most efficient of American transport agencies, the Santa Fé is taking a step which we think will be memorable in the records of luxurious travel. At first confined to trains de luxe, air cooling, we predict, will soon be used in all passenger trains, and we do not except suburban. On the contrary, there is a real need for it in suburban cars. There is no trial of the commuter so unpleasant as the intense heat during hot spells of the suburban cars, constructed of steel and heated to oven temperature by hours under the sun in a railroad yard. The concourse where it waits for you is itself heated by many locomotives and the interior of the cars is a fair forecast of Hades.

This discomfort is not necessary and it will be relieved by railroads which, though they may not be competing for suburban traffic immediately, are farsighted enough to realize that to make travel pleasant on their lines will build up in the long run the district they serve.

We have been much impressed by the prompt reaction to our editorial of a few days ago on air cooling as the next step in the march of comfort. We have had a number of letters from firms and individuals advising us that devices now exist for air cooling and that they are not too expensive for pretty general use. If this is true, as we hope it is, what seems to be lacking is energetic and intelligent exploitation of a great opportunity, a real want; in other words, sound and effective salesmanship. Certainly the installation of air cooling in factories, offices, trains and even passenger ships would be a new conquest of nature and a new addition to comfortable and healthful living.

Editorial of the Day

THE OHIO'S RENAISSANCE.

[Indianapolis News.]

No longer is the renaissance of the Ohio as a stream of empire subject to doubt. Dispatches yesterday from Washington announced that the interstate commerce commission had authorized the operation of new shipping facilities between Cincinnati and New Orleans. Railroads are directed to enter into negotiations with a company formed to supply water transportation, to establish satisfactory joint rates. Steam tugs, capable of drawing fifty barges, each of 300 tons capacity, are under construction and adequate terminal accommodations also have been arranged.

The completion a year ago of a nine foot channel from Pittsburgh to Cairo, connecting there with a similar channel in the Mississippi south to the Gulf of Mexico, explains this and other evidences of a new force in trade. Where navigable streams originally served the middle west, chiefly as a means of speeding the settlement of virgin areas and the conquest of the forest, they are now supplementing railroads in economic advancement. The trend bears significantly on communities in the lower reaches of Indiana that border the Ohio and those nearby. Northward, where Lake Michigan has contributed greatly to the growth of the Calumet section in the industry, the projected full canalization of the Illinois river as a tie with the Mississippi holds significant prospects. Should the justification of larger traffic reliance on the Wabash ultimately be established, practically the whole of the state would be influenced materially by water carriers.

As it is, the progress of the Ohio alone cannot be regarded as other than vastly significant for all the territory in Indiana from Indianapolis south to the boundary. It will facilitate commercial relations with Mississippi valley states in many lines, and will be an aid in trade with Latin America, especially in bulky commodities, in the hauling of which waterways offer distinct and proved benefits.

HIDING SERIOUS DISEASE.

ONE reason for the prevalence of contagious disease is the fact that so many people are poor neighbors and bad citizens. This is a harsh, cruel statement. Therefore the facts on which it is based should be hurried forth.

The U. S. public health service is trying to establish what they call a morbidity registration area similar to the registration areas for births and deaths. They propose to enter into this morbidity registration area any states in which seventy-five per cent or more of the cases of six preventable diseases are reported to the local health departments.

In a sense, being in the registration area is a guarantee by the U. S. public health service of the kind of protection against contagion the people of a state are getting. It is a sort of mark of honor which outsiders may know of and residents may boast of. Illinois made application for entrance to this to-be-established area. Investigators were sent into the state to ascertain the facts. They made house to house calls on one-tenth of the households, ascertained the facts in them, and from those data estimated conditions.

The diseases chosen for test were diphtheria, infantile paralysis, scarlet fever, smallpox, typhoid fever, and tuberculosis. Diseases such as measles, whooping cough, chickenpox, and mumps were not on the list because it was assumed that parents are careless about them and will be for some time.

Chicago came out exceedingly well. It was a little low on tuberculosis, but, taken as a whole, that city was well above the deadline. Cook county, outside Chicago, Evanston, and a few other cities, made a poor showing. The people of that county get little protection by the government from bad neighbors.

Only 20 of the 102 counties in the state were above the deadlines. About two-thirds of the diphtheria, typhoid fever, smallpox, and scarlet fever were reported. About one-third the cases of these diseases are never reported, even though they are known to be such by the families and physicians. Ought not the friends and neighbors also to know? Is less than that fair or honorable? About one-half the consumption is reported.

Only one-third the cases of infantile paralysis are reported. Between now and October a good many children will have infantile paralysis. It is well for the people to know how much of this disease results from hiding cases.

MUST FACE THE FACTS.

M. F. L. writes: My mother has had what seems to be a continuous cold for more than two years, during which she coughed continually. Recently her doctor told her she had a lung condition. She still coughs and raises a soft white matter. Is there any danger to a 13 year old girl who sleeps with her? Her strength has left her completely and she cannot eat much. Can you suggest some nourishment for her?

REPLY.

I assume by "a lung condition" you mean consumption. It is not safe for this child to sleep with your mother or to be much with her. You should quit fooling yourselves. Have her treated for consumption by means of rest, fresh air, appropriate food, and proper medical and nursing care. Unless you acknowledge her condition to be what it is and govern yourself accordingly you cause her to lose her chance of life and you endanger those around her.

LIVER IS ALL RIGHT.

C. K. writes: Could a woman of 52 with diabetes eat any kind of liver?

REPLY.

I think so.

IT'S A SYSTEM.

Chicago, July 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can you tell me why the Superior and Circuit divorce courts try the noncontest suits first and the contested cases linger on, pushed and shoved around until last? I filed a divorce suit last September, 1929, in the Circuit court and I understand no date is set for trial, although parties filed after this and had their cases disposed of.

2. Can it be that the judges are out for a record in handling cases, or is it a collusion between lawyers?

3. I maintain the case should be called in rotation, whether noncontest or contested cases. P. B.

1. Because the uncontested cases can be handled in less time. Your lawyer is in a better position to tell you about the case than we are.

2. We see no reason for such suspicion.

3. Wouldn't you consider it preferable that a few people should wait for cases that will take considerable time than that more people should wait for cases that take less time?

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

Chicago, July 26.—[Friend of the People.]—I wonder if the health department could look at my neighbor's children who are so neglected it is a crime to let them go as they are.

The children are two boys, 6 and 9 years of age. They have a mother who is so filthy that she lets them go to bed dirty after playing all day in their overalls, without washing their face or hands or undressing them. They go to a small room where there are two beds put together as if one large bed. Mother, father and the two boys all sleep together. Is this within the health department's rules? MRS. L.

We find that conditions exist as described, and we are forwarding a report of our investigation to the Juvenile Protective association, so that steps may be taken to relieve the situation.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WELL, WHOM DO WE KILL FIRST?

Tom Edison, the genial old soul, put this question to the 49 nice boys who are candidates for his old shoes:

"You are the head of an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are:

"1—A brilliant scientist, aged 60.

"2—Two half-breed guides, aged 58 and 32.

"3—The scientist's wife, interested mainly in society, aged 39.

"4—Her son, aged 6.

"5—The girl you are engaged to.

"6—Your best friend, a young man of your own age who has shown great promise in science.

"7—Yourself.

"Which would you choose to live, and which to die?"

Mr. Edison's question shows whither we are drifting in this machine age, or machine gun age—as you like. The 49 boys who answered this question are being taught that they mustn't be squeamish and have old-fashioned ideas. As scientists they mustn't hesitate to bump a sweetheart or a best friend off as quickly as they would a guinea pig. It gives us who are not scientists a horrible sinking feeling in the pit of the stomach from now on. Every time a scientist casts his cold gray eyes on us with the gaze of a butcher at a fat ox in the stockyards we will wonder if he is thinking of shooting us right then and there as a benefit to the human race. He may be right at that, but at the same time we don't like it. Anyhow, a scientist, and a brilliant scientist at that, is included in that hypothetical party in the desert. Three rousing cheers! If we are compelled to choose whom in that gang we'd have to kill first we would tap the brilliant scientist right on the back of the coco with a sockful of sand. After which we would decide that by carefully distributing the supplies on hand and by making stew out of the shoes in the party we would also be able to keep going until we were rescued. Mr. Edison probably thinks the right answer is that it is unnecessary to kill four people in the party; just kill the scientist and eat him. But scientists, even brilliant ones, always look so dry and tough, and we imagine that eating one, especially without parboiling for three or four hours, would give anybody a frightful case of indigestion.

STREET SCENE.

Did you ever walk at dawn
Upon an empty street,
And listen to the echoes
Of your pounding feet?

Did you ever glance at houses,
Standing still as death,
Where no one stirs within them
And the windows hold their breath?

And suddenly a girl
Emerges from her retreat.
And you listen to her heels
Go drumming down the street.

Whose hair is falsely gold;
Rivaling the rising sun's
Upon the sky's threshold.

And then you see a window
With blinds tightly drawn
Against the indifferent eyes
Of the smiling dawn.

When morning's perfect beauty
Fills you with delight,
Don't you pity those poor children
Who live only for the night?

KEEPER OF THE STARS.

AND, BESIDES, Tom Edison's question about choosing which people to murder in that crowd wandering around the desert isn't comprehensive enough. Is the "girl you are engaged to" a blonde or a brunette? Does either of the guides snore? Has the wife of the scientist bawled you out for smoking cigarettes or taking a small snort of brandy now and then? Does "her son, aged 6," smear molasses taffy all over your new white woolen panties? Is "your best friend" trying to date up the girl you are engaged to? These things would all make more or less difference, Mr. Edison, and before we get lost in the desert and start loading up the old shotgun to begin the holocaust we'd like a little more information.

JIM REED says over in London: "No country of which I have ever heard has reached so superb a stage of oppression by law as my own." We have often expressed that sentiment in almost the same words, but usually the answer we get is, "Oh, the laws are all right; get a good bootlegger, you poor fish; get a good bootlegger."

CLOUD AND PILLAR.

The nicest thing in the world to do
Is to love the man that you're married to.
There are so many paths that you cross each day
That would lead to strife if you strayed that way;
There are so many pitfalls beside your road,
When Sorrow and Doubt are your spurs and goad;
But you have a beacon that guides you through

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 2, 1914.

BERLIN.—The German emperor, in the name of his government, has declared war on Russia. Last night 50,000 people in front of his palace cheered his warlike speech.

LONDON.—News of a German invasion of Luxembourg has reached London in Reuter telephone dispatches from Brussels. The army officials seized the government offices and telephones. Luxembourg borders on Germany and France.

LONDON.—A Central News dispatch received late this evening says that Germany has declared war on France. No confirmation of the report was received from any of the European capitals.

LONDON.—Events in the European crisis have developed with startling rapidity. The German ultimatum to Russia to cease mobilization expired at noon yesterday, and at 5:15 p. m. the German emperor signed a mobilization order. At 7:30 p. m. the German ambassador at St. Petersburg, Count von Pourtales, delivered a declaration of war in the name of his government, and the entire embassy staff immediately left St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG. — Germany's declaration of war against Russia has provoked in the Russian capital a wonderful demonstration of patriotic loyalty. All night the city presented a spectacle of extraordinary animation. The Nevsky Prospect and all leading thoroughfares were filled with war frenzied people.

PARIS.—An official decree orders a general mobilization of the French army, beginning tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Active measures for the relief of many thousands of Americans in distress in Europe for lack of money or means to return home have been begun by President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan.

AUGUST 2, 1900.

LONDON.—The allied forces started from Tientsin to Peking to relieve the hard pressed legations there. Eighteen miles have been traversed on the way and it is the hope to reach Peking by Aug. 7. From Shanghai and Tientsin come reports that the Chinese are gathering in force and erecting entrenchments to oppose the advance of the allied army. Fifteen thousand Chinese are encamped between Peitsang and Yangtsun and are being strongly reinforced.

NEW LONDON, Mo. — Alexander Jester was acquitted on a charge of having murdered Gilbert Gates, brother of John W. Gates, president of the American Steel and Wire company. The prosecution claimed the murder was committed in 1871. Gilbert Gates had started from Kansas for Illinois in a wagon and at Fort Scott fell in with Jester, with whom he traveled as far as Monroe county, Mo. and disappeared. Jester continued the journey with Gates' wagon and property. He was arrested for Gates' murder, but he broke jail at Mexico, Mo. Twenty-nine years later Jester's sister wrote to the sheriff of Monroe county that Jester was living in Shawnee, Okla., under the name of Hill, and he was arrested there.

MONZA, Italy.—King Victor Emmanuel III. and Queen Helena arrived here today. The new king had learned of the assassination of his father, King Humbert, at Capo Spartivento, where he had called with his yacht. The commander of a gunboat handed him a batch of telegrams addressed to "His Majesty Victor Emmanuel III." Then he knew his father was dead.

HALIFAX.—The steamship Asia arrived from Europe and brings news that the shore end of the Atlantic cable was landed at Valencia on July 22 and the connection made with the shore instruments before a large concourse of people. Enthusiastic speeches were made by the Knight of Kerry, Sir Robert Peel, and others. Three cheers were given for the queen and President Johnson.

WASHINGTON.—Because of indisposition confining him to his room, President Johnson has received no visitors since July 29. The attack is a recurrence of an old affliction of a bilious nature which has troubled Mr. Johnson at times for some years.

INSANITY.

Chicago, July 26.—On Jan. 18, 1929, at 1:15 p. m., five armed men in broad daylight held up the Franklin Trust and Savings bank. Three were shot, one fatally. Through prompt police action the bandits were in custody within eight hours and identified 24 hours later. Confessions were signed. A trial by jury brought the verdict, electrocution.

Four times a stay of execution was granted to permit an appeal to the Supreme court. That body reviewed the case and affirmed the decision. Another appeal, and again affirmed. An appeal to the board of pardons; it, too, was turned down. And now, according to the press, Attorney John L. Fogle files an insanity petition.

Should Illinois continue or abandon capital punishment? Here is a real test case. Five hardened criminals, all with records, one picked as a former murderer, and the state is compelled to defend against insanity after a long, expensive prosecution. What protection have the taxpayers? If they win they lose. It's a first class comedy and to laugh, except that it is so serious.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS.

THE PACKERS' DECREE.

Chicago, July 26.—I see where the farm board and Chairman Legge favor modification of the packers decree, which would permit the packing trusts to open chain stores and sell meat products direct at retail to the consumer, which would benefit the farmers, not to mention the packers, by eliminating the middleman and reducing the cost of distribution. But why stop with the distribution of meat products? Why not go into the hide business or into the manufacturing of leather goods, let us say shoes, doing away entirely with the small shoe merchants who pay high rents and taxes?

It would also be a good plan in order to stabilize the price of wheat for the board to go into the baking business on a large scale, as there are still a number of independent bakers doing business at a profit.

If the packers decree is changed it will be just too bad for the neighborhood butcher, who would go broke and would have to join the filled ranks of the unemployed, together with the other victims of mergers and so-called bigger and better business systems or trusts, which are the main reasons for the present business depression.

G. RUTKOWSKI.

KANSAS HAS FUN.

Oak Park, Ill., July 30.—I consider your editorial, "Kansas Has Fun," an insult to the state. All the inhabitants of Kansas are not as illiterate as you make them out to be. Do not condemn a state because of one quack doctor and jake paralysis—which, I am sure, is not confined to Kansas alone.

CONVINCING THE "TOLERANT DRYS."

San Francisco, Cal., July 11.—For nearly forty years my business has compelled me to visit the large eastern markets, consequently I have had the pleasure of visiting your city twice every year. On these visits I have taken Mrs. Durney. In visiting all these different cities we naturally read the daily paper, but both my wife and myself have stated time and again that in our humble opinion THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is the greatest paper published in these United States. By that I don't mean we always indorse the sentiments of your paper expressed in your editorials, but as a newspaper it has no equal. Moreover, I am happy to say that through my personal friend, Mr. J. J. Mulligan, editor of the Chicago Canner, I receive your editorials.

The foregoing is all preliminary to telling you that your editorial of June 21 entitled "The Republican Nomination in 1932," and that of July 6 entitled "Government Under the 18th Amendment" appeal to me most forcibly. I indorse every paragraph, sentence and word. It is influential papers such as yours that write such articles that I believe will eventually make at least a "tolerant dry" see the light. JOSEPH DURNEY.

CONTRAST.

Chicago, July 18.—As impressive a lesson as was sent from any pulpit that day was the drama on the lake front all through Lincoln park Sunday evening and it was being appreciated by hundreds. That mighty, fascinating, ever changing body of water was piling higher and higher and sending huge waves over the shore line, thrilling to see and thrilling to hear. A great golden moon rising out of the black waters was making fantastic pictures in the clouds as she rode on up her path guided by the Unseen.

Two big officers tapping on car windows: Eleven o'clock!

A BOONE DOCUMENT.

Mount Sterling, Ill., July 19.—A picture in the rotogravure section and the article about Daniel Boone bring to mind the fact that I have a document in my possession dated nineteenth day of August, 1788, 'o which Daniel Boone and his wife, Rebecca, for the consideration of 60 pounds, current money of Virginia, deeded to my great-grandfather, Jacob Frye, 200 acres of land, a part of a tract of 4,000 acres entered in the name of Thomas Logwood and assigned to Daniel Boone. The ink of this document is in first class condition, not having faded in the least. The deed was recorded in Bourbon county, Virginia, in the regular way.

Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans Tells Daily How to Guide Children

The Nine Hundred Block

BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

SYNOPSIS.

To the nine hundred block, with its deteriorated dwellings, moved gentle, lovely Theresa Ames and her mother, Mrs. Colt, under the watchful eye of Mrs. Baum, neighborhood gossip. Theresa makes friends with Katie Warner, who lives upstairs, and B. Jones, a reporter; also Johnny Deane, who left a home of wealth to make good for the girl to whom he regrets, since meeting Theresa, he is engaged. He has found employment painting automobiles. Theresa does typing at home to support herself and her mother, who has known better days. Mrs. Colt wants Theresa to marry Billy Treadway, a rich bachelor beau of her own girlhood.

Theresa's father, Arnold Ames, married again after Theresa's mother divorced him to marry Barrington Colt, who recently died. The father now has a belated desire to help his daughter, but his wife threatens to leave him if he does. He arranges with Harold Gale, a friend, to secretly give Theresa work.

Johnny Deane had determined not to tell Theresa of his love for her until he had broken his engagement, but does not keep his vow. Theresa loves him, but her mother doesn't approve of so poor a suitor as Johnny supposedly is.

Johnny sends his laundry to a neighbor, and Mrs. Baum, noting the Paris and London labels, spreads the report that Johnny is a prince in hiding.

Johnny receives a letter from the girl to whom he is engaged, threatening to sell his letters to the papers if he doesn't fix it up with his father to marry her. He writes to her, breaking the engagement, then confesses to Theresa, who is heartbroken and will not listen to his pleas for forgiveness. She tells her mother she will marry Billy Treadway, and writes to her father.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

CRASHING IDOLS.

Arnold Ames read the letter once more. He was not going to have it. He stood up to pace his office. Laura could leave him if she must. His God knew he did not want to hurt Laura, and his God knew, too, that his house would be empty without Laura and the boy. But—for Laura and for him only a few more sober years. For his boy, years all the same; for his daughter, if she married Treadway, sober, twilight years from start, where should have been spring noons in years.

He folded the letter to put it into his pocket. How could he go about it, the "smashing the damned arrangement to nothing?" What could he do? The matter would take thought. He knew one thing; he was not going to have it. He wished he could get in touch with young Deane. Suddenly he chilled, remembering that Elsie had come out ahead in every disagreement that they had ever had.

He'd make his fight—anyway, he vowed. But remembering Elsie and her methods, he felt beaten before the start.

Laura, that noon, slipped a newspaper of bold headlines beneath a sofa cushion. That which called her "mind" was awakened from its torpor only by brutal prods; cayenne pepper, sex, that for some, by any other name, is not as sweet. She had been reading, had Laura, of a chorus girl called Collette Clyde, who, "the broken hearted toy of a rich young man's fancy," had threatened suicide and had been rescued only in time. [Found by some one who had waited outside the door to hear, "For God's sake come in here! The gas really is on! Yuh big horse!"] And so are headlines and tragedies sometimes made.

The sub headline had it, "Dancing with a Broken Heart; Her Dreams of Heaven Shattered." The headline proper held the man's name, which was Johnny Deane. His letters to Collette were to run—large installments in each issue—for two days. Laura would send Riley to the newsstand by the "Well," said J. Z., "we don't pick on women to do it."

Traction office in the morning. Arnold—her thoughts changed—if Arnold deceived her about that woman or her daughter she would leave him! She could not bear deceit! She sent a testing glance toward the sofa cushion to be certain that the hidden paper did not show.

Johnny, in New York, was reading the same paper. He knew it was out as soon as he stepped into the offices, which were so sumptuous and sleek that they impressed small, country business men who swaggered greatly in those offices in order to cover awe. He knew it from the way heads had bent above work, and thus, studiously, avoided even a short glance at him. Usually eager, warm nods greeted his roving eyes in which a universal kindness and a strong hurt, both recently planted, had grown strong.

He spoke to an office boy who came lurching through a gate. He wanted the Fulper papers, said Johnny. The boy disappeared, to tell the elevator girl of it, riding down. Coming back, the boy took the papers to "the Crown Prince," who was shut in his office.

"Thank you, Jimmy, that will be all," said Johnny.

A girl in the outer office whispered, "He's lost ten pounds—if he's lost one—this last week——"

Her companion wheezed back, "He looks real old some times. Have you took notice to that?" then Mr. Greenly nearing and silence.

Johnny did look older, which was fitting; he was older; much older.

He found a picture of himself on the front page of the paper; the one in polo togs, taken the time he'd played with the All American team against the Argentines. He looked carelessly debonair and capable of cruelty in that picture and he had then certainly been carelessly debonair, and that sometimes makes a cruelty. But he was no longer carelessly debonair. He hoped—suddenly—that it would not hurt his father. He had become very aware, had Johnny, that the strings that pull the puppets upon the stage of life must tangle. Every jerk that fate's fingers gave him pulled his father, who was too stiffened to move suddenly without a twinge and after soreness.

Collette's picture, too, in the paper; not one of her bare backed affairs but one that looked demure and pensive and as near to Quaker maid as Collette could ever look.

"Her dreams of her little Love Nest" were half way down a column. Collette, beneath this, confided the hungers, which had been hers, for a little vine covered cottage, where she could bake and sew and read to her "heart's content."

Johnny laughed hollowly. Then, in the office that had been given him, he dropped his arms to the desk and his head to his arms. His hot, unhappy cheek rested against the picture of a boy whose creed, which had not worked, had been, "Live while you can and plenty."

Johnny's father opened the door; Johnny raised his head and, lurching a little, he rose. He saw his father had found it.

"I'm sorry," Johnny said dully, "not that I suppose that will do much good."

"It will do you good to feel so," said J. Z. He settled besides Johnny's desk to draw out a long, black cigar. He did not, usually, smoke save after meals, but—be was a bit upset and he needed the sedative. He bit the end from his cigar, spit it out with a put-put, starting-motor-boat sound and lit up. Johnny watched him with tragic, bleak eyes.

"I have—a letter," said Johnny, "that would spike that story; that would kill it—like that!" he snapped his fingers.

"Well," said J. Z., "we don't pick on women, do we, John?"

"No, sir. I—I just wanted you to know I had the letter—and—wouldn't use it."

"I will stand this," said J. Z., "but if you came back—defending yourself against even the worst woman on the earth—I wouldn't stand it, John."

"I know that."

"And I guess—she had something on her side."

"A great deal," said Johnny.

J. Z. Deane took his cigar from his lips to study it. He didn't want Johnny to see the pride that was in his eyes and that had been often set in them by Johnny's unfailing honesty. And J. Z. knowing men—the foundation of his success had been built by knowing honest men and by giving honest value—knew Johnny would come through all right. Truthful men weren't bad.

"You're—you're damned good to me," said Johnny miserably.

"I'm never as good to you as I want to be," said J. Z. "I'm very proud of having you for a son," he added. Johnny's eyes filled.

"See you at luncheon," said J. Z., rising and turning toward the doorway.

Johnny had wanted to say, "I'm going to make you proud of something decent and new in the way of a son," but he didn't dare trust himself to speak. He hated yapping around with a cracking voice; men didn't blubber. He had done that with Theresa. Theresa—Theresa!

Theresa, too, read the flaming preface of Johnny's new age—not youth sensed the letters. She read in Katie's rooms where she was again going—quite frequently.

Katie said, somberly as Theresa dropped the paper [weakly], "Well, he wasn't no flashy dresser, but I always knew he was a gent and this just proves it."

Theresa sagged back on Katie's couch. The nausea that was poisoning her days and making nights long, swept through her with new force. Down below was her mother, who, having heard of Johnny's connection with Big J. Z. Deane, had suggested that Theresa write Johnny and ask him to come back. . . . "Mother wants her little girl to be happy," Elsie had said.

Theresa knew that she would never forgive her mother for that betraying change of loyalty. She had made no response, she had simply looked at her mother; and Elsie, to do her justice, was a little uncomfortable. That had made her talk too much; had made her add reason for changing her candidate and thus had she made a bad matter much worse; too much of truth being told by her lies.

Good morning!

The man from Wyoming is, of course, Mr. Gary Cooper, and "from" is right.

He [Jim Baker in the picture] is a bridge builder and when the war's declared he goes away from Wyoming and joins the 132d Engineers "over there." WHERE he meets a very rich and very spoiled general's niece who insists on marrying him p. d. q., as we are not taught to say in Sunday school.

Jim Baker is ordered back to war almost immediately after his wedding, and almost immediately after he's ordered back he is reported killed in action. His lovely bride goes a bit hay wire with sorrow, and drinks, dances, gambles, and gambols in order to forget. The rumor of her husband's death proving false—as rumors have a way of doing—she has considerable explaining to do. Enters misunderstanding, followed in the sweet bye and bye by reconciliation and a meek and lovely lady telling a stern young captain that when he goes back to Wyoming, why thither she's going with him.

Nice little program film this "Man from Wyoming" that isn't the "western" it sounds as if it were. The war stuff is sketchy and not very convincing, but direction, photography and acting measure up all right and the piece sports several laughs.

If you can politely overlook the fact that the story of "Love Among the Millionaires" is an inane and unoriginal little old thing, why, otherwise, you will find the picture pleasing. I think. Who am I?

For these reasons: Clara Bow has her hair combed. Young Mitzi Green, the child Elsie Janis, is, if not ever present, still much and satisfyingly in evidence—and Mitzi is only one of an excellent cast who do wonders with the material at hand. Too, Miss Bow drew a good director and one song, "I'm Rarin' to Go," which gets over big. So—not so bad! Not so bad! As for Clara, she performs ably, if without distinction.

The story? Well, it's the one about the waitress who falls in love with the son of the president of the railroad, unwotting he is other than a simple brakeman. His father, of course, says, "Very well, take the girl, but if you do you are no longer son of mine, and I'll let another man do the nice big job I had all lined up for you, my son, but not my heir!"

Whereat the noble waitress, rather than see her beloved's life ruined through acts of hers, enters into cahoots with papa and tells same that if he will that evening throw a party for the creme de la creme of which he is part of the thickness she will make a monkey of herself and thoroughly disgust the man she loves, that he may of his own accord give her up. . . . Sure, you've heard that one.

Well, it ends just the way you know it's going to end. All of which doesn't interfere with the fact that Mitzi Green is grand as the heroine's kid sister and that the Man Who Looks Like Will Rogers (Mr. Stuart Erwin) and Skeets Gallagher are fine folks to have about when a Grandma plot like the one this story's built on comes wobbling forth upon the screen.

BEACON AND PHONE WILL TELL BIRTH OF YORK'S DUCAL BABY

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The tenants of the Glamis castle estate, where the duchess of York is resting in expectation of the birth of a baby, began today collecting fuel for the huge beacon which will announce the royal birth to the countryside.

High on Hunters hill, overlooking the ancient castle of the duchess of York's family, fagots were being piled in a mountainous heap. Lighting of this beacon will be a signal for other bonfires throughout the country, in accordance with ancient custom of days when these flares were the only quick method of communication.

Today two special telephone lines had been connected directly with Buckingham palace in London so that the king and queen may be constantly in touch with Glamis castle.

Dispatch riders have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to carry telegrams and other messages in case of a sudden emergency. Sir Henry Simon, noted London surgeon, has taken up residence near the castle.

Albert, duke of York, and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon were married April 26, 1923. The duke is the second son of King George V, and his wife ranks "fourth lady of the land." Their first baby was born April 21, 1926, at her father's London house and was named Princess Elizabeth Alexandra Mary.

Noted for her establishment of the home economics extension service, Prof. Bevier was economic director of Illinois under the federal food administration and was president of the American Home Economics association from 1910 to 1912. She taught home economics at the university for 30 years.

Women Flyers Powder Noses, Call on Hoover

Wear Reception Garb in Swagger Airplanes.

Only a whiff of their powder puffs was necessary to prepare Phoebe Omlie and Blanche Wilcox Noyes to meet President Hoover today after they had piloted their boudoirlike little aerial coupés here from Chicago.

Under their leather flying coats the two women wore smart summer suits suitable for almost any occasion. With the comfort of speedy, modern, inclosed planes, they explained, need for heavy breeches and leather leggings for women has gone.

Mrs. Omlie arrived at Hoover field in a trim little scarlet and black inclosed cabin plane. She expects to fly the same type of plane in the coming women's Dixie Derby, which is part of the national air races. The contestants will start from Washington Aug. 22 on a five day race for a $4,000 purse. Mrs. Omlie won the 1929 women's Derby.

Proudly she called attention to the red leather cushions, the colored enamel control knobs and the little blue skylight curtain which keeps the sun from burning a pilot's neck.

She took off her helmet, passed a powder puff over her nose and smilingly said she was ready to meet the President as soon as she had changed her stockings, which were a bit grease spattered. She wore a green and white silk suit.

Mrs. Noyes sailed in a bit late for the party. She was wearing a light blue knitted suit under her leather coat. She was held up, she explained, not by accident, but by the necessity for getting more gas in Pittsburgh.

Another woman flyer who met the President was Nancy Hopkins of Washington, D. C., 21 years old, who flew from New York for the week-end. She, too, revealed a smart blue and white linen costume under her coat. In place of a helmet she wore a little green beret.

Nancy, however, when told she was invited to the White House, said she "just must go home and change her dress." She later appeared at the executive mansion.

GANDHI'S FAME SURE; PARIS NAMES DRESS FASHION AFTER HIM

PARIS, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Gandhi tunics have made their bow to the world in the Paris salons where winter styles are being shown. Blouses of India print, handblocked on wool from Kashmir are another of the offerings.

India prints fit right in with the winter color scheme of rich browns, reds, blues and greens favored in a score of Paris dressmaking establishments.

The fickle fashion makers suddenly have switched over from tucked-in blouses, familiarly called "tuckins" to "tuckouts" or tunics, which are worn outside the skirts. The Gandhi tunics reach twelve to eighteen inches below the waistline and follow the lines of an ordinary blouse.

Seven Alien Beauties Reach Galveston for Pageant, Judgment

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Seven European beauties were given an ovation when they arrived here today to compete with American girls in the international pageant of pulchritude for Miss Universe's crown. The pageant will open tomorrow.

The European contestants came by train from New Orleans and were greeted by Mayor J. E. Pearce and consuls of the countries they represent.

Four girls from the east who arrived today on the Mallory liner Mohawk also were given a welcome.

The entrants from across the Atlantic are: Miss Germany, Marta Boeke; Miss France, Madeline Mourgues; Miss Rumania, Lilliana Andresou; Miss Hungary, Gero Gyrogyke; Miss Austria, Micie Marienne; Miss Turkey, Feriha Schofik; Miss Russia, Nadia de Kozarine.

The eastern contingent included Miss New York, Lora Rodinoff; Miss Brooklyn, Elsie Rossi; Miss Philadelphia, Vera Waters; Miss Albany, Patricia Lee.

Others to arrive today included Miss Chicago, Bernice Decker; Miss Tennessee, Hazel Thomlinson; Miss New Orleans, Dorothy Dell Goff; Miss Dallas, Margaret Le Blanc; Miss Ohio, Elizabeth Gregg; Miss Cleveland, Dorothy Louis, and Miss Pennsylvania, Pauline Scott.

First National Studios to Decrease Production Work

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Jack L. Warner today announced that the First National studios, under his control, will curtail work for eight to ten weeks beginning Sept. 20. Three pictures on the current program remain to be completed, including one for Richard Barthelmess.

Charities Are Next on List to Inherit the Wendel Millions

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The vast Wendel fortune, estimated to be nearly $150,000,000, founded many years ago when John G. Wendel and John Jacob Astor were selling furs and buying New York real estate, is now in the hands of Miss Ella V. Von E. Wendel, granddaughter of the founder and the last mistress of the old Wendel mansion on 5th avenue.

The will of Miss Wendel's sister, Mrs. Rebecca Wendel Swope, who died at Quogue, L. I., on July 20, was filed for probate today in Surrogate's court, and it leaves a life interest in practically all of her fortune to the sole survivor of the family that once comprised six sisters and a brother.

In the will the amount of Mrs. Swope's fortune is merely stated as "more than $20,000," but since the whole family fortune had concentrated in the hands of Mrs. Swope by agreement between the sisters following the death of their brother, her portion of the family fortune must have amounted to many millions of dollars.

Only $90,000 is bestowed on charity immediately, but the will directs that on the death of Miss Ella the residuary estate is to be divided among fourteen charities. Numerous small bequests were made to relatives and friends, and Miss Wendel was named as one of the executors and trustees.

The other executors and trustees named in the will are Isabel G. Koss of New York City, George Stanley Shirk of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; Luther A. Swope, nephew of Mrs. Swope's late husband, the Bank of New York and Trust company, and the trustees of the New York annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

By a codicil dated June 12, 1924, Mrs. Swope revoked a section of her will, in which she left her husband all moneys on deposit in her name in several banks and all her stock in the New York Central and Hudson River railroad and directed that these should go to Mr. Shirk. Mr. Swope died in 1924.

The charitable bequests and the charities named to share in the residuary estate after the death of Miss Wendel are the following:

St. Mary's Free Hospital for Children, $5,000 in bonds; the board of foreign missions, $5,000 and residuary remainder interest; Nankin Theological seminary, Nankin, China, residuary remainder interest; board of home missions and church extension of the Methodist Episcopal church, Philadelphia, $10,000; Drew Theological seminary, Madison, N. Y., $30,000 and remainder interest in a special trust of $100,000; St. Christopher's Home for Children, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., $5,000 and residuary remainder interest; Methodist Episcopal Church home, $15,000 and residuary remainder interest; the New York Association for the Blind, residuary remainder interest; New York Homeopathic Medical college and Flower hospital, residuary remainder interest, and American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, residuary remainder interest.

Also the Dobbs Ferry Hospital association, residuary remainder interest; the Northfield school, East Northfield, Mass., residuary remainder interest; National Kindergarten association, residuary remainder interest; New York Society for the Relief of the Ruptured and Crippled, residuary remainder interest, and the West Park Presbyterian church, residuary remainder interest.

Mrs. Swope was the only one of the six Wendel sisters who ever married. Their only brother, John, did not want them to marry, and when one of the girls, Georgiana, attempted to run away with a man she met in a church she was brought back and eventually confined in a sanitarium.

Club Formed to Put Women in Public Jobs

Sponsors Would Ignore Party for That Purpose.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Three Democratic women entertained a number of their Republican sisters at a luncheon at the Chicago Woman's club yesterday and women of both parties formed an independent organization to persuade women to vote for women candidates in Cook county's autumn election.

Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch and Mrs. Olive Rabe, attorneys, and Mrs. Nellie Huntingford were the hostesses yesterday and are the moving spirits behind the new club. The chief purpose of the organization is to promote the candidacies of the four Democratic woman nominees for county board commissionerships—Miss Amelia Sears, Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, and Miss Mary McEnerney in the city, and Mrs. Edwin J. Fleming in the country towns.

Mrs. Plumb said that Mrs. Edward Loewenthal and Mrs. Gertrude Leiber, who were defeated in their race for nomination for the same posts on the Republican ticket, had promised to throw their efforts and influence into the balance to help elect the Democratic women.

Mrs. Plumb also said that she has letters from many independent women who have promised to support the four women candidates for county commissioner, regardless of their political beliefs.

Mrs. Rabe, a Democrat, was elected temporary chairman of the newly formed organization. Mrs. Florence Lund Brown of Evanston, a Republican, is secretary.

Mrs. McCulloch cited a precedent for the movement in the election some years ago of Mary Bartelme, a Republican, as judge of the Juvenile court.

"I remember that it took a good deal of courage for me to announce my decision to work in behalf of Judge Bartelme," she recalled, "because of being head of the Democratic Women's club. But I did announce it and we Democratic women did work for and help elect a Republican woman, and now I believe it is up to women of whatever political party to get together and support these women—for we certainly can congratulate ourselves that we have such excellent, intelligent and well equipped women candidates."

"I preparing myself for the office I seek I learned a great many things," Mrs. Fleming informed the guests during a brief talk. "I learned that the Circuit court judges determine the number of employés the county shall have in its various fee offices. So when we are concerned in electing judges, that the ermine shall not be tarnished, it is hardly surprising in view of the tremendous patronage that attaches to these positions."

Gold Star Mothers Laud Lady Astor as Kind to Them

Full of praise for the hospitality extended by Lady Margaret Astor and English women in general to the Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Lorena G. Harris, 58 years old, 7415 North Damen avenue, returned recently from England, where she visited the grave of her son by a former marriage, Corp. Edward L. Knowlton. Knowlton was one of the casualties on the City of York, British transport, which was wrecked off Belfast during the great war.

Mrs. Harris told how her delegation, which left New York on June 27, was welcomed at Plymouth, England, by Lady Astor and escorted to Brookwood cemetery in the county of Surrey. Their visit there was full of sight-seeing trips, teas and entertainments.

Greek Orthodox Church Head Attends Convention

The head of the Greek Orthodox church in the western hemisphere arrived here yesterday from New York to attend the convention of the Greek American Progressive association. He is the Most Rev. Damaskenos and his title is metropolitan of Corinth, and ecumenical emissary of the Greek Patriarchate. At the Medinah Athletic club, where the convention is in progress, he was welcomed by the Rt. Rev. Philaretos, bishop of Chicago, and by Dr. George P. Gavaris, chairman of the executive committee of the association. In an address to the delegates, the metropolitan expressed thanks for the end of dissension between the Greek and American branches of the church and predicted a long era of universal peace, both religious and national.

Dinner Dance to Bring Lido to Onwentsia

There will be two north shore dinner dances this evening—a large one at Onwentsia Country club, and one not so large, but just as gay, at the Millburn Hunt club, near Gurnee.

The Onwentsia party is to be a repetition of the Lido dinner dance so successful last year. It will be attended by about 300 members and guests. Bizarre pajamas, bright hued bathing suits, and beach robes are the preferred garb and the setting will duplicate the scenes at the real Lido so frequently pictured in the rotogravure sections.

Dinner is to be served on the terrace overlooking the lovely swimming pool and there will be dancing both in the club ballroom and out-of-doors. After the sun goes down colored lights will be turned on the pool for a series of fancy diving stunts.

Among those who have reserved tables for guests are Mrs. Jay N. Whipple, Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, Mrs. Van Wagenen Alling, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Chapman, Mrs. David Pack, Mrs. John F. L. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Poor, Mrs. William E. Casselberry, Mrs. Elliott Donnelley, Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mrs. William A. P. Watkins, the Stuart Logans, Mrs. McPherson Holt, Mrs. Scott Durand, Miss Angela Johnston, and Dr. Paul B. Magnuson.

The dance at Millburn is to be a small Dutch treat affair for the club membership, which numbers less than fifty. The club will not be officially opened until the hunting season begins in early October.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Meade II. of Barrington are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter yesterday at the Passavant hospital. Mrs. Meade is the former Miss Mary A. Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Cooke of 1415 Astor street. The new baby has two brothers, Bobby and George Meade.

Laurance H. Armour, president of the Post and Paddock club at Arlington, and Mrs. Armour will leave next week with the Donald B. Douglases and the Farwell Winstons for a quiet sojourn at Lake Keego. The Armours in their capacity as official host and hostess at Arlington, have been faithful attendants at the track.

Many of the regular racing fans gave luncheons before the races yesterday. There will be numerous luncheon and box parties at the closing this afternoon. The Silas H. Strawns had seventeen guests yesterday, among them Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz and Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson. Others present were Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and her sister, Mrs. R. E. Danielson of Groton, Mass.; Mrs. Stanley Field, Samuel Insull and Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr. of Lake Forest have joined the senior Mrs. Clow and Miss Marion and Miss Helen Clow at Lawsonia Country club. Miss Della Neff of Pasadena is also a guest of the Clows. Miss Marion Clow is competing in the invitation tennis tournament being held at Lawsonia this week.

In addition to the tennis events, Lawsonia is holding a regatta for class E boats this week-end, with entries from Lake Geneva, Delavan, Pewaukee, and Pine lakes. There is to be a dinner dance this evening for the tennis players and yachtsmen.

Mrs. Alice R. Boswell of Lake Forest is the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. at Sproat Lake, Victoria, B. C. Next week she will meet her children, Scott and Anne Boswell, in Wyoming and will spend the remainder of the month with them at Diamond D ranch, near Caspar.

Nancy Cox-McCormack, the sculptress, is recuperating after a five weeks' illness in Henrotin hospital, having come on from New York to be under the care of physicians at Henrotin.

Miss Clara Lake, who has been abroad since last May with Mr. and Mrs. James Offield, returned to Chicago on Thursday.

Miss Jessie Bond, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Roy Carruthers, will return next Wednesday to Versailles, Ky.

Final Directions on Giving Baby Daily Sun Bath

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A play booklet for mothers of pre-school children will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Did you ever take sun baths? If you've never made a business of doing so you've probably at least done lots of sunning in your bathing suit. If so, you know the sense of physical wellbeing that comes with sun bathing. Knowing that, you must see that from now on your babies and children have sun bathed bodies if you can possibly manage it.

For those who may be going away to the country at once and not want to wait to get their information by mail, I will give here the outstanding points in sun bathing for babies—and this will be our last word on sun bathing this summer.

In July and August, according to the best authorities, the baby should be given his sun bath before 11 a. m. and after 3 p. m.

The idea in beginning sun baths for babies is that at first only a small part of the body at a time be exposed to the direct rays of the sun.

On the first days the baby's face and hands may be exposed, the top of his head and his eyes being protected. Every few days you may expose a little more of his body, for a little longer time—perhaps five minutes. After the hands bare one arm to the sun, then the other, then both. Then the legs in the same way. When the face, arms and legs are tanned, you may take off the baby's shirt for a few minutes each day. Later his band, then his diaper may be removed. Of course he must be turned so that he will brown nicely on all sides!

By gradual increases of time and of the surface exposed the baby reaches a point where he may have an hour's sun bath in the morning and an hour's sun bath in the afternoon, but no between the hours named previously.

Be sure to protect the baby's head and eyes.

One baby specialist warns against a tan so deep hat it looks bronzy—his idea being that it creates a surface which does not allow the ultraviolet ray in the sunlight to do its full work.

Those who wish fuller information will receive it on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Mother Needs Help.

"I have become interested in a mother who has a baby, 1 year old, and a little girl, 5. She has just returned from the hospital and is not able to meet her bills. She is separated from her husband and he can't support the children because he hasn't been working. She is two months behind in her rent, is not strong enough to go to work, and she can't supply the clothing the children need. Can't you help her through your column?

"MRS. A. C."

This mother's illness and the father's unemployment are having their sad effect on the children. Won't you try to make things a little more comfortable for them until the mother is able to work again?

Antoinette Tells Too Plump Girls to Go In for Play

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you walk along the shopping avenues where the season's bathing suits and beach paraphernalia are on display you are bound to ask what chance the porch lounger is going to have this year.

She isn't going to have any chance! She's going to be let sit in all her dressed up glory, while only the mermaids' call will be heeded by our beauty appreciating young men. And what mermaids! My dear, what beauty contest platforms this year's beaches are already! Riots of colors and girls, all shapes, sizes and nationalities.

Now, if you are a young matron and your figure isn't what it was when you might have been a runnerup in the 1925 or '26 bathing beauty contest, don't you go thinking you do not belong in the merry beach crowd. It is just the year you'd better get out there and romp around.

It's a good thing when you are getting in a way of half admitting to yourself that your girlish form is not what it was—it is a good thing, I say, to get right out on the beach where your suspicions will be confirmed for you. There's nothing like a bathing suit to make a lady realize her failings—or her shapeliness, may I not add. There you see yourself in a world mirror, which is far more brutally convincing than the one back home in the shaded corner of the room.

But aside from figure defects, get yourself prepared for beach life. If you don't want to show yourself in a one piece, you don't have to. You don't even have to show your silhouette clearly, at all. You can keep it hidden under a beach costume, long coated and long pant-ed. But if you get out there presently you will want to get in the water and then you will realize how nice it is to have the figure for it—and if you are not too far gone to flesh you will muster up courage enough to forego the ice cream cones and sundaes.

Also, there is the play element that will be introduced into your life. While we are accused of being a nation of play boys and girls and we do give a lot of time to theaters, movies, bridge and whatnot—what we need is more of the unsophisticated kind of play you get romping, skipping, leap frogging and swimming. Matrons just on the verge of settling down with a first baby or two need this stimulus of beach life.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

What was the most embarrassing moment of your life? If you care to have it published, address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Please write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Bogus Money.

I experienced my most embarrassing moment when I was a young fellow about eighteen. I lived in one of the smaller towns down state, whose chief amusement for the "young bloods" was dancing.

It was a beautiful summer's evening, and I had inveigled $1.50 from my mother to take the one and only girl to a dance at the pavilion—the admission for which was $1, the extra fifty cents taking care of car fare, gum and sodas. [My regular outlay in those days on the fair sex.]

Well, we stopped and purchased the gum in a drugstore, and during the transaction of unwrapping, etc., I somehow or other got the dollar bill and the gum wrapper mixed, throwing away what I thought was the gum wrapper, but alas!—it was the dollar bill. I did not discover the tragedy, until I was calmly offering the gum wrapper for entrance to the dance. And my credit wasn't good either! M. J. C.

Ice Fund Gets $705 from the Warner Shows

A check so large that it had to be rolled up and carried under an arm reached THE TRIBUNE last night. It was a Western Union gift order, about 2x4 feet, made out to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund for $705.45, the proceeds given to the charity by Warner Brothers' theaters from their afternoon performances in five Chicago theaters.

The charity benefit was in celebration of the silver anniversary of Warner Brothers. This generous check will give the ice fund, which usually lags far beyond the Camp Algonquin fund, a boost far ahead. The Warner Brothers' gift brings the ice fund total to $2,677.96, a healthy start toward the $5,000 needed to provide 900 or more families of the tenements with ice for the summer.

Benefits given by children are reported in yesterday's general contributions. The children of 5510 Sheridan road gave a circus and earned $5 for the ice fund. There were specialties in swings, acrobatics on a hobby horse, slides, and trapeze, and harmonica music and drums. Those taking part were Michael and Jean Hartnett, Helen Kiser, Dicky Martin, Betty Jo Adams, Arlene Wieland, and Danny and David Fargo.

These gifts to the ice fund are acknowledged:

G. H. Crandall	$10.00
Agnes Clothier	5.00
N. G. O. club	5.00
Estelle M. Troel	5.00
Sheridan road circus	5.00
Paxton avenue play	3.06
Lemonade stand	2.00
Lawrence and Robert Powell	2.00
L. P. Rupert	1.00
Y. H. L.	1.00
From four girls	.20
Total	$39.26

Previously acknowledge, $1,933.25.
Grand total, $1,972.51.

Gifts to the Camp Algonquin fund are needed just as much now as earlier in the summer and will be accepted. Many more mothers and children of the tenements are scheduled for vacations, but the money to send them depends on TRIBUNE readers.

Expects Decision on War Memorial Within 10 Days

The committee appointed by the Chicago plan commission to pass on the merits of a war memorial proposed by the Cook county council of the American Legion for erection in the Wacker drive plaza at Wabash avenue met yesterday in the studio of Frederick C. Hibbard, a sculptor, at 923 East 60th street, to consider the model designed by Leonard Grosse, an artist of THE TRIBUNE staff, and executed by Mr. Hibbard. Benjamin H. Marshall, Chicago architect and chairman of the committee, announced a decision would probably be reached within ten days.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Weakened and dying shade trees in the north shore district of Chicago have been the subject of an investigation on which four tree experts have announced their findings with special emphasis on the diseases and control for them on white oaks and elms.

The scientists engaged in the study were Dr. H. W. Anderson of the University of Illinois, Dr. W. P. Flint, Illinois state entomologist; Dr. Howard Rankin of the Geneva, N. Y., experiment station, and also chief pathologist of the Bartlett Tree Research laboratories of Stamford, Conn., and E. W. Dunbar, general field supervisor of the F. A. Bartlett Tree Expert company of Stamford, Conn.

"Failure of white oaks to reach full development probably is due to the character of the soil and the inability of the root system to penetrate the impervious layer of clay below the surface soil," the report says. Artificial feeding is recommended to overcome this condition.

Two other factors were found in the white oak study. One was the prevalence of golden oak scale and the other a disease technically known as anthracnose. The weak and dying condition of oaks on several north shore estates is said to have been traced to these two sources. Dr. Anderson reports that the golden oak scale is responsible for much damage in the northern Illinois region. Control measures include "any good dormant oil spray" based on a protection found useful after considerable damage to oaks in eastern United States, and especially in New England.

Should Hubby Dig in and Wash the Dishes? Give Your Opinion

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In a divorce suit entered awhile ago the wife admitted that it was not so surprising to find her husband in another woman's home—but what knocked her for a row of string beans was to find the gentleman helping the lady of the third part to wash the dishes. He who'd never sullied his fingers with dish water at home, washing dishes for her rival!

And, says you and you and a couple other girls, "She oughta divorced him!"

Whether that is just cause for divorce or not is something for a higher judgment than we qualify for. But the dishwashing does bring up a question about whether the husband of a working wife should or should not be expected to lend a hand with the dirty plates.

A row is reported from one ménage over the problem. It is not settled yet, from all accounts. But a truce had to be made for the china's sake. The casualties in the list, as reported by the wife, included one best plate which met its end by bouncing off the lady's head after a perfect aim. The wife didn't offer any eulogies on the aim, you may be sure. Neither did she report a maimed skull, which is something.

Well, here are two hot headed individuals who can't get down to any amicable agreement about the dishes. They both work and arrive home at 5:30. They have no maid to open the door and bid them be patient until a juicy steak is broiled. The wife hustles out of her office clothes and into a house dress. She digs into the potato bag, then into the carrot sector or whatever vegetable has been decided upon, gets the meat ready, sets the table, fixed salad and a dessert, during which time the other partner in the fifty-fifty scheme takes himself a nice snooze.

All she asks is a hand with the dishes. Like a lot of other women, her hatred of putting her hands in the water is deep grained. But there is no helping hand. Now, she thinks that since she gets up earliest, gets breakfast, tidies up and devotes Saturday p. m.s and Sundays to the larger duties of housecleaning, clothes washing and so forth that the small duty asked of the man is nothing. He apparently thinks the bare suggestion provocative of fight and broken plates.

What is your opinion?

Sally's List of Circus Fans Is Out Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Four long trains bearing the entertainment for our circus party next Thursday afternoon will arrive in town this morning and long before noon the city of tents will have been raised in Grant park, where Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus will make its home for the next nine days.

Among the outstanding features of this largest show on earth are Goliath, the monster sea elephant; Hugo Zacchini, the human projectile, who twice every day will be shot from a huge cannon; Lillian Leitzel, the tiny star, who is famous for her one arm revolutions in midair; the Wallendas, that daring troupe of tight rope performers; and Lucita Leers, the aerialist.

For the wild west show, a fine collection of thoroughbred horses has been secured and rodeo stars and champions give a splendid exhibition of horsemanship and trick riding. And we mustn't forget the disk lipped savages from the African Congo who form an important part of the side show.

With such an array of entertainers, six rings and five stages in constant action, how can we expect anything but a marvelous afternoon when we assemble under the big top next Thursday? My guests have been selected and I know you're all anxious to know who they are. Well, the news is but twenty-four hours away—tomorrow morning's paper will contain the list of winners, one hundred boys and girls. If your name is not there, don't be too disappointed because there'll be an announcement of another splendid party and you may win an invitation to that.

Self-Sufficient Frock for the Hottest Days

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—For the hottest days it is well to have some frocks that are completely self-sufficient—that is to say frocks that may go out unaccompanied by the slightest wrap, for there are times in summer when even a chiffon scarf is de trop. This is a simple matter for the slim young creature who can get away with running out in almost anything, but for the older woman, it is one that requires serious thought.

Jean Patou, that creator par excellence for the young athletic woman, does not neglect her mother, either, and he designs lovely, graceful gowns with lines that gain everything in dignity without losing anything in chic.

A self-sufficient frock for the woman past—well, shall we say 45? is sketched above. It may be worn chez soi in the afternoon, and, if you wish to step out suddenly, the addition of hat, gloves and sac make it quite suitable for street wear.

Jean Patou makes it in navy blue crêpe on princess lines, slightly bloused at the waistline and with surplice closing [which, by the way, is most flattering to the full figure] on the left side. The neckline and the becoming jabot-rever are edged with a white crêpe band. Godet panels incrusted in the skirt, front and back, lend it height and a long, graceful flare. Its ankle length hem is another fashionable point in favor of the more mature wearer.

Antoine designed the coiffure sweeping the hair in loose waves back from the brow. It's worn long enough to curl the ends under into a little rouleau, which does much to soften that tell-tale line at the back of the neck, and it keeps the head small enough to fit into the fashionable hat.

Food Talk.

Mrs. V. S. B. writes: "We have always been fond of raw fried potatoes and I have tried every way without success to turn them out on a platter a delicate brown and without a trace of grease. Won't you give us a food talk some day on frying potatoes?"

As Mrs. V. S. B. suggests, ideal fried potatoes are a delicate brown, but they are not without a trace of fat. They should be practically free from fat, but not entirely, according to my way of thinking. A quart of sliced potatoes may be "fried" in as little as two tablespoons of fat. In this amount they become a delicate brown, but are dry. Sufficient fat should be used to coat each piece with a thin film to prevent the evaporation of too much moisture from the potato.

I prefer to use 2½ tablespoons of fat to each quart. Have fat hot but not smoking, and add sliced potatoes. [Never slice potatoes and allow them to stand in water.] Slices should be about ¼ of an inch thick. Add salt, ½ teaspoon to each quart of potatoes.

Cover and cook until an amber brown on the lower side. Turn over with a pancake turner. Lower the flame and brown on the other side.

Cooking should require about 15 minutes, not longer than 20. Turn on a hot platter. Perfect fried potatoes are not only a delicate brown on both sides, but they are also slightly waxy, sufficiently so for many of the slices to stick together.

Serve at once. Like broiled steak, fried potatoes are at their best when they are just done. Every minute thereafter they deteriorate. If you adhere strictly to the following rules you should soon attain a reputation for preparing excellent fried potatoes:

1. Choose frying potatoes. This means a waxy potato that will hold its shape. Any immature potato you find on the market now serves well. Later on choose Early Ohios or some of the Rose varieties, but never choose a baking potato. They break too easily and are too dry.
2. Slice thinly.
3. Cook in a small amount of hot fat to the preferred color on one side, then on the other.
4. Serve immediately.

Combination Vegetable Salad

1 No. 2 can string beans
1 No. 1 can peas
2 medium tomatoes, skinned and diced
1 cup sliced celery
1 good flavored apple, diced
1¼ cups cooked salad dressing
Lettuce leaves.

Place alternate layers of vegetables and apple in salad bowl. Add salad dressing. Toss lightly together with two forks. Serve individual salads on lettuce leaves or at the table in a salad bowl, ' nicely shaped green head of cabba... with a slice cut off the top and the center scooped out to form a shell makes a most attractive bowl for this salad.

SON OF R. I. GAS CLERK IS WINNER IN EDISON TESTS

mation questions, but he was told by one of the judges that it would be better not to discuss the examination. The first request he made after being named winner was to ask that "some one phone the folks at home."

Mr. Edison, however, was in a conversational mood. Questions have to be written for him because of his deafness, but he answered them almost as fast as they were put in his hands. Certain of the questions put in the examination stumped even Mr. Edison. He was asked the solution to the "desert question."

That Pesky Desert Question.

Now, the "desert question" concerns the leader of an expedition and two women, a child, a young and an old scientist, and two guides. Only three can be saved. Who are they to be? Mr. Edison rubbed his forehead thoughtfully.

"One thing is sure," he smiled. "You have got to have a guide to get you out. He's one of the Indians. I don't know about the others. What I wanted to see was how the boys would work it out. On a ship the first thing to think of is women and children. A person is likely to think of a number of different things in this one, however."

"How about the digging of a hole 30 miles deep?"

"Now, I'd never do that," said the inventor. "But at least one of the boys wanted to tackle it."

Once Sold Flivver for $75.

"What is your answer to the question of the value of a second hand flivver?"

"Get what you can for it. I got a good one once for $75."

Mr. Edison grinned when asked about the answer to the question concerning a man's thoughts of what constituted success when on his deathbed.

"A man is in a weakened condition then. You couldn't get any good ideas out of a dying man," he said.

Mr. Edison was vague as to how the wheat farmer could improve his financial standing, but said, "All farmers are pretty well protected." He was asked about his religion.

Believes in Eternal Reason.

"I believe in eternal reason that pervades the universe and coördinates all things," he said.

Mr. Edison was asked what he meant by "eternal reason."

"That is a general recognition," he replied. "My brain is not big enough to go further."

Mr. Edison didn't want to talk about religion. He wanted to talk about "his boys."

Picks Two Winners in Group.

Subsequent investigation revealed that Mr. Edison had hit two winners in his group of six.

"High school boys can make better marks on examinations than college men," said Mr. Edison. "That is because a youth six months out of college sheds his learning, while a high school boy still is in the midst of his."

Young L. B. Murdock of Ottawa, Ill., had been picked by several nonofficial participants in the test as a likely winner. He did not place, however. Murdock is a well built, blond haired youth just out of high school. He laughed this morning when told persons were pointing him out. "How did you answer the desert problem?" he was asked.

"I sent my girl, best friend and a guide out," said Murdock, "but I said I did not believe my girl would go if she loved me and that in case she remained I would have the boy go. Anyhow, I was more interested in the man's reaction to his life on his deathbed."

FIGHT OVER CORN SUGAR CARRIED TO WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—The battle over the labeling of corn sugar in canned and packaged foods became warmer today as the contending interests sought to influence the pending decision upon the ruling by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

Under a food and drugs act regulation the department of agriculture now requires a label declaration on manufactured foods sweetened with corn sugar, a ruling said by corn products and farmer groups to be discriminatory in favor of cane and beet sugar, which need not be labeled. A week ago, after a public hearing, Secretary Hyde took under advisement a petition for a change and today he received the last of the written briefs pro and con.

Headed by W. D. Bigelow of Washington state, representing the National Canners' association against the change, they called at the White House and laid their plea before President Hoover. Spokesmen for the group told the President a decision by Mr. Hyde favorable to the corn producers would undermine the food and drugs act and that lack of labels revealing the use of corn sugar would be a deception and a fraud upon consumers.

On the other side of the controversy, Attorney W. E. Holt, counsel for the Corn Products Refining company, issued statements refuting the arguments made before the President.

BOOKS

"Lone Cowboy" Epic of Man, Space, Horses

Honest and Inclusive as a Good Lariat.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Lone Cowboy," by Will James. [Scribners.]

"Lone Cowboy" is that most alluring of all writing—a frank, honest human document.

WILL JAMES.

It is the life story of a man who was born on the range and never really lived when he was off it—a sort of human Anteus who, whenever he touched his mother earth, became seven times stronger than before. His mother earth was a horse. All of the time that he was off a horse or away from horses, he existed. The feel of horse flesh under him made him come alive.

There is reality and strength and an out of doors cleanness about "Lone Cowboy." Unlike many autobiographies which seem slightly decorated with floral wreaths by their authors, "Lone Cowboy" is as honest as a sunset.

It has the tang of sage brush, a clean smell, slightly monotonous, but absolutely rooted in the ground from which it springs. It is as authentic a picture of the "wild" west of the last thirty-odd years as has ever been set down, probably.

The author simply is incapable of romancing. He has only facts to set down. Obviously his imagination has little part in his recordings. He isn't equipped with an imaginative mind. He is a realist literally born and bred.

There is nothing more touching in modern writing than the story of Will James' childhood. His mother died when he was a year old, his father lived only three years after that, and, as he was dying, left the boy to "Bopy," a French trapper by the name of Jean Beaupré. As a child "Billy" lived with "Bopy," prospecting in the summers, trapping in the winters, a solitary life, never seeing another child, rarely seeing humans at all, a lone life indeed. The first train he ever saw, the first children he ever saw, the first town he ever walked through, are all vivid memories to him and he succeeds in putting into words the wonder with which they filled him. The whole wonder of life and living as it unfolded itself to a boy whose mind was untrammeled by contacts is in "Lone Cowboy." That first part of it is so deeply vital as to be thrilling.

Will James never had schooling. He taught himself to read and write—with "Bopy's" help. But "Bopy" spoke little English, mostly Canadian French, and James was left all alone by the tragic death of "Bopy" when he was still only a boy. When he was a mere tad he started to draw pictures, always of horses and mostly to console himself during the long winters when he and "Bopy" were snowed into camp in Canada, weeks' journeys from his horses. His drawing served finally to make him a writer.

In 1927 James' "Smoky," the story of his horse, was awarded the Newberry prize as the best book for children of the year. It had previously been published as an adult book—and it is exactly that, the kind of book that either children or grownups adore, if they care for horses. The awarding of that prize speaks volumes for Mr. James' sincerity, for it is the only book I have ever heard of which received unqualified praise for children which was frankly ungrammatical.

Mr. James says "I seen" all the time. Everything is "sure fine" with him. He writes just as a cowboy talks. That is what gives tang to his writing. But what gives it vital substance is an undeniable reality, an honesty that is the essence of fineness. "Lone Cowboy" is a saga of a type.

The book is illustrated by the author, whose pen catches the swirl of a horse's neck as it leaps into the air and that far-lying look of the trail. "Lone Cowboy" is the August choice of the Book of the Month club.

Story of Waterway.

"The St. Lawrence Waterway Project," by George Washington Stephens [Carrier], is a complete history of the scheme to make an international water highway through America. It gathers all of the historical and commercial material comprehensively and interestingly.

HOW JAMES STRANG DIVIDED MORMONS AND HAD HIS OWN KINGDOM

"The Kingdom of St. James" by Milo Quaife [Yale University Press] is the interesting record of the branch of Mormonism that flourished under the leadership of James J. Strang who established almost a kingdom in early Wisconsin and Michigan. Believing himself to be God's choice as successor to Joseph Smith, Strang fought passionately the Twelve, led by Brigham Young. Strang took away with him from Nauvoo, Ill., to Wisconsin enough of the faithful to establish a sizable community.

The conversion of Strang [who previously had been violent in his denunciation of it] to polygamy and the doctrine of spiritual marriage has been the subject of much romanticizing, Mr. Quaife says, and he states the facts of the matter—that Strang had four plural wives besides his first legal one, and that they all bore him children.

The author says: "It is a striking commentary upon the futility of human aspirations and strivings that of all Strang's numerous family, not a single member remained loyal to his religious teachings and pretentions." The book is a strange and entertaining bit of history of the middle of the last century.

LONDON'S KINDEST OF EDITORS LAUDED AS MEMORIAL TRIBUTE

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON, — [Special Correspondence.]—The death of St. John Adcock is an event which has caused much sorrow among writers all over England. Adcock was the best and kindest of editors. He was always on the lookout for new young talent, and when he found even the semblance of talent he encouraged it in every possible way.

WYNDHAM LEWIS.

He was never too busy to help friends innumerable, and the result of this was that probably no man lent more half crowns to needy journalists or gave more half crowns to spongers of every description. He gave men both money and work.

Such a kind heart was never known. Adcock was also a very hard worker. He did all sorts of work, from the writing of poetry and poetic satires to the editing of the London Bookman. He advised publishers what to publish, contributed to any number of newspapers, and found time to be a sort of extra godfather to all his friends.

He was a good man. Not a great one, in the literary sense [though his poetry is greatly admired by some good judges], but without a superior in humanity and generosity.

I have received one of the largest and heaviest novels that it has ever been my fortune to behold. James Joyce's "Ulysses" is a pocketbook compared with it. And this book is called, very ominously, "The Apes of God." The author is Wyndham Lewis, the brilliant artist and critic of modern nonsense in art—not the humorist and biographer of François Villon. The author of "The Apes of God" is the author of "The Childermass" and "Tarr." And he has suddenly decided to go into publishing upon his own account. "The Apes of God," he says, is a book more suited to a limited edition than to ordinary commercial publishing. For his publishing firm he uses the name of the Arthur Press, which has offices at 113A Westbourne grove, London; and I expect he will enjoy a success with his first venture. Should he do so, Mr. Lewis proposes to continue publishing his own works.

Year Book Issued.

"The American Year Book" [American Year Book corporation] is a record of events and progress for the year 1929, edited by Albert Bushnell Hart and William M. Schuyler, and is a grand book of reference.

Jaffe Conjures Heroes Out of the Test Tubes

Shows Chemistry's Price in Lives of Toil.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Bernard Jaffe says that the title he first selected for his book, "Crucibles," was "There Were Such Men!" The exclamation expressed his amazement as he assembled the life stories of the great chemists. It also rises naturally to the lips of all who read of these men "obsessed by curiosity." There were there actually were such men as the Quaker Dalton, as Cavendish, who turned his castle into a laboratory, who owned but one suit of clothes at a time while his fortune of a million pounds remained in the Bank of England untouched because he couldn't be bothered by money matters. There were, there actually were such men of all nations and all eras, willing to exchange the whole of their lives for just a little bit of information, for just a tiny fraction of the knowledge handed to schoolboys between the covers of a chemistry textbook.

BERNARD JAFFE.

Does H_2O seem a dry—or shall we say a wet—abstract scientific formula? Not so when its history is traced by Bernard Jaffe in the personalities devoted to its discovery. He commenced work on "Crucibles" in 1926, had spent three years in research and writing when he saw an announcement of the Francis Bacon award for a book that should "carry on the conscious adventure of humanizing knowledge." "That seemed to me what I was trying to do," Jaffe relates. "I completed my manuscript in the ensuing year, in time to enter it in the competition. And then was so busy I forgot about it."

The jury which selected "Crucibles" from several hundred manuscripts for the $7,500 prize included Dr. Will Durant and Count Hermann Keyserling. Their verdict has been heartily indorsed by the public, placing the book on nonfiction best seller lists. The author is a brown-haired, brown-eyed young man of 34, who explains his deep coat of tan and the freckles on his snub nose by a passion for tennis. He was born in New York, schooled at City college and Columbia, and saw active service in the late war during his early twenties.

Speaking of $7,500 prizes, Irving Fineman copped that amount last month in the Longmans Green & Co., contest for the best first novel with the script of "This Pure Young Man." Mr. Fineman is in his early thirties an instructor in engineering at the University of Illinois. He did not dally in New York, but immediately took boat for Europe, where he's hard at work on his second novel.

Among New Books

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

The Patriot's Progress, by Henry Williamson [Dutton], who has previously written only novels of esoteric beauty, is a short book about one John Bullock, an ordinary, bewildered youth, who joined up in the late war. It has won praise, all of it in superlatives, in England. It has remarkable wood cut illustrations by William Kermode.

Confessions of Zeno, by Italo Svevo [Knopf], is the book which, when it was published in Italian in 1923, was hailed as the finest Italian novel.

Her Father's House, by Hilda Vaughan [Harpers], is another of Miss Vaughan's impressive pictures of an English heroine of the Hardy Tess type.

While Gondolas Pass, by Henel Mackay [Appleton], is a romantic and touching story told against the background of Venice. It received the Prix Portique in France.

The Family, by Francois Mauriac [Covici Friede], brings to American readers a translation of Mauriac's famous "Les Peloueyre," a dramatic tale with a dwarf as hero and a rustic saint as heroine.

Revelation, by André Birabeau [Viking], is the poignant tragedy of a mother who is faced with the knowledge that her son has had a man as a lover, and her struggle to keep that knowledge to herself.

Prosperity Street, by Barnaby Brook [Minton Balch], is the saga of the rise of a poor English lad [with a Dickensish background] to the prime ministry.

No Bed of Roses, by O. W. [Macaulay], is—so the publishers say—the actual diary of a prostitute and a dope fiend.

AMONG THE LATEST $1 books published by the Doubleday Doran company are:

Sanders of the River, by Edgar Wallace, a thriller of west Africa, not a mystery story.

Powell Book About Bali Is Full of Lore

But Work Is Touched with Pessimism.

BY BLANCHE MATTHIAS.

[Who has recently returned from the island of Bali.]

"The Last Paradise," by Hickman Powell. (Cape-Smith.)

Hickman Powell and Andre Roosevelt, wishing to keep Bali for the Balinese, have made a book. The photographs by Roosevelt are magnetic enough to pull any Cook's tourist or true vagabond aboard the first small white Dutch boat leaving Singapore for Java, Bali, and Macassar. The alternative way to go is via an overnight pigboat, which tosses between Souabaya and Buleleng.

This book will seduce the traveler outward bound more than it satisfies those of us who, once having heard the gamalan, long to have its magic possess us again. Perhaps no writer of our culture can recreate in memory's imagination the Bali, whose days and nights once held us encircled in an unpierced rainbow of color, movement, and sound.

In "The Last Paradise" Mr. Powell tells delightful folk stories all about demons and ghosts, missionaries and Dodge buses. The newest legend, one which is already reverently passed on from tourist to taurist, was born in the mind of a Dutch architect and amateur painter of Java. "There is no question about it," he says, "as a people they are the greatest artists in the world." Had he said they are the greatest gamalan players, expressive dancers, or among the cleverest of island craftsmen, that would have been something.

Mr. Powell spends much time in describing the music of the gamalan and the beauty of Balinese dancing. He has a genuine appreciation and love for both. But even when deeply moved he maintains a detached, philosophical attitude.

Mr. Powell says: "After a week in South Bali I would return to Buleleng and try to write, try to capture some faint glint of ecstasy. Something was here, something profound, but I could not capture it. I came from the Isle of Manhattan to the Isle of Bali. I came from the land of health and wealth and tenements under the elevated. From the land of the individual's importance—where sex is sinful and rigidly expunged from everybody's mind—to a land beyond the blessing of the gospel . . . where skins are brown, hence obviously inferior. Where dance is disembodied line and rhythm, and where in music springs not lust or passion. Where the individual means nothing, is a mere cell in a social organism, and where men know naught of passion, love, or hatred, and die as they lived, as tranquil drops in life's immortal stream of protoplasm."

But he has to return to the icicle atop the Chrysler building, as we all do, there to look back, and, O yes—down; because after all is said the peace of Bali is for the beautiful brown man with a flower behind one ear and the lovely brown woman unashamed of her nakedness.

"The Last Paradise" has historic information which will be of benefit to a prospective traveler intent upon getting the most out of a trip to Bali. Descriptions also of the festival and cremation ceremonies, some of the customs and some of the foods, all of which prepare the way if one doesn't have time to linger, experience, and become identified with lovely Bali and its past and present life.

Mr. Powell's pessimism tinges the future of Bali with the dull colors of modern progress and efficiency.

"Confessional," by Frank Harris [Panurge], is, unlike what it looks like, merely a collection of essays from the pen of one of the most prolific living writers, essays which are not Mr. Harris' best. These essays are about people, which are uniformly dull.

CUBS WIN, 10 TO 7; HARTNETT HITS 24TH HOMER

LASSMAN STILL HERO IN DEATH, INQUIRY SHOWS

Clear Grid Star's Name of Suicide.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—[Special.]—All parents of adolescent boys, considering where to send them for their vacations that they may be schooled in the virtues of honor, loyalty, chivalry and courage, would do well to consider Zakeloe, Me., conducted by Izzy Zarakov, late half back of the Harvard football team and late captain of the Harvard baseball team, in which capacity, in the final game of his career, he hit a home run against Yale with the bases full.

It was at Mr. Zarakov's summer camp for boys that Al Lassman, the huge, amiable Latvian football cripple, was drowned on July 6 while canoeing on Long lake. Out of consideration for the parents of the boys, Mr. Zarakov took certain liberties with the facts of the case, reporting that Lassman had gone out on the lake alone. But it would be a captious critic who would take him to task for this because Lassman, by then, was dead and beyond harming, whereas certain high strung mothers and fathers of Mr. Zarakov's young patients might have been seriously upset if they had learned that three of the inmates were in the canoe and almost lost their lives as well.

His Solicitude Misspent.

Mr. Zarakov's solicitude for the parents was misspent, however, for Mr. Al Nixon, the graduate manager of athletics of New York university, inspired by an anonymous letter, went to Camp Zakeloe last week on a snooping expedition to discover that Lassman died trying to save the third of the three boys after saving two. Mr. Nixon pursued his mission without going to Mr. Zrakov for the facts, as one honest man to another. He was a friend of Al Lassman, who had played football under his management at New York U., and his excessive zeal in inquiring into the case, regardless of the distress he might occasion the unfortunate parents of boys residing at Zakeloe, may be pardoned, perhaps, on the grounds of misapplied loyalty.

Lassman's parents are poor, both his mother and father being employed in a candy factory near Boston. At half past four in the morning of the day after Al was drowned a woman called upon Mrs. Lassman, claiming to know the whole tragic story, and explained that Al had been feeling despondent over the prolonged paralysis of his left side, due to an old football accident, and gave Mrs. Lassman to understand that her son had taken his own life.

Revealed As Hero.

The Lassmans have been in the United States only since 1913, and Mrs. Lassman does not yet speak the language of the country with the pure Bostonian accent. Mr. Nixon has not been able to learn the identity of the woman who was so sympathetic as to call on Mrs. Lassman at half past four in the morning to substantiate the story of Al's solitary trip out into the lake and his solitary end.

Mr. Nixon's investigation, as might have been expected of an inquiry proceeding from an anonymous letter, has quite undone Mr. Zarakov's self-less efforts to shield the mothers and fathers of his boys from worry. The Nixon findings were given to newspapers, showing that Al Lassman died as he lived and not a suicide. Each individual will have to judge for himself as to whether the benefit to a hero's name and reputation and his immigrant mother's pride were worth the price in suffering and apprehension that must be exacted now and indefinitely of those well-to-do clients whose boys are quartered at the camp learning the qualities of manliness from exemplary men.

Mr. Zarakov now has altered his account of the tragedy on Long lake. Lassman took three boys out in the canoe. Mr. Zarakov did not see them leave and he first heard of the accident when somebody phoned him that the three boys were safe but that Lassman was drowned.

"My first thought," said he, "was for the families of the boys and therefore, out of due consideration for

C. A. A. Vetoes Merger with Yacht Group

Plans for a merger of the Chicago Yacht club and Chicago A. A. were temporarily halted last night when the advisory committee of the C. A. A. definitely rejected the proposition. Previously the merger plans had been approved by the board of directors.

It now becomes necessary for the board to repass the proposition before submitting it to the membership of the C. A. A. The advisory committee last night indicated it was unwilling to affiliate with any club for building purposes. The yacht club is constructing a $1,000,000 building on the lake front at Randolph street and C. A. A. members feel that acceptance of the yacht club merger offer would mean financing the yacht club new building.

HENRY'S TRUE TO FORM, SO TIGERS BEAT SOX, 12 TO 4

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—Out of sheer necessity Frank Dutch Henry, the southpaw with the losing complex, was summoned to pitch for the White Sox today. The Tigers forced Dutch to quit almost before he started and his fifteenth defeat of the season went into the books by a score of 12 to 4.

Because of Henry's early fadeout the Chicagoans never had a chance to add to their imposing achievements of the last two weeks. They were in the struggle only until the second inning. At this point Henry left the game under the strain of three runs. Then Young Ed Walsh was called in to fill the vacancy, but this in no way discouraged the Tigers.

Whitehill Stops Sox.

Earl Whitehill, Tiger southpaw, started with the idea of attaining his seventh straight victory and he accomplished his purpose by yielding only eight hits. Three of these were clustered in the fifth when the Sox did their only real bit of scoring.

Henry's collapse started when Stone bounced a single over his head in the second. Funk hit a single to right. Akers slapped a double to left, scoring Stone and planting Funk on third. Funk counted on a hit by Desautels, who went to second on the thrown in. Whitehill did Henry a favor by lining into a double play. Then Johnson made the fifth hit of the inning, sending Akers home.

Walsh was good enough to halt the riot in the second, but not so good in the third. Gehringer started another three run parade by doubling. He went to third on Alexander's out and was nailed at the plate on Stone's hopper to Mulleavy. Funk singled to right. Then Akers hit Walsh's first pitch over the left field wall for three runs.

Sox Score in Fourth.

The Sox let out a harmless peep in the fourth. They notched a run on singles by Mulleavy and Fothergill and Cissell's sacrifice fly. This inspired the Tigers to turn loose another three run salvo in their half. Johnson's double with one out started it. A two bagger by Gehringer scored him. Alexander ripped off a double also and Gehringer scored. Stone's single past Cissell scored Alexander.

With a count of 9 to 1 against them the Sox couldn't create more than a ripple of excitement with a three run splurge in the fifth. This got under way when Tate singled with one out. Walsh drew free passage. Watwood looped a hit into right, filling the bases. Mulleavy stepped into this choice spot with a double, Tate and Walsh scoring. Then Fothergill flied to center and Watwood sneaked home after the catch.

The Tigers recovered their wind in the sixth to send two more runs over the counter. Walsh walked Koenig and Gehringer beat out a hit to Cissell. Both moved along on an infield out by Shevlin, who had supplanted Alexander. Stone scored them with a triple.

OSBORN CHECKS PIRATES AFTER TEACHOUT FAILS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The important thing is that the Cubs beat the Pirates, 10 to 7, yesterday in the first contest of a three game series at Wrigley field. And a good game for the lady crashers to watch, too, seeing as they like lots of hitting and dashing about.

Another feature that apparently gave the ladies' day bugs an added wallop was the fact that the Cubs expeditiously blew a 4 to 0 lead, acquired in the first inning, fizzled several times in attempts to come from behind, then conquered heroically in the latter stages. Story book stuff—no love interest, but exciting withal.

The series will be resumed this afternoon with Ray Kremer, a distinguished Cub enemy, pitching against Guy Bush.

Hartnett Does His Bit.

The Cub attack was led by Gabby Hartnett, who drove in a run with a double in the first inning, tied the score with his No. 24 homer in the third and drove in another run in the eighth with his second double. The homer and the second double were inspired by great ire, Gabby having been guilty in the second inning of the most grievous of catchers' errors. He permitted a batter to reach first after fanning, and to make things worse the fellow scored ahead of a homer.

The conduct of Hack Wilson, though not as consistent as the performance of Mr. Hartnett, perhaps was more spectacular. In the second inning Hack was at bat with men on third and second and fanned. With the score tied at 5 to 5 Hack came up again with two runners on base—and again he fanned. In the sixth the Cubs were trailing 6 to 5. There were two out, Blair was on third and Cuyler on first. Hack cracked a triple, and the Cubs no longer were trailing. The score had become Chicago, 7; Pittsburgh, 6.

Bool Hits Two Homers.

Players other than Hartnett and Wilson did good batting to thrill the ladies. Blair made a double and a single, and so did Cuyler. Farrell, back at short, knocked out two singles. English, Dan Taylor, and Osborn connected only once each, but their efforts were timely. On the Pirate side Al Bool made two homers, one clear over the right field bleacher, and the other into the center field stand. Triples were propelled by Bartell and Suhr, Bartell's giving the Pirates the lead in the sixth and Suhr's driving in two runs and eliminating Teachout in the third.

Osborn was the winning pitcher and allowed only four hits in the 6 1-3 innings he worked. He also drove in what proved to be the winning run with a single in the seventh. It was Long Bob's eighth victory of the season, as against a pair of defeats.

Cubs Get Four at Start.

It appeared that the Cubs had wrecked the contest in the first inning. Blair opened with a double to left and scored on English's single to center. Cuyler was safe and English pulled up at second when Bartell tried to make a double play on Kl's grounder before he got hold of the ball. Wilson then sent L. Waner against the screen for his fly and the runners moved up after the catch. D. Taylor singled to left, scoring English and Cuyler. Grimm walked. Hartnett doubled to left, scoring D. Taylor and putting Grimm on third. When Farrell flied to P. Waner in short right some one underestimated Paul's arm or overestimated Capt. Charley's speed. Anyhow Grimm easily was doubled at the plate.

Teachout fanned Bartell to start the second inning, but Hartnett muffed the ball and the error permitted Dick to reach first while Gabby, amazed at his own deficiency, was casting off his paraphernalia in a frenzied effort to recapture the ball. Suhr struck out, but Bool socked the first of his homers, and Bartell trotted in ahead of him.

The third inning marked the demise of Teachout and gave the Pi-

MRS. JOHNSON, WIFE OF 'BIG TRAIN', DIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A long series of misfortunes for Walter Johnson, famous baseball pitcher and manager of the Washington baseball team, was climaxed today with the death of his wife, Hazel Roberts Johnson, at Georgetown hospital after a three days' illness of pleurisy. She was 36 years old.

MRS. WALTER JOHNSON.

Johnson was in uniform yesterday for the game with the league leading Philadelphia Athletics when a phone call from physicians summoned him to Georgetown hospital. He left the park hurriedly and shortly afterward tiptoed into his wife's room. He was told that her condition was serious.

Informed of Mrs. Johnson's death, President and Mrs. Hoover announced they would send a wreath from the White House.

The devotion of Johnson and his wife was proverbial. She was the daughter of former Representative E. E. Roberts of Nevada and was also an athlete. During her high school days at Carson City she captained the basketball team that held the state championship for two years.

She liked baseball, and first saw Johnson on the playing field. They were married June 14, 1914.

The Johnsons' oldest son, Walter Jr., 14, was struck by an automobile several months ago and both legs were broken.

Besides her husband and oldest son Mrs. Johnson is survived by four other children—Edwin, 12; Robert, 8; Caroline, 7, and Barbara, 4—and by her father, Judge Edwin Roberts of Nevada.

Arlington Season Closes with Two Stakes Today

BY FRENCH LANE.

The curtain will roll down late this afternoon on Arlington's racing season—the greatest turf meet that has been conducted in America this year.

The running of the Post and Paddock stakes for 2 year olds and the Arlington Matron stakes will be high spots on the closing program. The Post and Paddock, richest 2 year old stake that has been run in America this year, will have a gross value of more than $29,000 while the Matron stakes will gross more than $10,000.

Eighteen were named overnight for the Post and Paddock. It is doubtful if the Futurity at Belmont will attract a more brilliant field. In the overnight speculation Siskin, winner of the Agua Caliente Futurity and of the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington, was the favorite, 3 to 1. Siskin is a son of Epinard. Back Log, noted Kentucky colt, was the second choice at 4 to 1, Betty Derr, which won the Debutante stakes at both Churchill Downs and Washington Park, and the Clipsetta stakes at Latonia, was the third choice, 6 to 1. Don Leon, which won the Herold stakes at Latonia Saturday, also was quoted at around 6 or 7 to 1.

Plunge Falls Short.

There was a plunge on the Bradley entry of Bar Hunter and Bathorse, but the plunge wasn't strong enough to drive down the odds, for the Bradley entry was quoted at 10 to 1 and it is likely it will be at that price when the Post and Paddock field goes to the post. If the track remains fast it is understood Bar Hunter will be the lone Bradley representative. If it should rain and mud result Bar Hunter and Bathorse will go to the post.

The Audley Farm stables' entry of Easter Stockings and Nellie Custis was the favorite in the Matron stakes although Dinah Did Upset, Molasses Jane, Lady Broadcast and Pansy Walker all had their backers.

As the Arlington meeting neared a close yesterday, Miss Bess, a daughter of Coventry-Princess Royal, running in the red and blue silks of W. S. Dudley of Louisville, captured the Wisconsin purse in which a band of smart 3 year olds participated.

Although Miss Bess had been backed heavily and was only a little better than even money at post time, she didn't have an easy time winning. Ald. Coughlin's Who Win headed into the stretch in front and clung to the lead stubbornly but at the sixteenth post Jockey Richards roused Miss Bess and she came up on the outside to get the decision by two lengths on a fine late rally. Who Win saved second money and O. W. Lehmann's Stop Gap wound up third. There had been a plunge on Outpost but Garner rode the son of Campfire weakly and Outpost was far back with the rear guard when the finish came.

Whisp Comes to Life.

Whisp, the deceiver which runs a winning race one day then loafs for a few more starts, came to life again in the Savanna purse at seven furlongs and easily conquered a stylish band of three year olds.

In the mutuels Whisp paid $18.36. He ran the seven furlongs in 1:25 which was the fastest time of the afternoon.

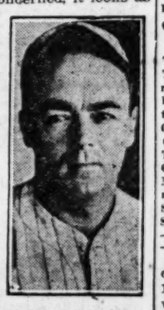
KAMM LEFT AT HOME; BOSS OF SOX EXPLAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—So far as Willie Kamm is concerned, it looks as if the welcome sign has been taken down from the White Sox doorway. There was no Pullman space set aside for the one time $100,000 sensation when the Comiskey troops departed from Chicago last night. Manager Bush's only explanation was that he didn't think he needed the services of the veteran. What it means for Kamm's baseball future only Bush can answer, and just now he is saying nothing.



WILLIE KAMM.

Loafs, Loses Job.

The charge against Kamm is indifference to his work. From the start of the season he had been suspected of not being vitally interested in the welfare of the team. He got off on the wrong foot when, upon reporting for spring training, he learned the job of team captain had been abolished. Willie had held it the year before and received the customary $600 which went with the title. Bush did away with the position because he regarded it as unnecessary.

Bush was inclined to give Kamm the benefit of the doubt until a couple of weeks ago. A ball was batted almost directly at the third baseman and he not only let it escape him, but also moved so leisurely on its recovery that the batter made two bases. That convinced Bush. He yanked Kamm out of there pronto and Willie still is out. He may get back if the third base problem becomes aggravated, but whether he gets back or doesn't it is fairly safe to predict he will be on his way next winter.

Kamm has had a career few can equal. He reported in the spring of 1923 and from the day of his arrival was made the regular third sacker. He held that title without a break until last June when Bush benched him temporarily.

May Move Cissell.

One thing Bush may attempt before considering the return of Kamm is placing Bill Cissell on third base. Spider Bill had faults at short that Bush figured could be eliminated by playing the peppery youth at second. But at second Cissell continues to flash in dazzling style one moment and blow the next. Third base might be the spot to which he is naturally adapted.

CHARLEY HORSE—GRABINER.

The reason Willie Kamm was not taken to Detroit is that he has a lame leg, Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, said last night. "There's no basis whatever for reports that his playing days with the White Sox are over."

BOWMAN QUITS AS STADIUM AID; TAKES OLD JOB

Strotz to Replace Arena's General Manager.

Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium corporation, probably will assume the managerial duties of the west side sports arena when it reopens in September. John Bowman, who became general manager of the Stadium when Sheldon Clark was named president to succeed the late Paddy Harmon after the latter's deposition by the executive committee in November, 1929, resigned his position yesterday. He will return to his work as director of conventions at the Stevens hotel.

No Talk of Successor.

When asked last night whether a successor to Bowman had been appointed or whether the position of general manager was to be vacated permanently, Mr. Strotz said:

"I'll probably take the job of managing Stadium affairs myself. There has been no talk of a successor to Mr. Bowman. He returned to the Stevens because he felt that it offered him a better opportunity. We'll open the Stadium for business again some time in September."

On tendering his resignation yesterday, Mr. Bowman said that he left the Stadium on the best of terms with its officials, stating that there was not enough opportunity in his own field of work—that of supervising conventions and exhibits—at the Stadium.

No Hard Feeling.

"In my connection with the Stadium I learned enough about it to predict that within another year it will be a paying institution," he said. "Mr. Strotz has done great work. There really isn't a need for two men and I am sure that Sidney can handle the place and make it the big success I predict.

"My work for years has been with conventions and exhibits. At the Stevens I have had a lot of that. I like to be busy and keep going. The directors of the Stadium accepted my resignation in the spirit I intended, and we are all good friends. I repeat, there is a bright future for the Stadium."

Ruth Hits 2 Home Runs as Yankees Win

Boston, Mass., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Babe Ruth started the new month with two homers today and, with Charley Ruffing helped the Yanks beat the Red Sox, 4 to 1. The Babe hit his 37th homer of the season off Horace Lisenbee in the first inning with none on base, then clouted No. 38 in the ninth off Milt Gaston, scoring Ruffing. He also walked twice and hit a double, for a perfect day at bat.

Ruffing held his former mates to two hits and would have had a shutout, except for an error.

COLUMBIA CLUB YACHTS RACE TO GARY TONIGHT

Night baseball has become so popular that another daylight sport will try evening hours. Yachts of the Columbia Yacht club will set sail at 9 p. m. tonight off the Van Buren street gap in the first night yacht race in this district. It will be a dash around the gas buoy at Gary.

The tiny light off the Indiana shore is quite a distance from any harbor and the competing craft are apt to end anywhere along the eastern coast of Michigan if their skippers are not on the job constantly.

Twenty R class, eagle and pup sloops will start at 2:30 this afternoon over the regular racing course out of Belmont harbor of the Chicago Yacht club. Seawanhaka sloops, yawls, and universal schooners of the Jackson Park Yacht club are scheduled for one of the club's regular events this afternoon, while a special race for jacks over the triangular course also is planned.

FUZZY WUZZY WINS.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—J. B. Joel's Fuzzy Wuzzy, a joint favorite with Mrs. Beddington's Suspicion at 7 to 2 against, won the Chichester stakes at five furlongs this afternoon.

MOON MULLINS—THE ORPHAN OF THE STORM

SMITTY—THE GREAT DIVIDE

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Before Dr. Ernest M. Stires succeeded him, Dr. Clinton Locke was rector of Grace Episcopal church on Wabash near where the Coliseum now stands. During the World's Fair period Henry B. Roney was choirmaster, with 50 boys and 25 men in the choir. The church was crowded to capacity each Sunday.

Burton Holmes, with a new, sparse Van Dyke beard, was an usher. As an amateur, he lectured from lantern slides and was the apple of the female eye. This was after the days of Blatchford Kavanaugh, boy soprano. Yet Roney's choir was so well known that when the Auditorium was rented for a concert to provide a choir fund for summer camp expenses $4,000 was realized. That was a substantial sum in those days. Rip Van Winkle.

These modern Way Back Whenners should make room for a genuine ancient who stopped with Gil Dutcher of the Revere house in the '50s and at the Hatch house in 1863, when connected with Uncle Sam. Later assigned to U. S. S. Ouichita, 29 guns, smashed at Fort Trinity.

A bunch of young men from Mount Carroll seminary, my alma mater, but later a girl's school, volunteered in various branches of the service at the time of the civil war. None survive except wearer of medal No. 1493, which is myself. By the way, Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn, in the flesh, was my shipmate on the Ouichita and moved to Oregon after the war. M. T. Grattan.

In Memoriam.

The chancel bell is ringing
As, silent, I bow my head;
The choir is softly singing
The requiem of the dead;
The silver censer's swinging,
They are blessing wine and bread.

There between the tapers lying,
Just outside the chancel rail,
Our pal, yes, we are sighing
For the friend who'd never fail—
He who helped the blind and dying,
Gone from us into the vale.

Leaving those he loved all weeping,
Praying for his soul on high,
On his bier the flowers heaping;
With gentle words that pacify,
Think of him as quietly sleeping,
Since the soul will never die.
Ann Shannon Ely.

Another Friend Gone.

The accompanying verse in this column no doubt refers to Dr. John B. Ellis, also a boyhood and lifelong friend of The Wake. To the medical profession he was a talented ophthalmologist. To his intimates he was known for his many unostentatious charities and services without fee to those unable to pay for it. To the medical profession he was a skilled practitioner. To his friends he was intensely human, interested in all outdoor sports, particularly racing, football, and golf. When such a man, just in his prime, is stricken it sobers all of us.

This Wake Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

Hartnett's Bat Aids Cubs to Beat Pirates

rates a 5 to 4 lead. Teachout threw out P. Waner, but he walked Grantham. Comorosky singled to right and Grantham stopped at second. Traynor flied to Wilson for the second out. Then Bartell singled to left center, scoring Grantham and putting Comorosky on third. Suhr tripled to left center, scoring Comorosky and Bartell. Teachout then gave way to Osborn and Bool struck out.

After D. Taylor had fanned and Grimm had flied to Comorosky in the last of the third, Hartnett rapped out that No. 24 homer to knot the count at 5 to 5.

The Pirates took the lead, 6 to 5, in the sixth when Bartell knocked a triple past Wilson in deep right center and scored on Suhr's single. Bool hit into a double play and Osborn threw out Spencer.

As previously related, Hack gave the lead back to the Cubs in the sixth when he tripled to drive home Blair, who had walked, and Cuyler, who had beaten out an infield bouncer.

The Cubs added two in the seventh on a walk and hits by Farrell, Osborn, and Blair, and another in the eighth on walks to Wilson and Grimm and Hartnett's second double.

Lassman Still Hero in Death, Inquiry Shows

them, and as to the boys themselves, who were in a very tense and nervous condition, the fact that they had been in the canoe when it overturned was not mentioned."

This admission seems to be the only inconsistent act in Mr. Zarakov's entire conduct in the case and it may have been made in some unguarded moment when his counsel was not at his side. When Mr. Nixon was discussing the case with him Wednesday afternoon at Camp Zakeloe, surrounded by the impressionable boys sent to him for molding in the form of moral and physical manliness, a spokesman, whose name Mr. Nixon was unable to learn, took charge of the discussion for Camp Zakeloe.

Spokesman Does Talking.

"I asked Zarakov," Mr. Nixon said, "if it were true that Lassman died to save the boys."

"The spokesman, who seemed to be Zarakov's attorney, broke in and asked: 'What is the motive of all this? There has been no intimation of suicide from us.'

"I said, 'There has been such an intimation to the boy's mother and I want to correct the impression that he took his own life and show that he died as he had lived.' I then said, 'Do you now admit that there were three boys in the canoe with Al Lassman?'

"This spokesman broke in again and said, 'We don't admit anything,' and I was convinced then that he was a lawyer. Then one of them said, 'Instead of snooping around with an anonymous letter in your pocket, why didn't you come straight to headquarters when you arrived here?' I said, 'Headquarters for what? I am looking for information and you say you admit nothing?'

Reveals Marster's Part.

"But I gave Zarakov one more chance. I asked him if he had any word for Elmer E. Brown, the chancellor of New York university, and his spokesman said, 'No comment.'"

Returning to New York Mr. Nixon published his findings, and in so doing revealed a considerate service performed by Alton (Special Delivery) Marsters, the Dartmouth football god of the last three seasons, a staff counsellor of Camp Zakeloe, devoted to the work of inculcating fineness in adolescents.

Marsters, he reports, was the one who escorted the three rescued boys to their homes lest they be questioned and disclose the facts of the accident, with some benefit to the reputation of the dead Al Lassman, no doubt, but with disproportionate distress to others. A true narrative might even have damaged Mr. Zarakov in his business and Marsters in his job, and, the situation being duly weighed, it was decided that the dead man could get along without vindication.

All Knew of Heroism.

"But I don't care," Mr. Nixon says with ruthless perversity. "Al Lassman died a hero, and they all knew it. I can't understand how they could get together a group of football men who would conspire to do such a thing without there being some one to clear Al's name and give him credit for the last brave act of his life."

There will be an Al Lassman memorial some day on the campus of New York university and Izzy Zarakov may consider himself the most eloquent campaigner of all in the drive to raise the money when the drive takes place.

Says Mr. Applegate to Mr. Ryan: "You Folks Are Lucky"

"Son," replied Mr. Applegate, "if you think this is a hard game you should have been down in Kentucky with me this week.

"Every pasture for miles around Lexington is burned brown by the drought. Sparks from a cigar set them on fire. Kentuckians are worrying about what the yearlings are going to bring at the Saratoga sales. The corn crop is just so many nubbins. The hot sun has reduced tobacco leaves to cigaret ashes.

"Horses, children, women, and men are on winter rations, and the rations are getting smaller every day. What good bourbon there was left has evaporated during the dry spell.

"Our beautiful women may survive the drought, but, my boy, Kentucky is not going to be quite the same, even if it rains for 40 days and 40 nights. And you Chicago folks are worrying because you can't pick the winners."

MRS. JONES WINS SIXTH CHICAGO WOMEN'S TITLE

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire won the women's Chicago district golf championship yesterday for the sixth time by defeating Eva May Johnson of Skokie, 1 up, at the Illinois Golf club.

The strain of five days' play made the contestants so unsteady that the finals were something of an anti-climax to the tournament which had begun so brilliantly with the setting of five new course records. Four of the eighteen holes were conceded.

Mrs. Jones was two up at the turn, but her opponent squared the match on the thirteenth and went one up on the next. Then Mrs. Jones drew even on the sixteenth, won the seventeenth and halved the last.

Both Shaky at Start.

Both began shakily. The champion in the first, although she three-putted, Miss Johnson's drive and approach were trapped and her fourth went over the green.

Mrs. Jones went two up on the second when her adversary failed to reach the green in three. Then Miss Johnson made a birdie on the third to get back one of the holes.

Mrs. Jones drew away again on the fourth when her shot from a trap landed two feet from the pin while her opponent was making a poor approach. She became three up on the next by pitching from the rough to within three feet of the pin after both had shots failed to reach the green.

Miss Johnson Gets a Birdie.

A five foot putt for a birdie 3 gave Miss Johnson the sixth after Mrs. Jones had holed a 30 foot putt for a 4. The next was halved in fives.

A trapped shot on the eighth cost Mrs. Jones the hole, but she again was even up on the ninth because Miss Johnson hit over the green.

Mrs. Jones conceded the tenth after she had hooked her tee shot into a trap, hit a tree trying to get out and put her third into a trap. Then she recovered and drove the eleventh green for a birdie, going two up.

A tee shot into the water cost Miss Johnson the next hole and the match was squared on the thirteenth when her second shot hit a bunker. The champion three-putted the next and Miss Johnson was one up. The fifteenth was halved in par 3s after Mrs. Jones had chipped from a trap to within a yard of the pin.

Squares Match on 16th.

On the par five sixteenth Mrs. Jones squared the match by laying her second shot eight feet from the pin, and became one up on the seventeenth when her opponent three-putted. The match ended when the eighteenth was halved in 6s after Miss Johnson's putt for a five had missed by an inch. The

WISCONSIN GIVES FRIENDLY EAR TO WIDER HIGHWAYS

Hear of 4 Lane Roads from Chicago.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—Half a hundred Wisconsin civic leaders at a luncheon here this noon applauded a proposal for the state to build four lane pavements on the arterial routes that serve the pleasure traffic from the Chicago metropolitan area and the freight movement to the city from the dairy and farm.

The Wisconsin projects would be a continuation of the widening of four Illinois roads to the state line, as urged by the Chicago club for construction in 1932 and 1933. They are U. S. 41, Ill. 21, U. S. 12, and the Northwest highway.

Tourist Business Estimate.

The luncheon was under the auspices of the Wisconsin branch of the American Automobile association. The principal speaker was Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, and chairman of the road widening committee of the national organization.

"Estimates on the value to Wisconsin of her tourist business," he said, "range from 130 to 200 million dollars a year. The main factor in limiting this business is the capacity of your highways for handling automobiles.

"I want to see Wisconsin prosper. I want to see better roads into your woods and lakes for a still more important reason. I want to give the cliff dwellers of Chicago a chance to get out into the beautiful country on Sundays and holidays without the hazards and almost prohibitive annoyances and delays of congestion.

Truck Farm Products.

"In the southern part of the state, a large portion of your farm products are marketed in Chicago by truck. These farmers will profit from improved highway facilities. The metropolitan area, which gets seventy per cent of its foodstuffs by truck, will enjoy a reduction in grocery and butcher bills by cutting the cost of motor transportation.

"I know enough about the wider road movement in Illinois to feel confident in serving notice upon Wisconsin that forty foot roads are going to be built to her southern boundary."

The Fountain of Youth RESIDES WITHIN YOURSELF!

"To those who need it," says Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, "there is a way of changing the germs of decay to those of youth and health." The good physician refers to the health units of Acidophilus milk, which displace the harmful germs in the human colon, stimulating proper elimination and banishing the distressing effects of conditions characteristic of our modern way of living.

ACIDURO—the Superior Acidophilus Milk—is not a panacea for all human ills . . . but the recommendations of leading physicians prove it to be a great aid toward the health and happiness that are among the greatest blessings of youth.

If you seek greater physical and mental vigor . . . if you are troubled with chronic constipation . . . daily use of ACIDURO should relieve you. You'll like its pleasant, distinctive taste . . . your own physician will recommend it—and he should be consulted if you are in any doubt about your condition.

Your neighborhood druggist now has ACIDURO—or can get it for you quickly. Look for the distinctive bottle shown here—with dated label certifying freshness and quality. Costs no more.

CHICAGO STOCK LIST MIXTURE OF GAINS, LOSSES

Trading Quiet; Auburn Loses 5 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The closing price list of the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday was a mixture of minor losses and gains. With puside participation already at a minimum and the professional traders taking things easy, volume of sales fell off to around 84,000 shares, the lightest turnover for a full trading day in several months.

Price changes were insignificant except in the cast of Auburn Automobile, which was forced down 5 points to 118. Transactions in Auburn amounted to only 550 shares, while Insull Utility continued to lead the list in point of volume with sales of around 15,000 shares. Even in Middle West Utilities, which is ordinarily a leader in activity, sales dwindled to a bare 5,200 shares.

Make Moderate Headway.

Moderate headway was made on the upside by U. S. Gypsum, Bastian Blessing, and Majestic. The latter two each improved a point, while Gypsum recovered 1⅝ of the loss sustained on the previous day.

In his semi-annual report to stockholders Q. G. Noblitt, president of Noblitt Sparks Industries, says that the company was able to make a creditable earning showing during the first half year because of the record production of automobile heaters for fall delivery. In the six months ended June 30 the company earned net profit of $171,792, equivalent to $2.22 a share on the stock outstanding, as contrasted with $220,600, or $2.85 a share, in the corresponding period last year.

Mr. Noblitt said that advance orders received during the first half of 1930 were in excess of sales for the entire year of 1929. June profits, he stated, amounted to $49,658, or 66 cents a share.

Earnings Decline.

Despite about the same volume of sales during the first six months of the year, as compared with 1929, net earnings of the Reliance Manufacturing company declined sharply during period because of a narrower margin of profit. Milton F. Goodman, president, says that a reduction in prices was necessary to maintain a liquid position. Profits for the period totaled $173,767, equivalent to 42 cents a share, compared with $466,482 in the corresponding months last year.

The company's balance sheet as of June 30 showed current assets of $7,867,000, of which $1,107,000 was in cash, and current liabilities of $2,727,000, indicating net working capital of approximately $5,100,000.

Mr. Owen was also elected chairman of the membership committee. To the listing committee have been added Robert E. Mallard, president of Mallard & Co., and George P. Williams, partner of F. H. WOOL.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston tomorrow will say:

"While demand has lessened somewhat this week prices are firmly maintained, with choicest fine wools against the buyer. Manufacturers evidently consider the outlook for the manufactured fabric more encouraging than for some time. Later openings of staple lightweight lines by the independent mills indicate that prices are being figured very closely this year and it would seem that the turn in the tide of good business for fall and manufacturers has come at length, with wool values at the irreducible minimum.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1930, to July 31, 1930, inclusive, were 79,841,500 lbs. against 104,829,000 lbs for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1930, to July 31, 1930, inclusive, were 230,485,812 lbs. against 206,750,685 lbs for the same period last year."

DEALERS IN BOND MARKET FEEL OPTIMISTIC NOW

Review Cites Better Securities Outlook.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Things are looking up in the investment market. The recent improvement in bond prices has caused investment bankers and dealers in securities to swing from pessimism a month ago to optimism at the present time. This is the consensus of reports as summarized in the monthly review of Lawrence Stern & Co., investment bankers.

"The majority of financial institutions foresee a good bond market in the coming months and a slight but definite improvement in the outlook for general business conditions," the review says.

"This distinct feeling of increased optimism reflected in July reports is in direct contrast to the unanimous pessimism expressed in June. Many dealers indicated a normal bond business in July, and in a few instances retail distribution has been above normal.

In Better Position.

"The gradually rising prices for both stocks and bonds, and a small volume of new offerings in July, have combined to create a healthy situation, which places the security markets in excellent position to benefit by any turn for the better in general business conditions."

While new offerings of both stocks and bonds last month aggregated considerably lower than in June, the aggregate was larger than in July, 1929. But bond offerings did relatively better last month than did stock offerings, compared with June, and bond financing was entirely responsible for the larger total last month, compared with a year ago.

Total new offerings in July were $600,845,223, compared with $886,398,172 in June and with $582,069,113 in July, 1929. But bond offerings were $538,803,251, compared with $709,512,168 in June and $325,710,814 in July last year, whereas stock offerings were $72,041,972, compared with $176,886,604 in June and $256,358,299 in July, 1929.

The average yield of new corporate bond issues at their offering prices was 5.12 per cent last month, compared with 5.04 per cent in June and 4.86 per cent in July, last year.

Further Recession.

Further recession in business during the last week is attributed to the usual midsummer curtailment in the weekly mercantile reviews.

"There has been an appreciable gain in retail distribution, partly the result of exceptionally hot weather, and also for vacation needs, and as a result of aggressive sales campaigns by merchandisers," Dun's review says. "In industrial lines, operations are at a slow pace."

"The outstanding feature of the week has been the wide distribution of and the increase in damage reported done to leading crops by the continued hot, dry weather," Bradstreet's review says. "Both wholesale and retail trade and industry seemed more quiet and it seems likely that, owing partly to vacation shutdowns, July will show a lower ebb in industry as a whole than did June."

Bank clearings this week at leading cities totaled $9,011,779,000, a decline of 21.4 per cent from a year ago. Less activity in the stock markets and lower commodity prices are largely responsible for the decrease. Business failures this week totaled 468, compared with 510 last week and 409 a year ago.

Proposed new private work, other than buildings, announced throughout the country during the last week reached an aggregate of $54,574,000, compared with $45,042,000 in the previous week and $81,000,000 in the like week last year, Construction Daily reports.

BIG MERCHANTS' CONCLAVE WILL OPEN MONDAY

Chicago's position as the great central market will be set forth by four style and merchandise exhibits to be staged in connection with the semi-annual convention of the Interstate Merchants' council, which opens Monday with more than 2,000 merchants from 43 states and Canada in attendance.

Convention sessions will be held at the Hotel Sherman, while the exhibits arranged for the visiting retail merchants will be staged as follows: Gifts, artwares and novelties association exhibit, Stevens hotel; wholesale jewelers' exhibit, Hotel Sherman; Chicago fashion show, Congress hotel; and the Chicago and middle west house dress, lingerie and allied lines fall exhibit, Palmer house.

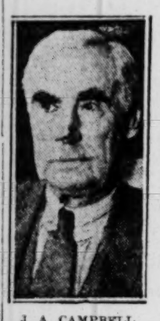
Members of the I. M. C., an auxiliary of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will be in convention here until Aug. 9. A banquet at the Hotel Sherman Tuesday evening will be a feature of the gathering.

Govt. Files Land Suit Against Northern Pacific

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The federal government today filed against the Northern Pacific railroad a suit expected to involve at least $10,000,000. The action seeks removal of certain indemnity lands from operation of the federal land grant act of 1864 as modified in 1870 to quiet title of those lands, to secure an accounting and "for other purposes." The suit was authorized by congress on June 19, 1929. The amount involved is stated as in "excess of $10,000,000," but the value of lands concerned and issues thereon, attorneys believe, may amount to as much as $50,000,000.

Says Bonuses Do Not Alter Merger Views

Youngstown, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Chairman James A. Campbell and other officers of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company paraded over the witness stand in Common Pleas court today to defend merger of their company with Bethlehem Steel corporation in the face of every attack of the Cyrus S. Eaton interests.



J. A. CAMPBELL. [P. & A. Photo.]

Attorneys for the Eaton interests, who are asking injunction against the merger, learned from Campbell and Directors John W. Ford and Richard Garlick that knowledge of the bonuses which Bethlehem pays to its high officials would have made no difference in their attitude toward the deal.

"Did you not know that Grace took out about $1,500,000 in one year?" Campbell was asked.

Thinks Bonus All Right.

"I heard that indirectly through a story I saw attributed to Charles M. Schwab in the newspapers," he replied, "but I never believed it. I thought it was just one of Schwab's stories. I don't think it was too much, if you want to know that. I didn't make any investigation of the report."

The Eaton attorneys sought to show that Bethlehem concealed its bonus system from both the directors and stockholders of the Youngstown company, and that the merger never would have been approved if the bonuses had been made known.

Eaton to Take Stand.

Ford, who resigned as a director shortly after the merger was ratified by the stockholders, and Garlick both said they would have approved the deal regardless of the bonus. T. J. Bray, another director, is expected to take the stand Monday.

The date for the consummation of the Youngstown merger with Bethlehem has been extended to Aug. 29. The merger contract has been extended four times pending the litigation, and may be again extended further if the trial is not completed this month.

Attorneys for the Eaton interests today also attacked the item of $12,000,000, which Bethlehem listed among its assets for "good will." The "good will" item, the Eaton attorneys charge, was listed so as to swell the Bethlehem assets and cause the terms of the merger contract to be unfair to Sheet and Tube.

STRAP HANGERS WAGE FIGHT ON VAN SWERINGENS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The owners of the largest chain of steam railroads in the United States, O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, today were under attack here by patrons of the smallest of their lines, the Shaker Heights Rapid Transit. Boycott was the trolley riders' plan of battle.

An increase in fare from 10 to 15 cents, allegedly without legal notice, was the cause of the attack. More than 400 Shaker Heights residents gathered in massmeeting last night and voted unanimously for the boycott. The Rapid Transit is the only transportation outlet for the Van Sweringen developed suburb.

The fare increase was put in effect recently, accompanied with a 10 to 20 per cent wage cut for conductors and motormen, which forced union men out of the jobs. This act already has been condemned by the conductors and motormen's union.

PENNSY SUBMITS DEFENSE OF RAIL STOCK TO I. C. C.

Competition Will Not Be Lessened Claim.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A defense of its ownership of substantial blocks of Lehigh Valley and Wabash railroad stock, challenged by the government as a violation of anti-trust law, was submitted to the interstate commerce commission today by the Pennsylvania railroad.

That corporation and one of its subsidiaries, the Pennsylvania company, entered a denial that the acquisition of the stock represented any action "substantially lessening competition" between it and the Wabash and Lehigh systems. The denial asserted the purchases were made solely for investment, and that the stock voting powers had not been used to control managements. It questioned the alleged conflict between the stock acquisitions and the spirit of the government plan for general consolidation of railroads.

Road's Arguments.

The railroad added that the commission's agents had "misconstrued the Clayton act," under which the proceeding has been brought.

It argued the prosecution was started on the ground that the stock ownerships presented "mere possibility" of lessening railroad competition, and asserted that court decisions failed to justify indictment on these grounds. It asked the commission to dismiss the proceedings and hold that the Pensylvania company was proceeding entirely within its powers in retaining the stock ownerships.

All the contentions will be further exhibited in formal legal arguments before the commisison this fall. The brief supplements testimony given by Gen. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, and its other officers during the course of the hearings on the original complaint.

Reports Favorably.

Another step toward new railroad entrances for San Francisco came today in a favorable report to the interstate commerce commission on the plan of the Western Pacific railroad to build an all rail line around San Francisco bay.

The Western Pacific, to complete an extension program, asked the commission to let it parallel the Southern Pacific belt line which runs around San Francisco bay at present. O. D. Weed, a commission examiner who investigated the proposals, and recorded the strenuous opposition of the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fé, advised the commission to grant the Western Pacific a practically full sanction for its entire extension.

Asserting the need of the city of San Francisco for an additional line is impressive, Weed said an all rail connection with the city was a necessity for the Western Pacific. He added this was because of the "slow and uncertain barge method of crossing the bay by water which is now available to it."

Views Corn Problem from Supply Angle

BY SCRUTATOR.

Some observations on the laws of supply and demand as they affect agricultural products may be in order in view of the fact that corn for July delivery sold for more on the Chicago Board of Trade several days at a higher price per bushel than wheat.

This situation has not existed, according to the statisticians, since 1902. In July of that year corn sold at 88 cents maximum and wheat at 79 cents maximum.

Purchasing power of money at that time was much above what it is today, and consequently 88 cents represents a much higher relative price than corn is bringing today. But if the corn crop shrinks by any chance to near the billion and a half bushel mark as it did then we may see comparably high prices for it.

Absorption of Corn.

There is something rather remarkable about the absorption of the corn that is raised each year. The 1929 production was only slightly lower in percentage than the average since 1920. It has not fallen in proportion to the live stock on farms, to which we naturally assume it is fed.

In a decade the number of horses and mules has fallen by six and a half millions. Cattle and calves show a drop of nearly eleven millions and hogs of twelve millions. Cattle and hogs have shrunk by about 16 per cent, while the difference between the 1929 corn crop and the average of the first five years in the decade is much smaller.

Perhape new methods have caused more corn to be fed per animal. But we know that many new uses for corn have been found. It is doubtful if the loss of legal distilleries has been a detriment to the farmer; while the expanding uses of corn sugar have created requirements from the farm that did not exist previously.

Overproduction in corn has certainly not been great in late years. So narrow has been the margin of supply over demand that reports of dry weather alone, without any artificial effort at stabilization, were sufficient to carry the price above wheat's for the time being. It is sold so nearly exclusively in the domestic market while wheat is a world crop, that conditions and competition abroad mean little.

Relief Measures.

Overproduction has at times occurred in both corn and wheat. It is a moot point just what overproduction is, but there can be no doubt it exists when wheat is used for cattle feed or corn burned for fuel. The relation of demand to supply is seldom so unbalanced as that. If the grains are taken in the ordinary channels of consumption it does not necessarily mean there is overproduction, even if the price falls. It may mean that it is cheaper to grow wheat or corn than it once was. Indications are that mechanical improvements have greatly lessened the cost of growing wheat.

Farm relief measures have commonly overlooked the fact that every farmer is a competitor of every other farmer producing the same things, and that the more efficient are always beyond the need of relief. Grave doubts have been advanced about the wisdom of having farmers who expect to remain in the business cut down on their efforts to produce. Probably it could be demonstrated that some millions of farmers have done more to relieve themselves by controlling production costs than Washington has done for them in trying control of prices.

PULLMAN CO. REPORTS JUNE NET OF $947,430

Pullman company yesterday reported its gross earnings for June were $7,197,591, with a net, after taxes, of $947,430. This compares with gross earnings of $7,763,298 and net of $1,419,929 in June of last year.

Gross earnings for the first six months of this year were $39,406,164, as against $40,715,620 last year. Net after taxes for these periods was $2,631,040 in 1930 and $4,187,436 in 1929.

The Royal Typewriter company and domestic subsidiaries reported first half net income of $744,455, equal to $2.28 a share on the common, compared with $799,100, or $2.48 a share in the corresponding period last year. June quarter net was $316,875, equal to 93c a share, compared with $344,269, or $1.04 a share in the June quarter last year.

PENNEY CO. HAS 6 MONTHS' NET OF $3,407,400

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The J. C. Penney company today reported for the six months ended June 30, net earnings of $3,407,400, compared with $3,725,075 for the corresponding period last year. Profits applicable to common stock were $2,821,374, equal to $1.14 per share, compared with profits equal to $1.32 per share for the first half last year.

Gross sales for the first six months were $86,457,229, compared with $83,088,230. Earl C. Sans, president, said that "considering the substantial reduction in commodity prices, which have been directly reflected in our lowered prices to the consumer, we feel that our record as to sales and earnings for the period covered is very satisfactory."

Several Auto Factories End Vacations Monday

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 1.—[Special.]—A host of workers employed in the great Michigan automobile factories will go back to their jobs on Monday with the end of the vacation shutdowns put into effect by a number of large companies. Among the factories scheduled for reopening Monday are those of Packard, Ford, Pontiac, Oakland, Graham-Paige, General Motors Truck, Timken-Detroit Axle, Motor Products corporation, and Midland Steel Products. Hudson and Cadillac have finished their vacation periods.

DRY WEATHER IS SPELLING DOOM OVER CORN BELT

Prices Reach New Seasonal Peak.

(Grain quotations on page 17.)

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Corn prices yesterday moved up to a new seasonal high as drought reports continued unabated. Indications were for a continuance of the dry, hot weather which has been ravaging the corn belt.

What may turn out to be the smallest crop since 1901 is foreshadowed in unofficial reports. Corn is deteriorating at the rate of 100,000,000 bushels a week, according to H. C. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan crop expert. In 1901 the harvest was only 1,523,000,000 bushels, or an average of 16.7 bushels per acre.

Talk of dollar corn prevailed in some quarters on the Chicago Board of Trade as the result of estimates suggesting a prospective yield this year of only 2,469,000,000 bu.

A month ago the local statisticians forecasted a yield of 2,874,000,000 bu, while last year's harvest was 2,614,000,000 bu, when the crop was below normal. The condition was placed at 69.3, against a ten year average of 80, and was the lowest with two exceptions since 1868.

Profit Taking Checks Rise.

The trade, however, was somewhat disappointed over the action of the market, which advanced 1⅛@2½c Thursday's finish to a new high on the present movement, but there was not the aggressive outside buying which has characterized bull markets in the past, and pit observers said a good part of the bulge seemed due to the operations of local professionals. Profit taking and selling on resting orders checked the upturn, with the close at net gains of ½@1½c, with September 87⅜@87½c, December 83¼@83⅜c, and March 86⅜@86½c.

May Harvest Smaller Crop.

If the corn crop is forced to go ten days more without rain a yield of under 2,300,000,000 bu is expected by R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Bros. & Co., statistician, although with favorable weather it may still be possible to harvest 2,600,000,000 bu.

B. W. Snow, Barlett Frazier in his summary of conditions claimed that the full extent of the corn crop loss could only be measured as the season advances, so that present forecasts are to be taken as only indicative. The crop is deteriorating at the rate of 100,000,000 bu per week, according to H. C. Donovan, the Logan and Bryan crop expert.

The forecast was for generally fair weather, although there is a possibility of showers in some sections. There was no let up in the claims of crop deterioration in messages from the interior, while the Springfield, Ill., weather man reported that there was less rainfall in that district during the March-July period than at any time in the last fifty-three years.

Wheat Market Unsettled.

Bullish factors seem to have little lasting effect on the wheat market, and while there was an upturn of around 1c in the early trading in sympathy with wheat and on the removal of hedges against export sales, the market flattened out quickly and broke around 2c from the top and finished within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of ⅞@1⅛c. September was 85⅝@85¾c at the last with December, 91@91⅛c.

Houses with northwestern connections sold December rather persistently, presumably hedging. Winnipeg, however, was off only ¼@⅜c for the day, although a department of agriculture report suggested that the carryover on July 1 was 149,000,000 bu, including the amount in bond in the United States, or the same as last year.

Private crop estimates placed the aggregate yield of spring and winter wheat at 811,000,000 bu, or the same as a month ago, and compared with 807,000,000 bu harvested last year. Local statisticians look for around 379,000,000 bu in the three Canadian provinces against 276,000,000 bu harvested in 1929.

Holiday in Liverpool.

Liverpool wheat market will be closed today and Monday and there was considerable evening up for the holidays with the close ⅛@¼d higher. Export sales of all positions were placed at 1,000,000 bu or more mainly Manitobas, the pool doing the bulk of the business.

Oats are coming in for more attention and there was an excellent class of buying of futures due to the low price. The close was 1¼@1⅜c higher with September, 37¼c, and December, 41⅛@41¼c at the last. The crop is estimated by local statisticians at 1,291,000,000 bu, compared with 1,239,000,000 bu last year and is 21,000,000 bu below the average of the last five years.

Rye showed independent strength, and gained ⅜@½c despite the break in wheat, September finishing at 55⅝c, and December, 61½c. Offerings were light and it was claimed a better cash demand was developing.

Manufacturers, Workers Reach Hosiery Agreement

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—An agreement between manufacturers and workers in the full fashioned hosiery industry was ready for signing today, affecting 40 to 50 manufacturers and some 15,000 workers. Counsel for the manufacturers said the agreement fixed prices for labor, provided for submission of disputes to arbitration, and set up an employés' unemployment insurance fund to which manufacturers would contribute at the outset and to which both employers and employés would add resources. The wage terms of the agreement were withheld pending the signing of the pact.

Rush Marks Expiration of Phone Rights

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—The eleventh-hour rush to exercise American Telephone and Telegraph company stock rights, which expired today, was expected to result in an inflow of approximately 120 million dollars to the company in the last business day. Such an amount represents a near record for such a financial operation. It concluded the telephone company's major financing step of the year.

The final figures on the number of subscriptions to stock under the rights offered to the stockholders will not be available for a day or two. Many of the subscriptions were made by mail. It was surmised that at least 250 million dollars of the $257,940,700 total rights were exercised.

At the close of business last night the company had received about 225,000 subscriptions to its new issue, resulting in about 130 million dollars in cash for the company.

Officials estimated today that about 40,000 additional subscriptions were received during the day, but as a great many of the late subscribers are the holders of large blocks of stocks, the inflow of funds was expected to increase sharply.

Trading in the rights on the New York stock exchange was suspended yesterday, but cash dealings were carried on today in the securities division of the produce exchange and in the over the counter market. On the produce exchange prices ranged between 18⅛ and 17¾ in the early dealings.

SAYS PRICE CUTS, TIME PAYMENTS MAINTAIN SALES

Drastic price reductions and extended payments prevented any severe slump last month in sales of Montgomery Ward and company, Chicago mail order and chain store concern, according to the monthly statement issued by President George B. Everitt last night.

"July sales were $18,668,623, a decrease of only 5.75 per cent compared with the unusual showing made in July, 1929, when the stimulus of a radical prepaid freight and postage arrangement boosted sales 41.73 per cent over July, 1928," Mr. Everitt said. "This showing, in the face of the recently announced discontinuance of the policy of prepaying freight charges, reflects the active sales effort of the company and an upward trend in buying. Sales for the first seven months of this year totaled $148,853,726, compared with $142,615,883 for the corresponding period in 1929, an increase of 4.37 per cent.

"The initial response to price reductions and time payments has been encouraged and is reflected to some extent in our July figures. We expected and received some criticism from those who felt that we were merely inviting business from people who would take advantage of the plan to buy luxuries. An analysis of orders received to date, however, indicates that the people who are buying on this plan are confining their purchases almost exclusively to necessity merchandise."

MIDLAND UNITED PLANS EXTENSION OF GAS PIPE LINE

Midland United company, Insull utility concern operating in Indiana, has announced plans for the further extension of its gas pipe line system.

Under the development program approximately 185 miles of new lines will be constructed which will bring the total mileage of the system to 841 and will result in the further interconnection of a large number of cities served by Midland subsidiaries.

Included in the plans are a 24 mile line from Bloomington to Bedford, a 21 mile line from Martinsville to Franklin, and a 40 mile line, Franklin to Seymour by the way of Columbus.

APPROVE 4% BOOST IN LIVE STOCK FREIGHT RATES TO THE EAST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—(AP)—An increase of around four per cent in live stock freight rates to eastern cities, effective Oct. 15, was approved today by an interstate commerce commission decision.

The advance in the freight rates on cattle, hogs and sheep resulted from a reconsideration of findings by which the commission instituted rate reductions in 1928, over railroad protests which are still pending in courts.

The key rate to the new schedule, which is that borne by lvie stock shipments from Chicago to New York City and other population centers nearby, is now 50.5 cents per 100 pounds. The commission's decision today allowed that to be increased to 53 cents.

The key rate for shipments from the south, which applies on traffic from Nashville to New York City and neighboring points, will become 61 cents under the new arrangement as compared with 60 cents at present.

REFINANCING IS ASKED FOR STATE LINE GENERATING

The State Line Generating company—an Insull enterprise—yesterday filed a petition with the public service commission of Indiana which proposes reorganization of its financial structure. The petition asks permission to issue and sell $15,000,000 of first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, series A; $8,000,000 of five year 5½ per cent debentures and 717,600 shares of common stock without par value to yield not less than $7,176,000.

At the same time the company proposes to call for redemption on Nov. 1, 1930, the entire issue of $14,000,000 of two year 5½ per cent notes due Dec. 1, 1930, and $7,000,000 two year 5½ per cent notes due May 1, 1931.

It is stated that the purpose of the proposed new financing is to enable the company to finance itself more advantageously, to reimburse its treasury for capital expenditures already made, provide additional working capital, and to provide for preliminary expenses connected with plant enlargement.

The company, whose plant is located on the shore of Lake Michigan at Hammond, is owned either directly or through subsidiary corporations by the Commonwealth Edison company, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois and other Insull corporations. The first unit of the station, completed last year, is the largest generating unit in the world. Another unit is to be finished in 1932 and the third in 1933.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 1.—The stock market was about as active as a mud turtle taking a sun bath on a midstream rock today, and just about as likely to wake up and start climbing or to slide back into the lily pads. It was one of those dog day markets that only August can produce, and it was easily the dullest of the year.

The total trading just managed to struggle up to 1,090,210 shares, and that is a record of sorts, since the previous low ebb of the year was July 2, when 1,231,000 shares changed hands. One has to check back to July 19, 1928, to find a quieter session.

There were a lot of reasons for the seeming inattention to business. One was the approaching week-end. Another was the lack of information on which to place bets as to which way the trading would slide.

Tickers Loaf.

It seemed fitting that a wishy-washy market such as the present one is should slow down just at the time when the road was cleared for speed. The new high speed tickers found hardly enough business to keep the old tickers going. Nevertheless there are optimists who believe there will be plenty of work for the new tickers before the end of this year.

And now for the short and simple annals of the stock market's Friday of relaxation. Up until 1:30 the volume of trading had not reached three-quarters of a million shares. Trading was characterized by weakness, particularly in the local utility stocks. Then spirits perked up a bit and prices steadied under fitful trading. Transactions were in such small volume, however, that it could hardly be said there was liquidation to amount to anything in the morning or strength of any value in the afternoon.

The bears were too listless to adopt aggressive tactics and the bulls just didn't care. Toward the close the market was irregular, with the leaders above the lows of the forenoon.

What Do They Do?

What did they do? Well, American Tobacco in light trading gained 8¾ points, while Celotex preferred, in considerably lighter trading, lost 26¼ points; J. I. Case picked up 5½ points and Auburn Auto shed 4 points; Diamond Match climbed 9½ and Peoples Gas 9. Consolidated Gas slipped 3½, along with Electric Power and Light, which shed 2½. It was a bad day for safety razors, as Autostrop was nicked for 3¼ points and Gillette 4¾ points.

Up among the old guards all was quiet and it was difficult to detect signs of breathing. United States Steel slumbered softly, with its financial aspect unchanged. Radio lost ⅛ of a point before the sandman called. General Motors didn't turn a wheel and there was hardly a flicker in Warner Brothers.

The way trading dried up when attempts were made to depress prices was one of the most encouraging developments of the day for those who look for the silver lining. Nobody cared to take sides. It was just another day in Wall street.

Rubber Growers in Favor of Government Regulation

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Government legislation for the regulation of production or exportation of rubber in all producing countries was suggested tonight in a communique issued by the British Rubber Growers' association in coöperation with Dutch rubber growers.

The communique says that only by government intervention can widespread distress in the industry be averted, and that without a general plan to regular production the accumulation of stock will threaten "the whole foundation of the industry."

International Telephone and Telegraph.

Will you kindly advise me regarding International Telephone and Telegraph common stock. Is it high grade or considered speculative? How are its earnings?—E. M.

During the last six years International Telephone and Telegraph corporation has developed from a concern of moderate size to a world power in the communications business, second to none as far as geographical diversity is concerned. Its business includes telephone, telegraph, cable and radio and it has manufacturing equipment in many countries.

One of the corporation's biggest problems is the welding of the various units into a whole, and progress has already been made in this respect. By eliminating personnel duplications the company has been able to save several million dollars.

Net income for 1929 was $17,732,158, or $3.03 per share, against net for 1928 of $14,596,336, or $3.42 per share.

Net income of the corporation for the first quarter of 1930 was $3,353,735 equal to 57 cents per share of common, against $4,187,031, or 84 cents per share on a smaller capitalization for the first quarter of 1929.

The company ascribed the drop in earnings almost entirely to decreases in the net income of Postal Telegraph, Commercial Cables and All America Cables, subsidary companies.

International Telephone and Telegraph corporation has all foreign rights to Bell patents, with the exception of Canada.

It is preëminent in the field of private telephone operation and supply outside the United States.

Dividends have been paid regularly since 1920, the present rate on the new stock after the three for one split being $2 annually.

JULY BUILDING GAINS 81% OVER PREVIOUS MONTH

Places It in Second High Position for '30.

BY AL CHASE.

Building construction in Chicago, based on permits issued, totaled $8,033,350 for July, which is an 81 per cent gain over June and places July in second high position for the year, according to the building survey of S. W. Straus & Co. This is a significant fact because July is normally a dull building month. May holds first place for the year with a total of $11,697,300.

Although a loss of 43 per cent is registered against July of last year, present figures indicate that the slow climb which started in March of this year, and broken only by June's slump to $4,419,400, is being continued.

Athletic Club's Shops Rented.

With the closing of a ten year lease yesterday by Mabel Schamberg for the shop at 630 North Michigan avenue, the Bowes Realty company reports that the Woman's Athletic Club building's first floor shops are now 100 per cent rented. This concern represented the club in all of the transactions.

Miss Schramberg, interior decorator, now located in the Blackstone hotel, will occupy her new shop early in September. At the present time she is abroad, where she will purchase some of the fixtures for her new establishment.

Buys Lake Geneva Estate.

A. G. Cox, an old time resident of Chicago, has purchased the Lake Geneva estate of Adolph S. Helquist, president of the Liberty Trust and Savings bank, 3158 Roosevelt road, for an undisclosed consideration. The property is on the north shore of the lake. W. F. Best & Son of Lake Geneva were the only brokers.

The Vortex Cup company is adding a large four story annex to its plant at 421 North Western avenue, which, it is claimed, will practically double its capacity. It is stated that the addition and changes in the present building will represent a total investment of $400,000. Completion is set for November.

Willoughby & Co. report the following leases: W. A. Nash Clothing company, store at 115 North Clark street, for eight years; Casanave's Orange Products, Inc., five year lease at 70 West Randolph street.

Chicago A. of C. to Compile Foreign Trade Directory

A foreign trade directory of Chicago, compilation of which will begin at once, is announced by the foreign commerce committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Preliminary plans call for the printing of 25,000 copies. Both members and nonmembers of the Association of Commerce will be listed without charge. Questionnaires will be mailed within a few days.

...receipts at Chicago today: 300 cattle, ...hogs, and 4,000 sheep.

Comparatively small supplies, coupled with fair eastern demand, boosted hog prices 10@15c early yesterday. Part of the gain was erased later when local interests refused to buy at the full strength. The extreme top and general average prices advanced 10c at $9.75 and $8.70, respectively, comparing with a top of $9.75 and average of $8.60 the previous Friday.

Light and light butchers advanced most, extreme weights and packing sows showing very little change for the day. Hog receipts at eleven markets this week are below any corresponding period since 1915. The total for the five days at Chicago at 104,000 compares with 124,648 a week ago and with 130,216 a year ago.

Hog Futures Slow.

Trading in hog futures was slow but generally steady yesterday. Offers and bids were too far apart for trading on most contracts at the close. September mediums sold at $9.45. December light mediums and heavy were offered at $8.35@8.50, but the highest bid was $8.15. October light and mediums were offered at $9.25 bids for feeding lambs for August and September delivery were unchanged at $6.25@6.50.

Yesterday's meager supply of 2,000 cattle cleared slowly, but generally steadied the week's full price gains. Steers were 50@75c and in spots $1.00 above a week ago. Choice 217 lb. yearlings topped the price list at $13.00, being the highest price of the week for cattle of that weight.

Quality graded better than usual on Friday and bulk of sales held at $11.00@13.00, against $7.00@8.25 a week earlier. Cows and heifers showed the week's gain of 50c@$1.00 advance. Calves were unchanged. Stockers and feeders continued slow.

Lambs Bring $9.50.

Additional gains of mostly 25c were scored in fat lambs yesterday, bringing top western range stock to $9.50, under lighter sorting, the highest price paid this week. Natives were sorted mainly at $9.00@9.25, the buck lambs selling at $8.00 and culls at $5.50@6.00. Aged sheep were scarce and unchanged. Demand for feeding lambs showed some improvement when available supplies dropped off abruptly yesterday.

During the last few weeks of depression, hogs have held up better than any other class of live stock. The general average for the month, however, was lowest for July since 1924, at $8.86, with only two lower July averages on record since 1915. Hogs a year ago averaged $11.30 and two years ago, $10.70.

The cattle average at $9.50 was only 36c above the lowest July average since 1914, barring 1921 when the price went down to $8.10. Cattle a year ago averaged $14.85 and two years ago, $15.00.

Cattle receipts at 180,832 were second smallest for July since 1916. The total at 566,579 compares with 681,358 a year ago. Sheep receipts at 354,499 were almost the same size as a year ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 5,000 hogs and 1,000 sheep, against 130 cattle, 4,117 hogs and 4,341 sheep the previous Saturday, and 196 cattle, 4,980 hogs and 333 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 40,000 to 52,000, H. C. Carlson market reporter; W. C. White and F. Knutzen, 15,000; F. M. Sherwood, 37,000; C. Hardwick, 38,000; S. Lund, W. T. Boehler, J. T. Brown and C. Daley, 40,000; H. Pattison, 42,000; J. M. Sievers, 44,000; N. R Denny and S. Darling, 45,000; R. B. Ellis, 50,000 and H. L. Johannesen, 52,000.
